Dr. Flint announces Foothill's accreditation

Foothill students may now transfer to any college or university in the United States.

Dr. Calvin Flint, Foothill's president, was informed of the accreditation by a letter from the Western College Association last week. Last December the association sent a team to evaluate the college courses.

Accreditation means that Foothill's lower division courses can now be transferred to any four year educational institution. Previous to the full accreditation, students were only able to transfer to colleges in California.

Accreditation is a routine investigation and is held by the accreditation association periodically at all colleges. Foothill will not be visited again until it is located on the new campus site in the Los Altos Hills.

The accreditation team consisted of Dr. Wade Thomas, chairman and president of Santa Monica City College; Dr. Lloyd Luckmann, coordinator of instruction at City College of San Francisco; Dr. L. Kronick, associate professor of political science at the University of Santa Clara; Dr. Leon Mears, chairman of the division for business education at San Francisco State College; Dr. Dale P. Wren, administrative assistant in the State Department of Education.

Dr. H. H. Semans, dean of instruction, reported at the time of investigation that the accreditation team was favorably impressed. The team singled out the library as being very good and mentioned that standards and faculty were more than favorable in quality.

It is not at all uncommon for a college to graduate two classes before receiving full accreditation, said Dr. Flint.

Philosophy club formed

Aldous Huxley's "Tyranny of the Mind" was the object of discussion at the first meeting of the Foothill Philosophy club, Friday, Feb. 27. The meeting was held at the home of Dr. Gale Engle, philosophy, English and public speaking instructor.

Howard Hobson, temporary moderator, directed the discussion among the eight students (and the husband of one student) that attended.

Plans were set to continue the club with meetings twice monthly. For the next meeting, participants were asked to bring a list of topics for future discussions, topics which the club may profit by.

The Philosophy Club is designed to make possible a free market for informal discussion of problems of ethical, political, and philosophical importance to persons.

Students in conferences at Modesto, Long Beach

Foothill student officers will attend two student government conferences in the next two months.

One is the California Junior College Student Government Association northern region at Modesto Junior College on Saturday, April 11th. The second conference is the CJCSGA state wide meet at Long Beach City College on May 7, 8, 9.

There are openings for 20 student government students to attend the April meet in Modesto, which will be a one day affair. All members of the student council, that are able to attend, will go to this meeting. Students who are not actually serving on student council, but are active in student government, will also be eligible to attend.

The northern region meeting is also a one day affair. Students will first attend a general assembly in the morning, then they will go to various workshops where they will have the opportunity to discuss problems with representatives of other junior colleges in northern California. After lunch the students return to their assigned workshops for discussions on student government.

The conference will end with another general assembly. At this assembly resolutions will be passed. These will be resolutions that were previously passed in the workshops. A resolution is a recommendation to the state meet that a certain action be taken.

Only five students and two advisors are eligible for the state meet at Long Beach. Attending this meeting will be Joe Brundage, ASFC president; Linda Flores, ASFC vice president; Jim Johnson, ASFC commissioner of activities; Bob Siebenhall, commissioner of publications and Ray Crump, commissioner of finance.

Advisors attending will be Arla DeHart, dean of students and Miss Joan Seavey, counsellor and student government adviser.

The delegates will fly to Southern California and rent a car for transportation while attending the conference.

The conference at Long Beach is the same as the northern region meet except it will last longer and has a social program. One of these social events will be a breakfast for all student body presidents.

New reading lab draws students

Twenty-five students have enrolled in the reading improvement laboratory at Foothill College according to Miss Joan Seavey, counselor.

The students were selected out of a group of more than 100 persons that were interested in participating in the class.

"The students are more or less guinea pigs," said Miss Seavey. Requirements for the class were an interest in gaining reading efficiency and recommendation by an instructor in the English department.

The class makes use of three machines for reading improvement and works both as a group and with individual help by the instructor.

The students start with fifth grade material and will progress up to the high school level, working on the comprehension and speed they need.

