

Board Passes Plans For FC FM Station

Bob Ballow and Bob Johnson were told last Monday night that they would be allowed to go ahead on plans to construct a proposed F.M. radio station.

The board of trustees passed the proposal by unanimous decision.

The estimated cost of this station will be $4250, and will consist of a 10 watt transmitter that will reach a radius of 15 miles.

The purpose of the proposed station is to train students in programming, announcing and radio engineering.

The content of the programming will be study music, local and national news, sports, jazz and classical music.

The tentative schedule is as follows:

Monday thru Friday:

Sign on — 8:00 p.m.

Study Music — 8:01 - 9:29

Audio Show — 9:30 - 9:59

News of the Day — 10:00 - 10:10 p.m.

Sign off — 10:15 p.m.

Saturday:

Sign on — 3:00 p.m.

The station is expected to be in operation and on the air by next semester.

Journalism Staffs Meet at S. F. State

"We gained many new ideas for Foothill's newspaper at the Journalism Association of Junior Colleges in San Francisco last Saturday," stated Lee Fairchild, editor-in-chief.

Members of the journalism staff attending the meeting were Lee Fairchild, editor-in-chief; Barbie Titsworth, news editor; Dennis Britton, city editor; and Marie Fiore, copy editor. As a beginning newspaper the staff didn't enter any competition. Richard Johnson, faculty advisor, attended the conference with Ervin Harlacher, director of public information.

The students entered different workshops to get several different views on matters pertaining to newspaper policy and troubles in staff operation. Ervin Harlacher directed one of the meetings on the problems in public information.

A lot of interesting ideas were discussed at the different meetings.

Motor Starts Cellar Fire

A dramatic display, put on by a three horse power motor, proved the axiom, where there is smoke there's fire, untrue Monday evening at 7:30 in the Foothill College basement.

William Harwood, assistant supervisor of the evening division, was warned of the danger when he caught the smell of smoke. Upon reaching the basement he discovered the motor which provides heat for the library doing its best to fill the cellar with a dense cloud.

Due to the fact the motor was enclosed in concrete partitions, danger of extensive damage was small. Firemen had little more to do than make the trip. The only damage done was to the motor, estimated at $200.

College Represented At State J.C. Stud. Govt.

Five Foothill College student representatives and two faculty advisors are attending a California Junior College Student Government Association conference in Bakersfield. The conference started the 20th and will run until the 22nd.

Purpose of the conference is to discuss student government problems and to start a group effort toward solving them, according to John Allen, Foothill student body president. Those attending are Arla L.

DeHart, dean of students; Miss Joan Seavey, counselor; John Allen, president; Joe Brundage, vice president; Carolyn Barber, secretary; Wayne Childers, commissioner of finance; Jim Johnson, commissioner of activities; Nat Alder, commissioner of publications.

Work shops consist of finance, publications, athletics, student government and campus activities.

The conference is being held at the Bakersfield Inn.

New Campus Progress

Trustees Pass Site Development

The Board of Trustees approved the master site development plan on Monday, Nov. 17. Next step will be approval of the preliminary program which is scheduled for Dec. 2.

The present theme for actual construction is to disturb the land characteristics as little as possible. This will be done through the conservation of trees and land formations.

Parking area will provide one space per student or 3,500 individual spaces. This area will not be visible from the campus proper.

The P. E. department will be separated from the main campus buildings in such a way as to not disturb classes. Three swimming pools will be included in these departments. In regard to the recent developments in space and space travel science, the new campus will have an observatory and a planetarium. It is likely these departments will become standard for all new college campuses.

Bordered on one side by El Monte Ave. and on the other by the continuation of the Junipero Serra hiway, movement of faculty and student traffic will not present any problem.

John Pesek has announced the following colors that will be voted upon with the mascot choices. They are red and silver, red and black, green and black, green and gold, black and gold, orange and black, two shades of blue, orange and purple, brown and white, brown and gold.

