

Minutello backs ASDAC council

Former representative - at-large Gary Biedma was accused of stabbing student council members in the back by ASDAC Vice President Dan Minutello at Monday's council meeting.

Biedma said he resigned because he felt "The council is against my ethics," and because he "couldn't carry out the wishes of the people who put me in office."

HE ADDED THAT although there are some honest and hard-working people in council, there are some members who "do not care who or how they hurt people, as long as it feeds their egos."

Minutello interrupted a motion on the floor to respond. He exclaimed angrily, "You said you don't think people down here care who they hurt. Don't you think you hurt someone?"

"Some of the people down here are really hard working people. You cut their throat, is what you did. You stabbed them in the back," he continued.

"YOU SAY there are cutthroat things going on down here. Well, I think that was one of the most cutthroat things that ever could have happened."

Biedma started to respond but was cut off by Minutello, who proceeded with the council agenda.

JOHN LOGAN, Social Science Division representative, suggested that it would be nice if the library contained "such propaganda as the Peking Review and Tass news agency articles for the use of political science students in writing term papers."

Pat Brown, representative at large, commented that "You won't see the American Opinion magazine, the magazine of the John Birch Society, you won't see anything from the SDS . . . it's quite a junior high school library up there when you get down to politics."

THE COUNCIL decided to ask the librarian to attend the next meeting to discuss putting a broader spectrum of political literature in the library.

Molander new Faculty Senate representative

English instructor Mark Molander is the new representative of the Language Arts Division in the Faculty Senate. The senate seat was previously held by Mr. Bob Bernasconi, who is now making preparations for his sabbatical in the fall.

The Faculty Senate, a recently formed group, is a type of negotiating council between the faculty and the Board of Trustees. Representatives are elected from each division, and since Language Arts has a large number of teachers, there are two representatives for them — Molander and Jim Luoto.

Molander, who has taught in Colorado for the past four years, three years at high schools and one year as a teaching assistant at Colorado State College while getting his Masters degree, considers the Faculty Senate to be "a strong and viable force" and intends to involve himself as an active member in the pertinent problems and interests of the De Anza faculty.

LSD personality discusses social, physical effects of drugs to humans

Reports linking LSD with birth defects are false, said Dr. David E. Smith of the Haight-Ashbury Medical Clinic, speaking in the Campus Center last Friday night. "Only two surveys on LSD and gene damage were made, but they have been exaggerated by the press for sensation."

He criticized doctors for their lack of objectivity. "The medical journals refuse to publish any negative results, but any doctor with a deformed baby can make headlines," he added.

In his lecture tours, he found a lot of public apathy. "They think because the hippies don't make the papers, that the hippie movement is dead," he noted. "It's not true. They left the speed-ridden violence of the Haight for the communes."

ACID USE GOES on in the communes, he remarked, but the "hip" way of life has changed a lot. "They don't give their children birth certificates or Christian names. It's their way of fighting our cybernetic age." This way, the next generation will grow up without draft cards or Social Security numbers.

Commenting on what he called the "LSD syndrome," Dr. Smith noted a marked non-violence among "acid heads. They are learning how to control their own inner hostilities." In addition, LSD users often develop "magical belief systems:" an interest in ESP, astrology and other related fields. Many times they become vegetarians.

THE HAIGHT STREET scene was "exclusively white and middle-class," he said, "and the acid heads even more so. People in the ghetto don't take LSD. They take other drugs — mostly the ones for escape." The use of amphetamine in the Haight drove the hippies out, he said. "There have been thirty murders in the Haight since January," he mentioned. "The white middle-class youth does not know the rules of ghetto life. If he's been running on speed and feels violent and paranoid, and someone threatens to kill him, he goes out and gets a gun and does the other guy in first."

On marijuana, Dr. Smith recalled several tests that showed people who smoke weed constantly suffer from a physical depression and a lack of motivation. "It's mainly a sedative," he said. "But if you can get them to stop smoking, eventually they become stable and involved again." The key to making someone straight, he said, is to get him involved — "especially in some kind of project where he can use his own enterprise."

DR. SMITH PLEADED for more research in this area. He admitted that little is known about how LSD works, but blamed the attitude of the public.