The laboratory is open most of the day according to Miss Seavey.

The main item used in the instructional work is a group of films the college had purchased for that use.

According to Miss Seavey, the films will be used to develop reading phrases rather than words as single units.

St. Pat's dance at Cherry Chase

By Lee Fairchild.

Music and song should fill the air tomorrow night at the St. Patrick's dance, according to Sandy Killian, social chairman.

The dance will be held from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. at the Lanai Club at Cherry Chase.

The social committee has held auditions and selected three acts to be presented. The Charlemains and Cindy Kosek will sing, and Bill Keys a former Foothill student, and his partner will perform. Music will be provided by the Foothill College Band under the leadership of Charles Henderson.

The event will be a semi-formal affair, with the men expected to wear suits and the women cocktail dresses.

Johnny Allen, will be master of ceremonies for the dance as he has been for a number of the former social events at foothill.

Tickets for the dance went on sale last Monday and by Tuesday a good number had been sold according to Jim Johnson, commissioner of activities.

Tickets will be sold at the door for $2.25. The added price being made for the late sale, according to Sandy Killian.

Mrs. Ruth Bryant, advisor for the social committee, said that she hopes that the dance will be the success that she expects.

The ball has been carefully planned by the social committee and credit should be given where it is due.

The Social Committee has worked hard at producing a number of good dances this year. Preparation has fallen upon the shoulders of a very few people, who haven't been really recognized by the student body.

The Social Committee under the directorship of Sandy Killian has only six members. The members arrange the dances, plan the decorations, sell the bids, and generally work until they drop.

Give the school dances the credit they deserve and be sure to attend St. Patrick's.

Council forming welfare group

Student council took action toward forming a student welfare committee at its Feb. 26th meeting.

The committee is to look into all grievances that may arise among the student body.

The committee is to consist of four students and four faculty members. The students are to be appointed by the student council from applications which will be requested. One application has already been received from a new student. The four faculty members are to be appointed by Dr. Calvin Flint, Foothill College president. Miss Joan Seavey was recommended by the council for the chairmanship of this committee.

Formation of the committee is expected to take place in about two weeks.

Sunset Magazine seen by journalists

Sunset magazine gave the Journalism 2 class a glimpse of the background of publishing a monthly magazine yesterday.

The students are studying mass communication in the forms of newspapers, periodicals, radio and T.V.

This was the first tour in a series to acquaint the students with the actual problems of publishing and producing this medium of mass communication.

The 13 students who attended were: Sheri Baldwin, Bob Ballou, Larry Bennett, Dennis Britton, Pete Card, Richard Dedrick, Charles Detrick, Lee Fairchild, Jim Johnson, Bob Keegan, Sandy Killian, Alba Osorio and Barbara Titsworth.

Need money fast? Student loans offered

Two loan funds are now available to Foothill Students. One is under the National Defense Education Act and the other is an emergency loan fund provided by the students.

A total loan fund of $2,750 will be available to spring semester students under the Education Act. A student will be able to borrow up to $1,000 a year for a maximum of five years. Repayment begins one year after the student ceases to be a full time student and must be completed within 10 years.

The loans will be approved by Foothill on the basis of financial need, citizenship, academic potential and vocational or professional goal.

According to Arla DeHart, dean of students, we have every reason to believe that this federal loan fund, once established will be on a continuing basis.

The emergency loan fund, which has been approved by the Student council, is money which was voluntarily paid by each student, through the school, to the Education Act.

These loans will be made available to students in accordance with the following stipulations:

Any full time student in good standing who has completed at least two months at Foothill may apply for a student loan for an amount not to exceed $20.00.

Loans granted for any legitimate school expense shall be made for a period of 30 days or less. Students unable to repay the loan within the 30 day period must receive an extension approval from the faculty loan officer before the due date.

Applications for loans must be made with the faculty loan officer and approved by loan committee.

Student securing a loan will be charged a 25 cents handling charge.

In special emergencies, students may receive approval for loans of more than $20.00 if the repayment date is definite and if the amount is needed for a short period of time.