Today will be important to the student body as they decide what will be, in the future, the mascot and the traditions of a new college.

The Pacer was suggested by James Jones, student union director. The pacer is a horse with a distinctive gait or rack and will run in direct contrast to the rest of the colleges with horses as mascots. The other colleges have mustangs, or broncos, or some other type of low brow horse.

The Owl, dubbed "Footsie" by a member of the local press, came from a statue of the owl that was erected by the architect for the old grammar school that was here before the college moved in.

Hornets was selected to be presented to the student body in the final screening session of Student Council Wednesday night. This was selected in a review of all previous suggestions.

Other names were eliminated on one of the following bases: (1) another team in northern California was already using it, (2) council felt it had no relationship to this area (Polar Bear, i.e.), and (3) council felt it bore an unpleasant or inappropriate connotation.

Condors, a name which had been publicized as a name in competition for more than a week, was eliminated at this session. Hawks was the last proposed name to be dropped. Student Council felt it should present more than two names for student vote.

If none of the names receives a majority vote today a runoff between the two with the most votes will be held next Monday. Council members also decided to refer selection of the colors to the traditions committee.

Owls, to the knowledge of the traditions committee, is the only proposed name which is used by another college in California.

Neither the Pacer nor the Hornet appear to be used as a mascot by any other college in the area.

Another mascot, suggested by John Allen, was the cheetah, an Asian or African member of the cat family, with only slightly withdrawn claws. They are about the size of a leopard, are very swift, and are trained by people in different countries to hunt. John Allen also suggested the colors turquoise and black.

Psych. Class Visits Agnew

The psychology class of Foothill College under the guidance of Dr. O. B. Nereson will visit Agnew State Hospital today, Nov. 21, from 2 to 4 p.m.

Dr. Arthur Burton, head psychologist at Agnew, has arranged an overall program that includes three things. 1) Discussion on institutional therapy which means that all elements within the hospital work from a therapeutic point of view regardless of their level. 2) Sit in on case conferences. 3) Discuss the causes of mental illness.

Dr. Nereson stated "This is more than a tourist trip, it will be a trip where the class will get experience."

Foothill News

Editorial

Litterbug

In a large college it is often hard to find much spirit. At times it is hard to find a personal pride when a student is one among thousands. Here at Foothill this is not the problem; that is to say, size is not the problem.

It may be hard for some students to take much personal pride in a school that is still in the disarranged shape that Foothill is, but everything possible is being done to bring things to order. In the meantime we, meaning the students, have a responsibility to our school and to ourselves.

A small problem: the slipping away of a coffee cup from the hand of a student in a hurry? When 200 hurried students allow this to happen, it is no longer a small problem, but a large pile of paper coffee cups.

One more paper lunch sack isn't going to hurt the appearance of Foothill if it is left in the parking lot. Or is it?

Next time you can't find any place to put that cigaret we suggest you swallow it, for after all, in the long run it has the same effect as smoking it, and it leaves the halls free of the mosaic ground-in tobacco appearance.

The custodians in the past have had to spend valuable time picking up trash which should have been left in more appropriate places. This does not annoy them, but it slows up progress for they could be doing more important things toward the completion of our temporary campus.

Most of us will not be around when the new campus is completed so this is the Foothill College we will know and the college we will remember. It's yours and it is ours. How about doing your share in improving the conditions around which we work.

Traditions

Today the Foothill student body will vote for a mascot for their college. To do a good job of voting the voter must have an intelligent view point and not be directed by emotions. The students of this college are, in the most part, educated and will be voting in a few years if they aren't now.

We suggest that the students take under advisement the criteria or measuring stick that will be needed to pick a good mascot. As a criteria we would like to suggest to the students that they remember three basic points in selecting their mascot and colors.

First the student must remember that whatever they choose in the way of a mascot and colors will be used for years and isn't just for the students now attending Foothill. We feel that the student body must first consider the association of the mascot with the area.

