Foothill College agrees to shift FM radio band

Foothill College agrees to shift FM radio band

Foothill College Wednesday night agreed to change its FM broadcasting band at the request of the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo.

Spokesmen for the seminary, operated by the Presbyterian Church, told the college board of trustees that use of the band now used by Foothill, 88.5 megacycles on the FM dial, would permit full coverage of the San Francisco area for a series of graduate level courses in medicine, fine arts, current affairs, religion and social work planned by the seminary.

They proposed Foothill change to another FM band, 89.5 megacycles on the dial.

This second band would give Foothill full coverage of the Bay Area with the exception of areas in Berkeley and San Francisco, they explained.

The Presbyterian group offered to pay extra expenses to the college for the change. Foothill had already planned to move its transmitter to the Balk Mountain area when the station is moved to the new Los Altos Hills campus in the fall.

Foothill radio will repeat Thomas speech

Socialist Norman Thomas' speech last week at Foothill College will be featured tonight on the college education FM radio station, KFJC, at 8:30 p.m.

The station is at 89.7 megacycles on the FM band.

Thomas' topic was "America's Need for a New Radicalism."

KFJC, which began broadcasting several weeks ago from 7 to 9:30 p.m. Monday through Friday evenings, plans a series of special events programs like tonight's repeat of the Thomas speech.

Student station operator John Vitale produced tonight's program.
