Foothill College's FM station, KFJC, has taken delivery of it's new furniture, custom built by Bob Ballou, the station's student station manager.

According to Ballou, the materials for the console desk and speaker enclosure cost about $200. He and his father made the furnishings in their garage workshop, at 3945 El Cerrito Road, Palo Alto.

Ballou said that the furniture would have cost over $600 to purchase it through commercial sources.

The only major item yet to be received for the station, is the master console. It should arrive sometime this week, because it was shipped from the east two weeks ago.

The braces for the antenna guy lines were welded in place last week at the college. As soon as the approval of the Civil Aeronautics Authority arrives, the antenna will be raised on top of the college building.