As the Foothill district is in a prosperous area and with the campus to be located in the hills, we feel this should be of prime importance in the selection of mascot. Second in the list of criteria would be, will the mascot show action, and will it fit in with the ideas of the students?

Third on the list would be, how would the mascot compare with others in the area? And would we be copying any nearby college?

If the Foothill students can be sure of what they are voting for the college will have a good tradition to hand on to its future members. But on the other hand if the college shouldn't think and evaluate the mascot and colors we will have trouble on our hands.

In attending the student council meeting we have noticed a very intelligent discussion of the mascot and colors. The idea of screening the mascot and the colors will be a good idea, therefore we expect that with some good ideas going into it, there should be a good choice of traditions from which to choose.

We know that, as a thinking student body, you are planning to investigate the traditions and will vote as you see fit. We intend to vote for the mascot that we feel is best and we hope to see you at the polls doing the same.

Overdue Books Profit Library Not Students,

People who make it a habit to forget to turn in library books on time will soon find out that it is a very unprofitable habit.

For students' convenience, library fines are as follows: one hour reserves and college catalogs — 25 cents for first hour plus 5 cents for each additional hour until 4 p.m. Three day reserves — 15c per school day. Periodicals, pamphlets and one-week books — 5c per school day. Absence does not excuse fines.

Fines must be paid because grades and transcripts will be withheld by the college office until they are.

Quite a few more students are using the growing library, although the percentage of people using it is still a small minority of the number of enrolled students.

Letters To The Editor

Newspaper Called Garbage Can Liner

To the Editor-in-Chief:

Whether or not you want some outside opinions of the garbage can liner that you call a newspaper, you are going to get some. Most of the news was not newsworthy and what was, was old stuff. Names were misspelled, poor grammar dominated the stories and headlines, and much of the information was wrong. I don't know what kind of a bonehead staff you have, but I think they should turn in their typewriters. If they are journalism majors I suggest they take their deficiency (they surely got them for this course) notices to the registrars office and attempt to change their majors to something that they can make good in, because they will never make it in this field. If this college can't put out a better paper than the first one I think Foothill should abandon the whole idea before some outsider sees it, especially some other college. If truth offends you I suggest you take some action to correct the existing situation.

Edition Readable

Editor, Foothill News:

The Foothill News staff is to be commended for the excellent "First Edition". It is attractive, readable, interesting, and in the best newspaper tradition. Te Salutamus!

H. H. Semans,
Dean of Instruction.

Fairchild Is Editor of FC Newspaper

Lee Fairchild was appointed first editor-in-chief of the Foothill newspaper by the Board of Publications.

The points taken into consideration before choosing a person to fill this important office were responsibility, ability and know-how. Lee was appointed by unanimous vote of the board.

One of the first duties of the editor-in-chief is to appoint his staff. Lee, with the assistance of Richard Johnson, advisor, chose the following persons to the paper's staff positions:

City Editor ... Dennis Britton
News Editor Barbara Titsworth
Sports Editor Bob Siebenthal
Copy Editor ... Marie Fiore
Copy Editor ... Bob Temple
Advertising Mgr. ... Nat Alder
Circulation ... Ray Babb
Photographers Walt Kaufman
Len Walker

Other purposes of the publications meeting, which was held Oct. 5, were to discuss the purpose of the board, student responsibilities and faculty guidance, and to choose a name for the college newspaper.

A permanent name of the school newspaper was not selected because the board felt it would be wise to wait until the student body chose a mascot and school colors. As soon as the mascot and colors are decided, a name for the paper will be selected by the Editorial board and approved by the Board of Publications.

Editor Outlines Jobs For Staff Members

by Lee Fairchild

Setting the pace for the student body is a part of every junior college newspaper's job. Foothill College has a newspaper that is trying to do just that, so that without unfair push of anything they can make their ideas felt through the editorials they write.

