

Foothill to Broadcast On New FM Station

The South Peninsula's newest FM station, KFJC, is scheduled to go on the air sometime next month, according to Erv Harlacher, chairman of the division of mass communications at Foothill College.

The 10-watt station is nearly completed with only the erection of the antennae at the Mountain View Junior College campus being needed to complete installation and testing of the equipment.

Harlacher said today that actual broadcasting will be delayed until final program arrangements can be made and students trained.

Tentative schedules call for a two to three hour broadcast on Monday through Friday. The programs will consist primarily of classical music and dramatic readings with news-s and forums.