FM station equipment ordered; some arrives on Foothill campus

Equipment has been ordered for the college radio station and some has arrived on campus, according to Bob Ballou, station manager.

Ballou said that more than $4,000 worth of equipment has been ordered to date.

Several companies in the Bay Area have given Foothill reduced prices on the equipment they manufacture or sell. Included among these firms are Kaar Engineering in Palo Alto; James S. Heaton, representing Weather Industries and James B. Lansing; HiFi Unlimited, Menlo Park and James Hill and Company.

These reduced rates were made available to Foothill as a community service.

The room to be used for the station is being remodeled and sound proofed. It is located in the basement, next to the student government offices.

Ballou issued this tentative program:

Monday — The Classics, Study Music, Musicomania, Foothill News Tuesday — Musical Holiday, A Night At The Opera, Jazz Bandstand

Wednesday—Organ in the Realm, Study Music, Musical Showcase

Friday — Special Events, Choral Masterworks, Foothill News

Editorial

"Six weeks of a course designed to familiarize the enrollee with the location of the rest rooms is not only ridiculous but also insane."

Any day of the week students may be heard mouthing similar phrases concerning everything from paint jobs and parking lots to orientation courses.

They can sit back on their egos and tell their fellow "I dig you man" parasites how to move the sun, but when it comes to participation, it's a rope of another length. Besides, despite their soapboxes, they are afraid of high places, especially if climbing is involved.

Aside from a small number of college organizations, there seems to be little sign of effort to organize Foothill. There is, however, a definite indication of a slight awareness among students of what is happening at Foothill. This is good! It's wonderful, but where does it lead? The most radical reaction thus far on campus was the inspirational writing on the wall that read, "Go home Footsie."

If a student thinks the mascot is the next worse thing to a dead duck let him speak up, start a petition, run for office, find an opposition and help mold Foothill to fit the student's concept.

Students who are not happy with all conditions in the school will never have a better chance to participate than they have right here. The Student council welcomes any ideas or criticism with hungry enthusiasm.

We are not trying to say that Foothill equivalent of a San Fernando plow boy can have a holiday honoring his name just by running for office, but we are saying that a person with good ideas and a little gumption can have more than a chance to air them.

If a person doesn't like the absence policy because he has to work on the side, the answer to the problem is not to turn golden belly to the rising sun and head for the next college down the road. Let him find some people who agree, and see if their cooperative effort can improve the situation.

Flowers, bugs and chuck holes

Custodians improving campus

By Jack Ruch

Last semester Foothill's custodians accomplished a tremendous amount of work. In addition to their standard duties of keeping the school clean, they planted camellias, rhododendrons and azaleas in the patio area. They also weeded grounds in the front of the school and planted 150 flowers in the weeded areas along the front of the building.

As the semester progressed all the trees on campus were sprayed with a solution to keep tree diseases and little creepy, crawly things on the wane.

The athletic field, which is to the east of the main campus was planted in grass so it will be ready for flag football and baseball in the spring. This field will also be used for football practice in the fall when Foothill will field its first football team.

The custodians also painted all the halls and most of the classrooms last semester.

This semester the biggest plans are to landscape the entire perimeter of the building as soon as painters

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"WHO SAID HE WON'T CHANGE A GRADE? - I GOT HIM TO RAISE THIS PAPER FROM A ZERO TO AN F."

Variety fills career of Dr. Shipnuck

Editor's Note: This is the first of a series of three articles, in which the social science teachers will be interviewed.

This conference is with Dr. Murray E. Shipnuck. Dr. Shipnuck spent his youth in San Francisco, where he attended Washington High School. While at Washington, he participated in track and basketball.

Foothill campus plans given final o.k. by trustees

Architect Ernest J. Kump and his staff unveiled their conception of the $8.2 million Los Altos Hills campus of Foothill College on March 2.

Kump and his associates, Charles Masten and Hideo Sasaki, displayed the plan before the board of education.