Members of the editorial staff try to pick out the facts. Working in this capacity are Lee Fairchild as editor in chief. His job consists of helping all other members of the staff on problems that might arise, making sure the rest of the staff meets deadlines, and seeing that all meetings are attended by a member of the staff.

Barbie Titsworth handles the job of news editor for the paper. Her job is to set up the paper in its form, to check on all proof at the printers and to assign heads to the stories in the lab.

Dennis Britton, city editor, handles all stories and assigns them to reporters or editors for writing. He is responsible for catching inaccuracies, untruths, distortion or policy.

Miss Grace Bird, associate director of the relations with school from the University of California, visited Foothill College all day Thursday.

Miss Bird met with Dr. Semans, dean of instruction, and Arla L. DeHart, dean of students, to discuss near letters and science requirements on the Berkeley campus.

Bob Siebenthal handles the sports editor's job. Having former experience in sports writing at Fremont High School, he has the job of organizing and handling all sports stories and seeing that his stories and editorials are copy-read. Judy Mufich helps him on sports copy by covering, in most part, the girls intra-mural sports.

Arranging for advertisements and handling the financial work is Nat Alder. Nat is the Press Club representative to the board of publications and the commissioner of publications on the new student council. He lays out advertising material and confers with the news editor on how much space will be available for the ads in the paper.

Ray Babb handles the circulation of the paper for the school. With the help of several members of the reporting staff, he sends out requests to most of the junior college papers in California asking that they send a copy of their paper for reference.

Handling the copy and proof reading are the responsibilities of co-copy editors, Marie Fiore and Bob Temple. To the newspaper staff this is the whole foundation of the paper. All mistakes must be caught here and the copy must be rewritten and read for accuracy.

Helping on the copy desk are Sharon Kenward, Gail Sipple, Bessie Davis, Sandy Killian, Leland Spencer, Steve Bishop.

Alba Osorio Active Student At Foothill

Most of the students of Foothill College know who Alba Osorio is from her candidacy for commissioner of activities.

Alba has a very interesting background. She is 16 years old and a freshman. Alba was born in Bogota, Columbia. She lived there thirteen and a half years before moving to Mexico where she went to high school for one year.

She then moved to Menlo Park, California, where she attended Menlo Atherton High School for one year. Alba will complete this year at Foothill before moving back to Bogota to finish her college education. The Columbia school system is very different in comparison with the United States. They have thirteen years of school compared with the 12 year system in this country.

Her father, Dr. Enrique Osorio, is teaching Hispanic-American sociology at Stanford University and is taking part in the foreign language club here at Foothill.

Alba has many hobbies, including dancing of any kind, swimming and roller skating.

One of the things she likes most about California is that "everyone is so friendly." She also likes the casual living. Her main dislike is rock and roll music.

Officers Announced At "Hawkins" Dance

The first student body officers of Foothill College were announced at the Sadie Hawkins Dance on Friday, Nov. 7.

Dancing, hayrides and games were the events of the evening. The hayrides took the students up to the new campus site in the Los Altos Hills. They made their way through orchards and over side roads that didn't lead any where.

There were prizes given to those who won the dance contests, and a number was drawn for a door prize toward the end of the dance.

ALBA OSORIO

Deficiency Notices

What are the reasons for receiving deficiency notices? Mainly they are: 1. Lack of study, 2. Outside work, 3. Extra-curricular interest, 4. Indifferent attitude, 5. Excessive absences, 6. Previous training inadequate, 7. Neglect of assignments, 8. Aptitude questionable.

WOW—Johnny Allen, president, seems happy as he is surrounded by his campaign managers, Deanna Winkelhake and Diane Davidsen.