'Committee' comes to FC

Laugh-In's Dave Madden and San Francisco's Committee will appear May 9 at 8 p.m. in the Foothill College gymnasium to benefit the Save-the-Trianon fund.

Mrs. Eileen Ecclesine, a student who is largely responsible for the program, guarantees a sell-out crowd. "Everyone seems quite enthused. I'm very glad," she stated.

Madden is seen as the comic sportscaster on the weekly Laugh-In show. The Committee is an improvisational acting group which has also appeared on TV on such shows as Ed Sullivan and the Smothers Brothers Comedy Hour.

Tickets for the performance are available at the Foothill and De Anza box offices at $5 or $2.50 for students.

De Anza becoming official college

De Anza officials will soon find out whether or not the courses offered here are transferable. Six members of the Accreditation Commission of the Western Association of Schools and Colleges will begin a three-day tour of the campus Tuesday.

This will be the first official accreditation, the length of which will be determined by the committee. The Association accredits all high schools and colleges in California.

The maximum time for the accreditation is three years and according to Dr. Thomas Clements, dean of students at De Anza school officials "are optimistic that we will receive the full three years."

He added, however, that "If we're in bad shape they could accredit us with only one year."

An application steering committee compiled a "Self-Study and Application for Accreditation" to be submitted to the commission.

Chairman of the committee was Pat Brown, student, and other members included students, and student leaders.

From this study the commission will write an accreditation report and possibly make recommendations. This report will be filed with the Western Association of Schools and Colleges.

"We've had some difficulty because we were not listed officially," said Clements.

Need 2-S rating? See draft counselor

De Anza students may now receive help for any problem concerning the Selective Service from Geoff Baker, newly-appointed draft counselor. Baker holds office hours daily at 10 a.m. in CC-20.

"There are a lot of students not aware of their rights with regards to the Selective Service system. I'd like to see a few more people aware of their rights," explained Baker. For example, it is possible for some people to regain a lost II-S rating.

BAKER WAS RECENTLY selected by the student council to be counselor after he explained to the council why he felt there was a need for draft counseling at De Anza.

Baker has worked with Rich Patocchi, Foothill College draft counselor, and is presently attending draft counseling classes at the Draft Co-Op in Palo Alto.

"I would never advocate an illegal act," cautioned Baker. "It's all above board." He added that if any student came to him wanting help getting into the Armed Forces, he would "do anything in my power to see that he got in."

HE EMPHASIZED, "I wish to make it clear that my views are kept apart from counseling."

The most frequent problems brought to Baker by De Anza students usually concern getting II-S ratings and regaining them when they are lost. Baker usually sees at least two or three students every day.

Susan Wilenken, right, and Lynn Swenson, De Anza students, perform for the first meeting of the Dance Club. The club meets every Tuesday and Thursday during College Hour in P.E. 15 to learn more about modern dance.

Pledge to flag not successful

Between the pounding of the gavel and the reading of last week's minutes at every student council meeting, a strange thing happens. The council members slowly rise and begin chanting a group of words that sound vaguely like "I pledgeeljunce . . ." Quite a few councilmen don't appear to be paying any attention to what they are saying.

Until last week, when Social Science Division representative John Logan moved to abolish the salute from council meetings, no one even questioned the value of including the pledge of allegiance at the council meetings. Logan's motion was defeated.

If the purpose of the pledge of allegiance is to instill patriotic feelings in the hearts of councilmen, then it is failing miserably. All one has to do is sit in on a council meeting and watch the attitude of the junior legislators before and after they say the pledge. Are they any more patriotic after saying the pledge? La Voz hasn't found any evidence to support this idea.

But the ASDAC council is not unique. Every morning on high school and college campuses, millions of students go through the same saluting and chanting ritual.

Until the pledge starts to mean something to those who say it, La Voz feels that those who do not wish to say the pledge should not be coerced into doing so. However, this right should not interfere with the rights of those who wish to say the pledge.

But what about the student council - flag salute controversy? If the councilmen are really concerned about reminded each week about the liberty and justice in this great land of ours, there are many places they can turn to. They could start with the six o'clock news.

Letter to editor

'Crap' always goes on in govt.; solution: get in there and fight!