The board, after examination, approved the plan to proceed with working drawings and specifications for the campus.

The buildings will be constructed in clusters around patios.

Sasaki, head of the landscaping department at Harvard University, told the board the campus will be "practically an ideal site" for an educational institution.

Superintendent, Dr. Calvin C. Flint, told the board that the purchase of the Hills land has been approved by the state department of education.

After graduation from high school, he enrolled at the University of California at Berkeley. While at U.C. he was a sprinter. He also aided in coaching the lightweight basketball teams.

Upon graduation from Cal, Dr. Shipnuck entered the Army Air Force and served for three years.

In 1946 he returned to Cal as a graduate student. He spent 18 months studying history and associated subjects.

Between 1948 and 1958 Dr. Shipnuck instructed in a number of high schools in California. Some courses he taught were history, general science, biology, physical education and math. He coached track and basketball and served as administrative assistant to a high school superintendent.

In 1950 he enrolled at Stanford's graduate school where he studied for his M.A. and Ed.D. degree.

After receiving his doctorate in 1954, he undertook postdoctoral work in health education at Stanford.

Chorus is growing

Enrollment in the music department has almost doubled since last semester, according to Dr. Fred Warren, department head.

The chorus now totals 17 voices, seven of which are males.

No more Footsie? Name challenged

RALLY 'ROUND THE MASCOT: The Sentinel's editorial board and the Student Council are in debate on whether Footsie is or is not a name to be seen.

The Council has proclaimed use of the name a mortal sin. Now the question is whether or not Footsie is to appear in the student publication. To date the name has been used once on the sports page, being concentrated mainly in news pages.

In our opinion Footsie is here to stay, whether or not we mention Footsie. The local papers picked it up when the concrete owl was removed from the tower that once stood at the Foothill building entrance.

The editorial board's attitude toward Footsie was neutral. We did not vote on whether we would like to be called Footsies or not, but rather on the name's value as an interest arouser. It is up to the editorial board to decide the future of the name for newspaper use. We can guarantee that the name will never be used in editorial writing for referring to Foothill students. Chances are it will not be used on sports pages.

The paper policy is controlled by three student editors: editor in chief, news editor and city editor. The publication is free of the administration and the student body. It is also independent of student body control.

For the benefit of those who find inner needs answered by the rather unmuffled sounds uttered by a combustion type engine, there is a time and place for everything. The student body parking lot is not the place for this indulgence. As for attracting attention, it does, but not the type you were thinking of. Look around boys; you are out of place and out of time.

In comparison with the remark made above, we would like to mention the strange attitude a few have toward the fact that two instructors ride bicycles to the campus. If you will stop and ponder the action you will realize this is not very strange at all, college students.

We are glad to announce the arrival of some college propaganda material. The dolls and key-chains will be followed by more spirit promoting Foothill representatives. Thank you Mr. Jones.

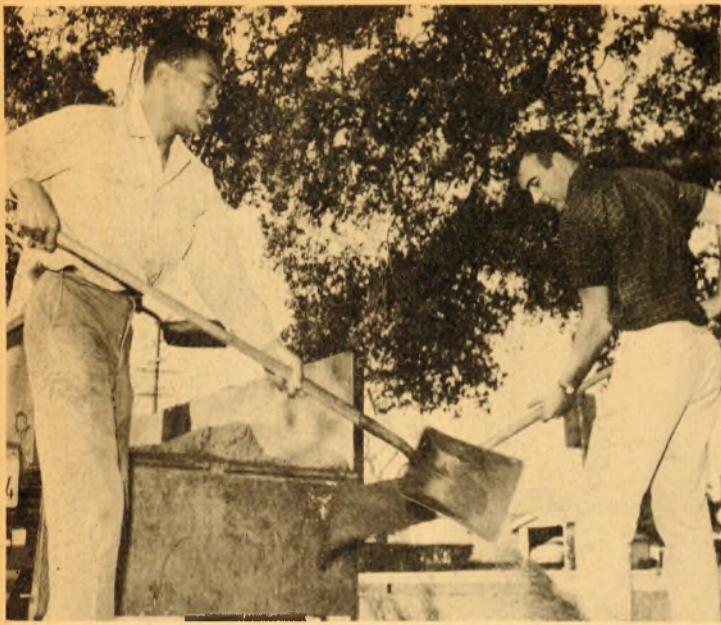

We want to tip our hats to the members of the Vet's club for their efforts in chucking the chuck holes.