Class Gives Political Talk

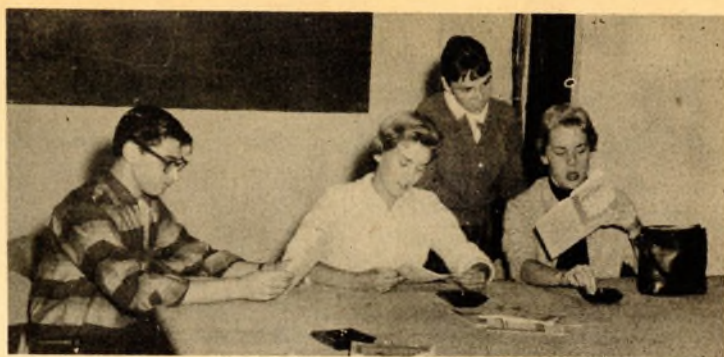

Oratory resounds through the halls as the speech class, under the instruction of Dr. Gale Engle, meets every Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 8 a.m. Every student is required to average one speech a week. At present the class is giving political speeches dealing with current events.

The main objectives of the class are to learn effective speech organization and to learn good presentation of a speech.

During the semester each student will present a biographical, visual aid, statistical and a special occasion speech.

The students have attended a dinner at Hank's and have gone to Stanford University to hear Joseph Wood Krutch speak on "Average, Normal and Ideal in Human Behavior."

In the future the speech class plans to have civic leaders as guest speakers.

Drama Club Formed; Elects Keys President

A Drama Club has been newly formed at Foothill College with Bill Keys as president and Deanna Winkelhake as secretary.

Keys says that the purpose of this club is to develop an interest in the fine art of drama, and in the future to include a drama class in the Foothill schedule of classes.

This interest is being developed by regular meetings on Wednesday nights from 7:30 to 9.

At present the members of the club are reading the play, "Our Town," and listening to guest speakers such as Miss Roberta Northway on the art of directing.

The first product of this club will be Christmas Carol or a similar play concerned with light humor.

Art Students View Van Gogh Exhibit

The Art Appreciation class, under the supervision of Kenneth Orrett, art teacher, is planning a trip to San Francisco to view the exhibition of paintings by Vincent Van Gogh.

Van Gogh was a 19th century expressionist painter who is credited with helping to shape our modern art today.

Orrett hopes, through the viewing of such exhibits, to develop within his classes a better understanding of art and its relation to our time.

Deficiencies Given Third Of Students

Approximately 500 day and evening students are receiving deficiency notices, according to Dr. H. H. Semans, dean of instruction. An estimated 1/3 of the students will receive them. This is a vivid demonstration of what has been announced for the College's academic standards, he said.

The accreditation report, recently approved by the board of trustees, emphasizes "extremely high standards because of a belief that students must learn to bear the brunt of their own failings."

On the basis of these high standards Dr. Semans believes that probably 20 to 25 percent of the present student body will drop out by the end of the first semester, if not before.

Dr. Semans emphasized three major points about the academic standards. They are (1) The faculty is obligated to help every student realize as fully as possible his potential for doing college work; (2) Collegiate academic standards must be maintained if the college is to fulfill its obligation as a college for qualified students; (3) Industry needs quality in technicians even more than it needs quantity.

J.C. Benefit To Students

Students attending two-year colleges do better on transfer to four-year institutions than those attending senior colleges from their freshman year, according to performance studies in both types of schools.

It has been generally found that those students who upon graduation from high school are eligible for a senior institution but attend a two-year college, perform better in their last two years than those who began at a four-year college.

The student who did not do well in high school usually does satisfactory work in four-year schools after transferring from junior colleges.

Seventy-eight per cent of all college freshmen and sophomores in California are enrolled in junior colleges.

Election Aftermath

Elected Officers Face Duties

by Nat Alder

The election is over and the heat of the campaigning has died with the stillness that now hangs in the uncluttered halls of Foothill College.

The newly elected officers now take their responsibility in tow. The student body has elected for its president John Allen. Allen was chairman of social committee and also a member of the interim student council. He feels that the president must have leadership ability, set a definite goal, and must appreciate his obligation toward the student body.