Editor,
I read the article about the resignation of Gary Biedma in La Voz with mixed emotions. The thing that surprised me most was Gary's obvious naivete. Any college student who doesn't know what politics is, I feel sorry for.

We all started in kindergarten electing the room monitor and know that it was always the kid who was most popular, not most qualified, who got the job. (I'll grant you that it doesn't take many qualifications to be a room monitor.)

THE SAME THING is still happening in college and even in national politics. There is no known system of government that has the most qualified men running it.

We all know about the "crap" that goes on in our government, the slush funds, the appointments that are made to "pay off" a big campaign contributor. As college students, we should realize this and strive to make the government better.

But we can't do it by quitting, and that's what Gary Biedma is doing — quitting.

There is only one solution to bettering our government, whether it be nation or school, and that's to get in there and fight!

ANYONE WHO DOESN'T like what is going on has several channels open to him. The first is to vote, the second is to tell the reps what you want. They only have their own opinions to base their decision on if you don't tell them what you want. Student council is open to whoever wishes to attend and

"I pledgeeljunce . . ."

Peace committee solution to violence

By LEE ANNA SMITH
La Voz staff writer

Hardly a day seems to pass without some fresh outbreak of violence on our college campuses. This is a bad scene for it reflects a mounting hypocrisy within our own ranks. If we are a generation dedicated to peace, then we defeat our own purpose by using violent and destructive means on our own grounds.

Something must be done! Not merely on campuses with problems now, but on all campuses, troubled or not. Violence must be stopped before it can have a chance to start. Violence on campuses has been discussed by politicians from the White House to Sacramento. Still the responsibility has not been placed where it belongs. Upon the shoulders of all the students, who believe in their hearts that peace is the ultimate goal.

THERE IS A solution, not easy, but possible. Each campus could form a voluntary committee, dedicated to keeping the peace, but separate from all other campus organizations. It should be kept in mind, however, for this to be a really working committee, the members must be representative of the different social and ethnic groups on campus. Such an organization should work in conjunction with the different demonstrating groups.

The task before us is not an easy one. But if we the students don't do something to stop this violence, which we can't seem to prevent on our own campuses, how can we ever expect other to listen to us about the violence in the rest of the world?

anyone is allowed to be heard. I admit that not everyone is qualified to run for an office so they can "get in there and fight," but everyone has a mouth and can make themselves heard. You have only to complain and the elected official is all ears. He knows the importance of your vote, and he knows the way to get is to do what you want.

There is only one thing you can do if you don't like things the way they are: let someone know about it.

Rep contends name calling no 'cure-all'

Editor,
I'm getting pretty tired of the popularly held notion that name-calling, ridicule, and/or criticism are the almighty cure-alls and instant solutions to current problems, be they large or small.

Disagree with an article in the paper? Condemn La Voz. Thing student government's a joke? Blast the student council as a whole. Anything to keep from taking that up-hill climb to "right" what you consider to be a "wrong."

AS A MEMBER of student council, I'm not forcing anyone to become interested in student government. Student council has a job to do, and I, for one, want to see that job well done. However, the members of student council don't profess to be "all-knowing" — we, too, are students attempting to get an education (often through trial and error). But on the other hand, we're not a bunch of bumbling idiots — believe me, it takes more than a 5-year-old mentality to revise and attempt to balance the annual ASDAC budget.

Granted, a certain amount of "frolicking" goes on downstairs — as students, we, too, need time in which to relax.

I CERTAINLY DON'T blame the La Voz staff for enjoying themselves in their office while they work. Happy people are seldom less productive than unhappy ones.

If you're satisfied with your life at De Anza, fine. We're trying our best to help you attain that goal. All we ask is that you don't waste your time and ours unjustly criticizing our efforts.

'Freedom not free; Laus blasts Logan

Editor,
Freedom is not free! John Logan, self-described atheist, enjoys our freedom which all loyal and good Americans enjoy, this freedom which no other country in the world enjoys with its prosperity, conveniences, luxuries, freedom of religion and expression, educational opportunities and the luxury of freedom to travel anywhere in the United States without a passport or a secret police to ask for identification.