Dale Carnegie once said that one of the best ways of making friends is to smile. We say smile this week anyway. This is National Smile Week.

Some of you asked why there are only 48 stars on the flags around school. The modern counterpart to Betsy Ross cannot be found. Perhaps if the assignment was turned over to a high school sewing class the problem would be solved.

Veterans take on service project by filling parking lot chuck holes

Did you notice any change while driving over the parking area last Monday? Did you notice that the holes that were in the lot are no more? All credit for this is to be attributed to the Veteran's Club.

Video tape recorder

Students enrolled in Electronics 56 are now assembling power supplies for the video tape recorder, which will be used to study television for college teaching, according to Paul Evans, instructor in electronics.

Sixty-five students are working on the recorder in three separate classes.

Some students are regular full-time day students, but the majority are technicians and engineers presently employed in the electronics trade.

A week ago a meeting was held by the Vet's Club to discuss the holes in the parking lot. It was decided that the veterans would take it upon themselves to fill in these holes the following Saturday.

Since permission was needed Art Kuzniewski, president of the club, went to Arla DeHart, dean of students, to obtain permission and also obtain use of the school equipment.

Coffee and doughnuts were served to the members of the working crew by Mrs. Helen Wyatt. Money for the refreshments was obtained from student body funds since Student council felt this service would benefit all students.

Student directory to be published soon

Foothill College is to have a student directory. Joe Brundage, the cost and the date it could be president of the student body, appointed a committee to look into made available to the students.

The plan calls for the directory to contain the names, addresses, and phone numbers of all students, faculty, and staff. No definite date has been set for completion of the directory.

The cost of the directory is expected to be between $250 and $300. Directories will be sold to students for a nominal fee.

Language lab in room 211

French and Spanish language students will be able to work on their skills of pronunciation and speech with a new language laboratory in room 211, according to Dr. Manuel Guerra, foreign language instructor.

The lab consists of several ear-phones attached to a tape recorder in such a way that the students can easily copy and imitate the intonations and sounds of the lectures taken from previous chapters of the text and prepared for them by the instructor.

Coffee and doughnuts, students?

Center offers much hard work

By Lee Fairchild

Disgusted, bored, tired or lazy? Then try to get a job at the Student Union Bookstore. Of course if you are any of the above they won't hire you.

Let's start with a typical day at the bookstore and lunch counter.

A cheery faced woman walks in at approximately 7 a.m. and puts on the coffee. Then in a few minutes the first student shows up for his breakfast, usually a cup of coffee and a doughnut. The woman at the counter with the big smile, Mrs. Helen Wyatt, finally gets a break about 8 a.m. when the first of the hired student help shows up.

Things are really humming about two hours later when the faculty and students come in mass to get their morning coffee. Mrs. Wyatt and her helpers are busy making sandwiches, hamburgers, and hot dogs for the students that will invade the coffee shop about noon.

All this time the bookstore has been getting a dribble of business. The beginning of the semester rush is over and Jim Jones, director of the Student Union, sits in his swivel chair and looks very thoughtful about the shape the world is in. His secretary is figuring out what books to send back, or perhaps it's just a problem of one of the people

Ecstasy of percher's fever strikes sifting sun, sea set

The sun and the sea are a combination most people can't resist. Beach fever strikes early in March when the blossoms are still fragrant in the wind and lingers until November when the hills turn brown.

FLC elects new chiefs

The new president of the Foreign Language Club is Jill Shaffer. Jill, a sophomore language major from Cupertino, attended San Jose City College before coming to Foothill College.