Joe Brundage, vice president, was president of his senior class, vice president of the student council and vice president of the science club in high school.

Miss Carolyn Barber, secretary, ran unopposed.

Commissioner of activities, Jim Johnson, served on the traditions committee, the student council. He was also one of 11 candidates to attend the conference for Northern California Junior Colleges.

Nat Alder, commissioner of publications, also ran unopposed. He is advertising manager for the college newspaper.

Wayne Childers, commissioner of finance, is a veteran who is majoring in accounting.

NAT ALDER — Commissioner of Publications.

AS I SEE IT

BY BOB SIEBENTHALL

Another question has been brought up concerning the athletic program at Foothill. Certainly it is one that deserves thought and consideration before attempting an answer. Here it is. "Since there is still time to form teams in spring sports, why can't Foothill participate in intercollegiate competition this year?"

With the cooperation of Coach Bill Abbey I will try to answer this question. Schedules are always made up in advance, usually a year or more. This means that Foothill would have trouble in obtaining opponents. Consequently we would end up playing junior varsity, freshmen, and second rate competition in general.

Occasionally a stronger foe might squeeze Foothill into an open date, but this would be rare. It could be equally as disastrous since most athletes obtained a permit to go to a junior college outside of Foothill district.

Regardless of how strong or weak an opponent is, it is considered intercollegiate competition, thus using up one year of eligibility of every individual competing in his respective sport.

Since it is unlikely that Foothill would be able to field a very strong force in any sport this year, participants probably would not be playing with a winning team. Certainly it is possible that we may not have any winners for a few years to come, but at least individuals will be using up their eligibility against keener competition.

However, I think Foothill has a very promising athletic future. There is nothing that I would like to see more than for the football squad to win three or four conference games. This is not as much of an impossibility as some might think as Foothill should gain some fine prospects from high schools in the district.

Many students who wanted to participate in athletics this year procured a release to go to San Jose City College or San Mateo College. These students probably will not be released next fall and will have to attend Foothill.

With this knowledge there is no reason why this college couldn't produce successful teams in all sports. In two or three years Foothill could actually have strong contenders in every sport.

The sports staff is still open for any questions regarding the athletic program. All questions will be considered and answered in this column as space provides. They should be submitted to the news room (107) on or before the Monday preceding the Friday that the paper is issued.

It looks like this will be the last issue with "pigskin prognosis" until the New Year's Day classics. It is just as well as I proved that I'm not cut out to be a forecaster anyway. Next time I'll stick with the favorites and not try to outguess the experts.

I picked only five winners correctly out of 10 attempts. The syndicated prognosticators usually select from 75 to 80 per cent unerringly.

Here is the final regular grid season selections:
 Hartnell over Monterey
 California over Stanford
 U.S.C. over U.C.L.A.
 Wash. State over Wash.
 Oregon State over Oregon
 San Jose State over Iowa St.
 C.O.P. over San Diego State
 Fresno St. over San Fran St.
 Cal Poly over Santa Barbara
 S.F. '49ers over Green Bay