John Logan enjoys also a freedom which he is unaware of perhaps, and that is the freedom to get the hell out of the United States. He does not have the freedom to scandalize our American flag and he does not have the freedom of not pledging allegiance to this great flag even if it is under God, in whom he is so foolish as not to believe. (Create yourself, if you can; and live forever, if you can.)

PERHAPS THE dissidents would remain idle if we were attacked by the Communist nations and give them allegiance. Or it may be possible that they would carry two flags in a national crisis — that of the enemy or invaders, and that of the other enemy, the United States.

When our great country defeated any country during the last two world wars, we did not occupy any of these countries permanently as the Russians have. Japan is not occupied, and West Germany is free. This cannot be said of East Germany, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Romania, Estonia, Cuba, Yugoslavia, Bulgaria, and a few other countries.

Yes, freedom is not free, and to prove it, American blood is shed even today to preserve us and those nations to whom we give our support because they asked for it. Dissenters should be talking to the Marines, who suffer 90 per cent casualties, and to the infantry, who suffers 75 per cent casualties, and to all the other members of our defense units, when they take a freedom not theirs, to downgrade our great American flag.

I SPENT FOUR years of my life in the service of the United States of America to preserve the freedom my children enjoy. Americans have shed blood in Korea and Vietnam fighting Communists who have freedom here under the Supreme Court decisions to pursue the overthrow of our government by revolution.

There are many of our ex-servicemen in our midst, more mature and seriously seeking an education and anxious to complete this so that they can compete for better living and security which they are earning and not looking for hand-outs. These are not those who are sit-ins and demanding changes in everything from curriculum to hiring and firing. These loyal Americans are here for only a limited time to qualify for a degree, and not to change policy or attack the administration. They want to make their mark out in the field and not on college grounds. These, among others, are the silent majority and they must drown out the dissidents.

Yes, those who criticize are the real hypocrites who are enjoying the freedom bathed in blood and won in all combat, but won more specifically by hand-to-hand combat by our Marines and infantrymen.

WHEN SUCH A student passes a course in history, English, philosophy, psychology, mathematics or physics, he parrots what he reads and hears to a large extent. He finds it is not hypocritical to memorize all that is necessary to pass a course. Yet, he reviles those who memorize the pledge of allegiance to our great flag. He criticizes those who memorize the profound prayers, and he criticizes the Roman Catholics' privilege of confessing their sins to their priests. It is not all too surprising that John Logan has attacked religion because he has labeled himself adequately. Such people will never pledge allegiance to our flag because they pledge allegiance only to themselves.

This letter was written so that there is no doubt that I am a loyal American and that I will defend my great United States from the enemy of our country, whether that enemy is outside the geographical sphere of our country or whether that enemy is within.

De Anza instructor joins mail-order ministry

What William Skyles' church lacks in congregations, they make up in ministers. Although the Universal Life Church, Inc. (ULC) has chartered only 1600 churches they have ordained 24,000 ministers through the mail.

Skyles, a De Anza English instructor, is number 23384. He joined the church six weeks ago after learning about it when the founder, The Rev. Kirby J. Hensley, was charged with issuing and honorary Doctor of Divinity degree without meeting State Education code requirements. This charge is not related to the granting of mail-order ministries.

Since that time Skyles said he has indeed begun to examine himself in relation to his ideas.

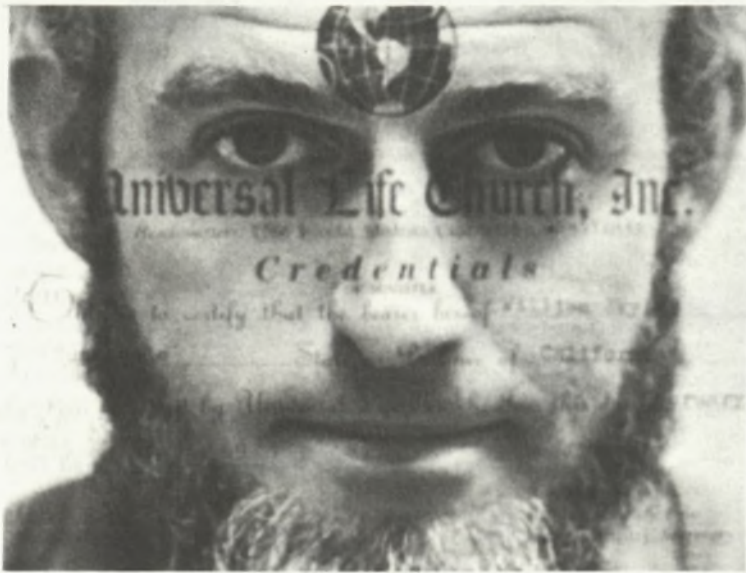

"FOR EXAMPLE, what does it mean to be reverent?" asked Skyles who by law is authorized to marry, baptize and bury people.