Last Sunday the Foreign Language Club held a meeting at the house of Beverly McMonagle in Palo Alto.

Ann Tamany was elected vice president and Genevive McKinnon was elected secretary.

After the meeting slides and movies of a recent two month trip to Mexico were shown by Mrs. Bonnie Seymour.

Some of the scenes shown were of Mexico City University, Guadalajara, the second largest city in Mexico, and a few of the bullfights.

Immediately after the movies, refreshments were served by the hostess, Beverly McMonagle.

"The plague is here! If you are a beach percher, life is now full of fun and frolic with a few classes sandwiched in between. Bravo to the student who looked ahead and has managed to schedule all morning classes.

What ecstasy to watch the waves roll into the beach! What pleasure to hear the pounding of the surf! What fascination to be a beach percher sifting the sand through your toes.

There is a deeper significance to beach perching than merely lolling on the beach however for beach perching is a sport. A sport of challenge and competition. For a girl the competition consists of trying to outdo members of her own sex in a bid for the attentions of the men. For the men the competition lies in the challenge of the sun, wind and the girl.

Pale today, tan tomorrow! This is the call to arms. Bring out tanning oil dark glasses and beach towels. It's off to war you go and what price glory?

AND FOR THIS WEEK ONLY, we have a deal on this little number which guarantees you—Joe Brundage, student body president, holds down Foothill's bookstore.

working for the book store.

Meanwhile, the help is getting ready to start cleaning up the first mess that was left behind when everyone left for class. Nobody put his cup in the pan, but that's to be expected.

The big rush is over and the workers can rest on their laurels for a short time. At 5 p.m. the student union closes for the day.

The student union is dark until about 6:30 p.m. when the night students begin to arrive. The night students have only one desire in life—complain about their texts not having arrived.

The coffee is selling fast by the time the first evening break is over. From then until closing time the rush never seems to stop. At last 10 p.m. rolls around and its time to sign out and head for home.

The day is over and the poor weary student union workers wend their way slowly home.

Cancer query

Worried by the thought of cancer striking?

The Los Altos Unit of the American Cancer Society is completing plans for a cancer control education program to be presented at Covington School at 8 p.m., on April 7.

A question and answer period will be followed by a movie on cancer.

Nix on juke box in student center says union board

A juke box in the student union was discussed by the Student Union Board. It was ruled out because, Arla DeHart said, "This is a college union."

The students are not the only ones who use the union. Teachers also use it, and the faculty doesn't like the idea of listening to rock and roll music during lunch time. Speakers will be set up in the union to carry music from F.M. stations on the radio for the relaxation of both the students and faculty members.

Also discussed was the budget for the student union.

The board is made up of DeHart, dean of students and chairman of the board; Jones, director; Miss Joan Seavey, student activities adviser; Walter Maus, faculty representative; Joe Brundage, ASFC president; Sandy Killian, ASFC chairman and Ray Crump, commissioner of finance.

Basketball ends league season

By Larry Bennett

Yesterday marked the end of intramural basketball at Foothill College. The outside courts have been the arena for contention these last few weeks.

The league was organized by Miss Helen Windham, women's physical education director. The league has a council which is made up of five men and five women. The president for the men is Ray Babb and for the women is Cecil Kuntz.

The council makes all the decisions and operates the league. They also set up the schedule for the teams and the time they are going to play. As it stands now the teams play every Tuesday and Thursday from 3 p.m. to 5:30 p.m. The league has been set up according to the number of teams participating.

Miss Windham reported that Foothill will invite teams from other colleges to play increasing competition. The games will be played either here or on the opponent's court.

The first preview of the action that took place was the last moving game between the Maggots and the Jokers.

Jim Konrad and Larry Roberts led the Maggots to a 44 to 38 victory with 16 and 12 points respectively. The Jokers fought hard and rallied in the second half. The lead bounced back and forth until the final two minutes when Jim Konrad sank two field goals in a row which cinched the game for the Maggots.

