

Enrollment above projected figures

Enrollment at De Anza College is up about 10 percent over the projected figure and is expected to go still higher, according to Carmelita Geraci, registrar at the college.

The projected figure called for 5650 students attending during the day and for 5000 attending evening courses.

"At present, we have approximately 6050 students registered for day courses and expect it to level off at about 6150," said Geraci.

THE REGISTRAR also noted that although the evening course enrollment was presently only 4800 the school expected this figure to climb to approximately 5800.

Miss Geraci attributes these increases to the present economic situation and job scarcity.

"People realize that they have more time for activities when jobs are scarce and so some return to school," said Miss Geraci.

SAN JOSE City College is the only other college in the area experiencing an increase in students and their enrollment is expected to reach over 7000.

The registrar said this is probably due to myriad technical courses offered at SJCC such as plumbing and electrical construction.

Exceeding the projected enrollment figures is not disastrous for De Anza stressed Miss Geraci. "On the contrary, I feel this gives students who's own junior college districts have closed out an opportunity to attend college elsewhere." "We are able to enroll these students plus new students without any problems," commented Miss Geraci.

FOOTHILL College met its predicted enrollment of 5700 and does not expect to surpass this figure this year.

Other colleges in the area are presently operating at their predicted levels. These schools are West Valley and Canada.

"Financially, its great for the college and educationally, its great for the students," remarked Miss Geraci. "We have approximately 12,000 students attending De Anza, either full-or part-time and I think this is wonderful."

Intramural sport program available for student use

De Anza College has recently added an Intramural Program to its schedule of sports for the 1971-72 school year. The program is designed to provide coeducational competition within De Anza for students who possess a competitive spirit, but have neither the time nor training to attempt the other intercollegiate athletic programs.

Intramural offers a vast variety of team sports, as well as individual sports, that correspond with the instructional physical education courses. These sports offer competitive levels of both beginning and advanced classifications.

THE INTRAMURAL Program was organized for both men and women students, and includes such activities as bowling, badminton, tennis, volleyball, archery, softball and golf.

For those students who do not wish to participate with others, there are also facilities for practice, free-play, work-outs, or just experimentation. There are also student-instructor-supervisors in most of the areas of activity.

CO-REC WILL also be sponsoring dances held on Tuesday nights on special occasions in the Physical Education area. There will also be the annual Ski Trip to Squaw Valley, which is planned for later in the school year.

Anyone interested in obtaining more information about Co-Rec or the Intramural Program may contact Miss Helen Windham, coordinator of the program, in office P.E. 51-A, Ext. 341.

De Anza P.E. teacher tells of many hobbies

By ANN THOMAS
La Voz Staff Writer

"A jack-of-all-trades in the Physical Education Department," is the self-description of Don Vick, physical education instructor.

The six-foot-two physical education instructor started teaching at De Anza College when the school first opened. Vick, a native of California, was born in the city of Ontario in 1935. He attended Chaffey High School where he was active in football, basketball, track and field. In 1953 he set the national record in high school shot put with a throw of 62-feet 5-inches.

AFTER graduating from high school he attended UCLA where he majored in Life Sciences and Physical Education and minored in Naval Science. For three years (1955-57) he was All American in track and field and in 1956 he served as an alternate to the Olympics in track and shot put. In the summer of 1955 and 1956 Vick toured Europe with the US track team.

Vick received his bachelor of science degree from UCLA in 1957. After UCLA he served in the Navy for two years as a Lt. (j.g.).

VICK IS now residing, as he puts it, "in that large city of Monta Vista."

Before coming to De Anza College Vick worked as a physical education instructor and coached cross country, track and field at Foothill College. He also worked with the UCLA athletic department for four years serving as the assistant track coach and head cross country coach.

Dr. Walter M. Garcia (left) chats with Don Fraser (standing), dean of instruction and Dr. A. Robert DeHart, president, during his visit to De Anza's campus last Thursday. Dr. Garcia is superintendent-president of Rio Hondo College in Whittier. He will return on Nov. 16 as the head of an evaluation team, composed of nine other members from various western colleges, in response to De Anza's application for accreditation. The team will spend three days on campus, visiting classrooms and informally chatting with students, faculty members, administrators and staff members. The College is attempting to obtain accreditation for a period of five years.

De Anza students interested in Operation SHARE, a four-county tutorial program, will have an opportunity to help younger students in their school work. The students range from kindergarten to high school age. Credit is given for each quarter of tutoring. See story on page 2.

Mini-College, an experiment in education which began last year, will be taught again this year in the winter and spring quarters. Mini-College curriculum was created to give students and teachers the opportunity to study and discuss subjects in depth. See story on page 3.