According to a circular which accompanied the certificate of ordination, the Modesto-based church has been in existence 1962. Its goal is 1 million ministers within the next five years. Skyles feels this type of mass ministry is healthy.

"EVERY MAN IS a minister and has the element of the divine in him, so why delegate this to only a few? Passing tests indicate only theology."

The ULC has no doctrine, it only "believes in what is right." The purpose of the church is to bring freedom of religion to all people.

"We ordain anyone without question of their faith, for life, and without a price," says the circular.

THE CHURCH'S mass appeal has begun to cause havoc for the Selective Service, U.S. Army and California Department of Corrections.

ULC ministers eligible for the draft have requested reclassification to the 4D status and draft exemption given ministers and students for the ministry. Ordained prisoners have also been asking for better consideration in light of their new status.

But Skyles feels that all 24,000 ministers can't be avoiding the draft. "There must be a more honorific reason."

"THERE IS A more serious element, a need for spiritual awareness," explained Skyles, who thinks religion has become too fragmented.

"How many young people place faith in a minister? . . . Christ didn't study, in fact he was critical of people nitpicking over doctrine."

Even in the early Christian church, according to Skyles, worthiness was conferred from outside as a result of the idea of original sin. But "people today don't buy this, they feel intrinsically worthy," Skyles commented.

New ICC code prevents work duplication

A new code for the Inter-Club Council (ICC) was adopted last week to prevent duplication of work by the student council and to allow the ICC to function more easily, according to ICC chairman Mike Brown.

Brown said dances will now have to be planned three weeks in advance and activities one week in advance, while the old code required that both be planned two weeks in advance.

He added that special activities open to the student body and being sponsored by a member of a club or organization are subject only to the approval of the ICC, while previously they were subject to the approval of both the ICC and the student council.

He also said both the chairman and vice-chairman of the ICC will be elected.

ACT test value for counseling being discussed

An open discussion of the English Department concerning changes in English curriculum was held in the Library Tuesday. The renovation committee met with members of DASFA, the Literati, MASC and the BSU.

The main topic of concern centered around the use of ACT tests and counseling for placement into the different levels of English. One student stated that he didn't believe an ACT exam could judge his abilities. Others discussed being put into courses either too advanced or too elementary.

According to Mrs. Valerie Ahlgren, an experiment will take place next fall in which one hundred students will be able to decide for themselves just which level English course to take.

KKK leaflets

Dr. Thomas Clements, dean of students, confirmed that a "Ku Klux Klan" flier was distributed on De Anza campus late last week.

The leaflet called for "Dixieland to rise again" and claimed that the Sons of the Confederacy "will end the violence in the streets and we will re-create our great America."

However, Dr. Clements stressed that the flier was the work of one student only and that it was not affiliated with any on or off-campus organization. According to Clements, the individual responsible for the flier meant it as a joke and has since apologized to those concerned.

Boxes set up for problems

Recently, suggestion boxes were set up on the middle level of the Winery, in the foyer of the Library and in the vending machine area of the Campus Center for complaints and comments to assist the Student Council in making its decisions.

REVOLVING REPORTER

Question: Do you feel it worthwhile to have a draft counselor here at De Anza?

Bob Bernasconi, English instructor: Well, if he got a CO rating he would be an authority. I'd say I was definitely in favor. If you can get someone who knows what he's doing, and if it gives someone work, yes, I think it's a great idea.

Joe Pinckney, student: Oh, man, a draft counselor. I think it's kind of worthless. It can help somebody, but actually there's so little he can do. It's up to the draft board. How long would the deferment last?