P. E. Locker Rooms Nearly Completed

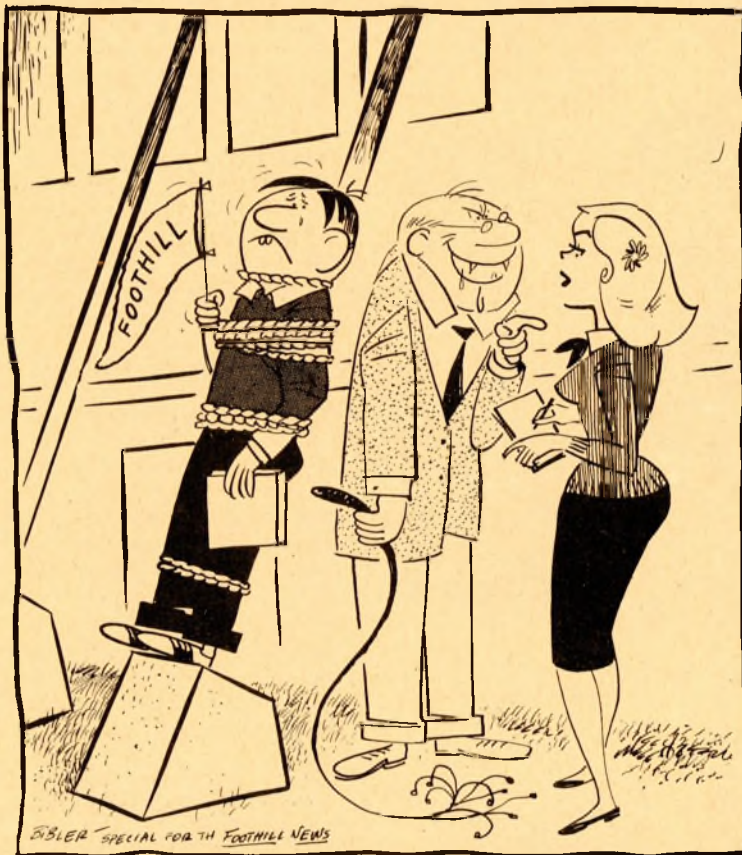

Physical education team sports classes are expected to have use of the locker and shower rooms by Nov. 26.

Failure of this building to be completed on schedule has been the lone hold-up for team sports participation.

The facilities will care for both men and women, with approximately 960 square feet in each half of the building. Included will be space for coaches as well as an equipment storage room.

This building is purposely designed to be portable so that it can be easily moved to the new campus,

Foothill Takes Bowling Honors At Hartnell Day

Foothill College bowling team edged out Monterey Peninsula College to take top honors in the bowling section of the Hartnell Intramural Sports Day held Nov. 8 at Salinas.

Foothill entered the tournament with two teams, as did San Francisco, San Jose, Oakland, Monterey, Marin, Diablo Valley and Hartnell.

Led by the tremendous bowling of Domingo Roldan, who racked up a 581 series, and Wayne Childers, who bowled a 526, Foothill was able to post a 2337 series to a 2187 for second place Monterey.

Pasadena Cancels

Pasadena City College has notified Coach Bill Abbey that they must cancel next year's football encounter against Foothill. Many of the potential gridders were already looking forward to making the trip to the Rose Bowl.

The chances are that this will not be the first cancellation of some athletic event while Foothill is still in the "infant" stage in promoting sports. A few might be routine revisions in schedules, but possibly more will be reconsiderations in judgment, since it is not probable that Foothill will be able to meet opposition with equal force, meaning same opponents do not want "pushovers" on their schedules.

However, this is not the reason Pasadena cancelled out. They felt they could not make the return trip to play Foothill the following year.

 Menlo 28-Diablo Valley 26

Foothill team number one consisted of Roldan, Wayne Childers 526, Don Yu 440, Bob Keegan 421, and Herb Moussa 369.

Team number two included Ray Babb with a 501 series, Alan Valerius 461, Jill Shaffer 405, John Pesek 378, and Bill Keys with 328.

Team number one scored highest to take first place in team series, while team number two rolled a 2073 to place in the top five.

In the highest individual series Foothill sparked again with Roldan's 581. Wayne Childers rolled a 220 to edge Roldan by two pins to capture the highest individual game posted.

Following the high team series, the two teams scores were added together and divided by the number of bowlers on the two teams, to end up with the average score per game of all participants. The results were:

Team	Ave.
Oakland	146.2
Foothill	143.7
Hartnell	136.5
San Jose	123.5
M. P. C.	118.0
C. C. S. F.	106.0

In the volleyball contest it was Hartnell coming out on top with Oakland placing a close second.

Badminton honors went to San Francisco City College, while Monterey Peninsula College dominated the tennis matches.