Nancy Maloney, a 19-year-old DAC student who is the reigning Miss Santa Clara County, will be vying for the title of Miss California in the state segment of the Miss America Beauty Pageant in Santa Cruz next June. Nancy won the local competition over 34 participants. See story page 3.

The Inter-Club Council will sponsor a flea market at De Anza on Saturday, Oct. 2, from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. in parking lot A. The purpose of the flea market is to allow DAC faculty, students, and the community at large to profit from their old usables. See story on page 3.

La Voz seeks letters to editor

A lack of communication has been decried for the past several years as the cause of many of the world's ills.

We, at La Voz, like to feel that we are providing some of the cure for these ailments on our campus. However, communication isn't a one-way street — it requires participation by more than one party.

You, our readers, can readily determine our thoughts and convictions but, without feedback, we are unable to ascertain yours.

Thus, we have our "Letters to the Editor" column in which we solicit the opinions, ideas or complaints of the student body, faculty, administration and staff. We, of course, are not compelled by either choice or tradition to publish them all, but we stand on our record of having published all but those which may have been libelous or which were lacking in decency.

A "Letters to the Editor" box is on the wall beside the door of L-41. If you are so inclined, please sign your name to the letter. If you should wish your name withheld, please indicate.

Also, please include a telephone number where you can be reached in the event we may need additional information.

So, in the words of Dean Martin (and many others), "Keep them cards and letters coming, folks."

ICC chairman declares code must be followed

"The lack of a quorum has become the rule rather than the exception for the Interclub Council," stated ICC Chairman

Alden Wright at the first council meeting held Monday, Sept. 27 at 11 a.m.

Past problems, lax attitudes and lack of a quorum has given way to the announcement that the ICC will strictly adhere to the ICC code this year. Wright recommends all clubs review the code if they desire to keep their club charter.

The Flea Market, ICC's biggest project, will be held in parking lot A on Oct. 2. It is hoped the surrounding communities will join with the students in making this project a success since all clubs benefit from the ICC's services.

A number of students complained they have classes scheduled during the "College Hour" which makes it impossible for them to attend club meetings. This year the college hour will be at 1 p.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Planetarium needs title; students asked to help

It's time that our planetarium received a proper name. The Minolta Company supplied some of the projection equipment free of charge in order to have a show-place for its prospective customers in the United States. Object: to make as much money as possible. Thereupon, the Director of Community Services arbitrarily asked the Board (of Trustees) to assign the planetarium the same name as that of the company. Smell funny? Although he is presumably our agent, he consulted neither the president, the faculty, nor the student body of this campus.

The point is that it's our planetarium, and it's our right to decide its name. If the majority wish it to be named after the company, so be it. Certainly, though, we should be able to dignify this outstanding planetarium with a more appropriate identity.

I propose that this newspaper sponsor a contest, the object being to select a permanent and honorable name for our planetarium.

The impossible happens: seven hundred children

By MARYALYCE BOUMANN
La Voz Feature Editor

"It's impossible," you might argue, but according to the "Guinness Book of World Records," you would be wrong ... there really was a Persian man who fathered a total of 154 sons and 560 daughters. You can be certain that this polygamous Cassanova had a large harem, since the greatest number of children produced by a single woman is 69; that mother had 27 confinements. During these, she gave birth to 16 pairs of twins, seven sets of triplets and four sets of quads.

Remember when your mom used to tell you to eat all your carrots to grow up big and strong? Well, Robert Wadlow must have finished off a couple seasons' crops. He is the tallest recorded giant, who measures 8 feet, 11. By comparison, the shortest mature human was a Dutch midget of two feet.

HERE'S A REALLY HEAVY fact for you: there was a man who weighed 378 pounds at the age of 10 and 1,069 pounds later on in life. Someone should have introduced this man to Dolly Dimple. She was a circus fat lady who reduced from 555 pounds to 120 pounds in 14 months.

Looking into the world of fashion, it can be noted that famous models are often able to fit into — and look attractive in — a variety of dress sizes. In this case, Clarence E. Willard would have been terrific as a model. He was a circus performer who was able to increase his stature from 5 feet 10 to 6 feet 4 whenever he so desired, by practicing muscular manipulation of the vertebrae.

Blues Band plays

Tonight in the Cellar, rock groups Twogether and the Gary Smith Chicago Blues Band will be playing from 8 p.m. to 1 a.m.

In addition to the Chicago Blues Band, Wahbash will be appearing in the Cellar tomorrow night. Admission is 50 cents.

for Vick

Vick also coached track and field here at De Anza College. This quarter he is not coaching. In the spring quarter he plans to work as assistant coach in track and field. Vick added that he is "looking forward to working with the track team."

Vick is currently teaching tennis, archery, swimming, volleyball and mountaineering.