Rob Brown, student: Yeah, like there's a lot of people around here who don't dig it, you know, and so if a guy gets in trouble with the draft, he needs something. I was kinda in a spot for awhile and didn't know what I would have done. But this guy's here and can help if you need it.

Laurel Schmidt, student: My brother is CO. He learned about it, I guess, at Stanford. He's been working at the Oakland Induction Center. I think it's good. If I was a guy I sure would want to find out what to do. I think they should have one down here.

Ben Franklin never looked so good!

As Ben Franklin measured the stature of men by their inner qualities, so do we measure the quality of our Ben Franklin Hero Sandwich. Mortadella, Coppocollo, Spicy Italian Cooked Ham and Provolone Cheese provide this "inner quality" that make up our Ben Franklin Hero.

Poison oak 'hits the trail'

By MARY DONAHUE
La Voz Sports Editor

Over 2,500 people converged on Big Basin Redwoods State Park last weekend to build a trail planned by the Sierra Club's Loma Pireta Chapter and the Sempervirens Fund.

NEARLY 50 De Anza students helped extend the trail 12 miles from Big Basin to Castle Rock

State Park. It will soon be open for backpackers, hikers and horseback riders for overnight trips and shorter walks.

Driving from Saratoga Gap at the intersection of Highways 9 and 35, the steep hillsides seemed to show no possible place for a trail. But a trail was marked with yellow flags, and under sunny skies the work began.

THE TRAIL builders soon learned the joys of cutting a two-foot-wide strip through poison oak, buried rocks, tin cans and thick plant life. Where the hills sloped on a 45-degree angle, the soft earth was cut out in a right angle to the hill.

Where the garbage of uncaring visitors to the area was piled two feet thick over a quarter of an acre, the trail was extended up to the mess and continued after it, the trash to be removed later.

THE HARDY workers came in all sizes and shapes, from all over the area's counties.

Girl Scouts, Campfire Girls, Boy Scouts in their green uniforms, youth groups and many clubs pitched in and almost completed the sections laid out for the weekend's work.

De Anzans attending included members of Los Montaneros camping and climbing club, the Vets Cub, and many individual students.

BESIDES building trails, a "buffalo" dinner was served to over 2,000 people and a campfire and Indian pow-wow was held is California's newest state park. It includes wind-eroded sandstone bluffs, and a peak at 3,214 feet, all offering a good place for climbers to test their skills.

BIG BASIN IS the oldest of the state's 170 parks. Its redwoods, creeks, deer, bluejays and squirrels invite more than 100,000 day-use visitors, 400,000 sightseers and 85,000 campers annually.

Other trails have been mapped to connect it with Portola State Park and Stevens Creek County Park. It is hoped that eventually the trail can cut through Butano State Park down to the Pacific Ocean at Waddell Beach.

Don swimmers get CNC championship

De Anza's swimmers picked up the school's first Camino Norte Championship this spring when they took the conference tourney last week at West Valley.

The Dons raked in 161 points to West Valley's 132 and College of Marin's 57.

The next stop for the team is the Nor-Cal Tournament at Foothill April 25 and 26. Then they come home for the state meet here May 1-3.

COMING IN FIRST for the Dons were Dave Kirby in the 500-yard freestyle, Jim Wilkens in the 50 free, Roger McEvoy in both the one-meter and three-meter diving, Bill Simpkins in the 200 and 100 butterfly, Greg Gibson in the 200 and 100 free-style.

The 400 medley relay, made up of Kirby, John Rudeen, Simpkins and Jim Wilkens; the 800 free relay, made up of Kirby, Lance Dilloway, Gibson and Hal Powell; and the 400 free relay, consisting of Dilloway, Gibson, Wilkens and Powell, also picked off first-place honors for the Dons.

Second places were grabbed by Gibson in the 200 individual medley, Powell in the 200 and 100 butterfly, Wilkens in the 200 and 100 free, Jim Leffel in the 1,650 free and Dilloway in the backstroke.

IN ADDITION TO their firsts or seconds, Simpkins got a third, Dilloway picked up two fourths, Powell got a third, Rudeen got two thirds, Kirby got a third and fourth, and Leffel added a third.

Coach Art Lambert felt this meet would be a prep for the upcoming tourneys.