IN HIS spare time Vick enjoys back-packing, fishing, photography and sewing. "I know it sounds strange," he added with a smile and then went on to explain that he's recently taken up sewing in order to construct his own back-packing equipment. He pointed out that he is currently working on two parkas and has already finished a sleeping bag and a tent.

Vick is very pleased with the number of new physical education courses which were added this year in response to student interest. He mentioned that the physical education department's strong point is "their emphasis on the student enjoying physical activity, on individual and dual sports which will be useful to the person all his life."

Help needed for children

Volunteers are needed to work with severely emotionally disturbed children in a day treatment program beginning this fall through the middle of June at the Peninsula Children's Center.

Any student interested in this program may volunteer for any or every day of the week. Hours will be from 9 a.m. until 2:30 p.m. with bi-weekly training sessions until 4 p.m. For further information contact the center at 3860 Middlefield Road, Palo Alto or call 321-7400.

Volunteers needed for SHAREing

Operation SHARE, a four-county tutorial program, is in need of volunteers.

De Anza students interested in this organization have the opportunity to help a younger student ranging from kindergarten to high school age in his school work.

Volunteers will receive one unit of credit for each quarter they tutor.

Tutors usually assist the child at the child's home for two hours a week for a minimum of four months.

Last year SHARE involved over 225 students from De Anza as volunteer tutors.

Anyone interested may contact Mary Ann Sklar, Coordinator, Operation SHARE at the Office of Education, 45 Santa Teresa Street, San Jose, Phone 299-3344. There is also a SHARE office on campus, Room 105 at the East Entrance.

Co-ed vies for title

One of De Anza's students will be vying for the title of Miss California in the state segment of the Miss America Beauty Paegant in Sant Cruz next June. She is 19-year-old Nancy Maloney, a flaxen-haired beauty who currently reigns as Miss Santa Clara County.

Nancy won the local competition over 34 participants in which the standards of judging were the same as those used in Atlantic City -- 50 percent talent, 25 percent evening gown competition, and 25 percent swim suit competition.

She is a graduate of Santa

Monica High School and attended Foothill College for two years before enrolling at De Anza. Nancy is a pre-law student and will transfer to either San Francisco State or Stanford. She has been a member of the District Security Force for a year and a half.

Since winning the title 10 weeks ago, Nancy has made 44 personal appearances and is booked for future appearances until January.

After attaining her law degree, she plans to practice criminal law in California.

Minicollege scheduled for second time around

The De Anza Mini-College, a special curriculum for more effective learning, will be taught again this year during the Winter and Spring Quarters.

Mini-College curriculum was created to give students and teachers the opportunity to study and discuss deeply. Instead of classes taught separately, without interrelation, the College offers two to three weeks where one theme is considered. Then the groups leave the classroom to see and experience what they've learned.

Last year, there were the problems of personality conflicts and of some students dropping out. The instructors and former students are hoping to meet the different needs and expectations of each student this year.

The instructors for the Mini-College are: Don Buck, western civilization; Bob Brock, English; Jim Edwards, social science;

Jim Luotto, English; Bill Sauer, biology; Phyllis Wiedman, counsellor.

Although revising last year's curriculum, they have kept most of the themes. The plan includes studying the evolution of man, the development of culture, comparing modern with primitive cultures, the study of the American character, what is justice? and love and violence.

Flea market sponsored

The Inter-Club Council will sponsor a flea market at De Anza on Saturday, Oct. 2 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. in parking lot A.

The purpose of the flea market is to allow DAC faculty and students, and the public to profit from their old unusables, while encourage community participation at De Anza, according to Alden Wright, ICC chairman and organizer of the flea market.

The ICC plans to hold a flea market on the first Saturday of every month. Space rental is $2.50 and everybody is invited to attend either as sellers, buyers, or just lookers.

In the past, ASDAC has held flea markets, only they weren't completely successful because of bad weather and poor publicity, according to Wright. ICC has learned from their mistakes and are hoping for a large turnout. The profits from the flea market will go towards ICC activities and perhaps a scholarship fund.

ICC would like to stress that alcoholic beverages and "hot" merchandise are not permitted for everyone's protection. Also, food cannot be brought in to sell due to health regulations. A concession stand will be open to serve the public, the profits from which will go to the various clubs which bid to operate it.

De Anza plays host to Monterey College tonight

By RON PEREGRINA
La Voz Sports Editor

If the third time is the charm, its not coming any to soon for Head Coach Bob Pifferini and the entire De Anza football team.

The Dons play host to Monterey Peninsula College tonight and are looking for their first win of the campaign to offset losses in the two previous outings. Kickoff is set for 8 p.m. at Foothill College.

LAST FRIDAY'S battle against arch-rival Foothill would like to be forgotten by players and followers alike, the sooner the better. Foothill's George Kiss (pronounced Kish), booted a 33-yard field goal with one second left in the game to slam the door on the Dons, 12-10.

Kiss, who kicks the conventional way in an age where most teams boast soccer-style place kickers, hit on a 23-yard effort with six minutes left in the game to bring the until-then helpless Owls to within one point, 10-9.

DE ANZA held a 10-0 lead at intermission and it looked like they weren't even warmed up yet. Foothill could only garner 56 total yards in the first half opposed to 198 amassed by the Dons.

The DAC scoring came on the strength of a 33-yard field goal by Jess Pifferini and a four yard touchdown pass from quarterback Rick Alderman to Pifferini, who also added the P.A.T. All of the Don points came in the second stanza.

Even in a losing cause De Anza had its share of stellar performers. Halfback Paul Fong had a good night as he picked up 120-yards rushing and only carried the ball 16 times.

DEFENSIVELY Fred

Khazaly, playing only his first season at middle linebacker was destruction on the loose as he made his presence known to Foothill ball carriers all night. Jeff Sevy, Del Lorimer and Bill Knutson also turned in fine efforts.

The loss may be more serious than just the game as veteran halfback Sammy Croom and defensive tackle Al Best were hurt early in the game and neither returned to the line-up. Croom injured his achilles tendon and Best went out with a knee problem.

DE ANZA will have its hands full tonight with Monterey. When Coach Pifferini was asked what kind of opponent would they be, he said: "They're going to be a buzzsaw, they have good speed, tough on defense and are a good throwing team."

Conference meet on tap tomorrow

De Anza's cross country team is finally getting it all together according to Coach Jim Linthicum, and they are all set to take on the eight teams in the Camino Norte Conference tomorrow, October 2, at the College of Marin track. Starting time for the four-mile race is 11 a.m.

The competition shouldn't be a total surprise to the De Anza Harriers as they got a chance to run against some of the conference teams last Saturday at the Golden Gate Invitational. Out of twenty-two teams, De Anza placed ninth, including two runners in the top ten of some two hundred entrants.

THE TWO striders that really came through were Jan Remak, fifth overall, and John Marshall, tenth overall. Jan's time was 21:02, a minute and a half improvement over his effort at the first meet.

Coach Linthicum feels Remak's performances are rapidly improving and attributes this to the hard work Jan has been putting in.

Remak was also the first runner in for De Anza as the team finished first at the Foothill meet last week. There De Anza beat not only Foothill, but a tough College of Marin team which had defeated De Anza the week before.

TO SAY the least, these past two meets have been pleasing to Coach Linthicum, but he noted that the team is still lacking the depth it needs to move ahead in the conference.

However, the coach was firm in stating that his team was finally discovering where it was condition-wise, and went on to say, "We're beginning to find our way, but we all know its going to take a lot of hard work."

Freshman Ken Anthony has been a real surprise to Linthicum these past two meets as he scored a fourth at the Foothill meet, and third last Saturday at Golden Gate. Coach Linthicum commented, "This is Ken's first effort at cross country, and he's really made quite an accomplishment."

Bob Smith, Mark Lima, and Fred Wichmann have also been adding their talents to the squad by turning in performances that have helped the team.

SOMETHING NEW HAS BEEN ADDED

While you were gone, KEPLER'S BOOKS was growing as usual.

With paperbacks popping out of overcrowded shelves in Menlo Park, we managed to push out the back wall and to add 1260 more square feet of floor space. And while we were doing that, we added not one, but two, offstreet parking lots!

Therefore, we invite you to visit the new and capacious KEPLER'S, to stroll through its enlarged aisles, and to browse through the tens of thousands of paperbacks that make KEPLER'S two Peninsula stores famous as depositories of one of the largest paperback book collections in the country.

At KEPLER'S, you'll also find posters and art prints — plus foreign, domestic, and underground periodicals.

De Anza College will be one of three local colleges hosting the Northern California Water Polo Tournament today and tomorrow. The other two are West Valley and Foothill.

A total of 25 teams will compete in 33 games today, making this the largest water polo tournament ever staged.

Admission is $1 for adults and 50 cents for associated student body card holders.

There are sixteen teams entered in the "small college division" and nine in the "open division." De Anza and Long Beach C.C. are the only two community colleges entered in the open division. The other seven are Stanford, Cal, UC Irvine, San Jose State, UC Davis, Cal State Fullerton, and the University of New Mexico.

De Anza will play Fullerton at 10 a.m. and Stanford at 1 p.m. today. If De Anza wins today they will play in the final round tomorrow at 12 p.m. and 4 p.m. Sheldon Ellsworth, filling in for absent De Anza coach Art Lambert, looks to Irvine as the favorite. "They have a lot of players with national level competition. However, if we play to our full capabilities, we will have a strong shot at the title," said Ellsworth.