Jake Ahren with 16 points and Jim Rey with 14 points held the scoring honors for the hard fighting Jokers.

At the close of the game the action got a little rough and the referee was kept on his toes preventing hot words from turning into a free for all.

In the second game the Foothill Griffins confined the Free Lancers to 30 points and ran away with the game scoring a total of 89 points. The Free Lancers were outclassed throughout the game by the sharp shooting Ron Riso who tallied 30 points and "Bugs" Garcia with 25 points. The leading scorers for the Free Lancers were Carl Niper with 10 points and Herman Nerica with 8 points.

Surprisingly enough, between 30 and 50 spectators watched both games. They seemed to enjoy both games and indicated their enthusiasm by continually cheering for their favorite team.

Owl girls bowl over Stanford's Injun squaws

Foothill College beats Stanford!

Last Saturday night at the Cherry Chase Bowl, Foothill coeds defeated the Stanford girls in bowling.

Although minus one girl, Foothill was still able to sweep the three game series from the Stanford bowlers. An average was taken of the eight scores registered by the four girls in their first two games. This score was added to the original total so that each team would have five scores each.

Carol Ann Kosek led the Foothill bowlers with a 411 series. Right behind her was Norma McMasters, 375; Jill Shaffer, 366; and Diane Michaelsen, 362. Diane also recorded the high game for the evening, bowling a 153.

After Carol Ann told her fiance, Chuck Finley, the boy from Texas said, "Do ya'll mean to tell me that lil' ol' Foothill College down here whupped the hell out of Stanford in bowling?"

Darin Dufour headed the Stanford bowlers in both high game and high

Students trek to Pt. Lobos May 11

The unique Monterey Cypress tree will be the object of particular study for the Botany and Zoology students on a field trip to Point Lobos Reserve in Carmel on May 11. The purpose of the trip is to study plant and animal life.

Also on the agenda, is the study of the geology of the area, soil and weather conditions, seals, birds, seashore animals, trees, and flowers.

This trip will be an opportunity for both Botany and Zoology students to see the relation between the two subjects and the broader horizons of living things in a natural setting," Ellis added.

Foothill lacks intercollegiate sports

Teams arranged for intramurals

Since Foothill lacks the excitement of intercollegiate athletics, it must make the most of the intramural program now under the leadership of Miss Helen Windham.

As in any other sport, the intramural council realized the necessity of rules to govern all participants

sis. Her scores were 142 for high game and 369 for high series. Other series were Linda Kink, 349; Marilyn Moore, 336; Elna Rodnhouse, 298; and Ann Moffit, 200. Ann, however, had to leave right after the second game. In the last game both teams played on even terms.

Stanford was also supposed to bowl the men's team from Foothill, but they never showed up for the contest. However, this didn't discourage the bowlers from Foothill as they still bowled a practice three game series to keep in shape.

Leo Takahata and Bob Keegan took high honors for the evening, bowling series of 549 and 524 respectively. Also bowling were: Jerry Buzzell, 440; Alan Valrius 423; Bill Newton, 417; Lee Fairchild, 381 and Jim Johnson, 320.

Miss Helen Windham said, "More invitations would be sent to other colleges inviting them to bring their bowling teams to challenge both the men and women teams here."

Women to do battle at Santa Rosa J. C.

Women's basketball, tennis and fencing teams will represent Foothill in the Santa Rosa Sports Day, at Santa Rosa, tomorrow. Registration will begin at 9:15 a.m. with games beginning at 10 a.m.

Coeds representing Foothill in basketball are: Barbara Titsworth, Sally Gieszl, Cecil Kuntz, Jill Shaffer, Pat Nicholas, Virginia Park, Helen Hughes, Linda Flores, Mary Sinclair, and Caroleann Kosek. Joanne Fordice and Pat Satton will go as officials for the games.

Fencing for Foothill will be: Molly Robinson, Sheri Baldwin, Marcia Wyatt, Chris Christensen and Jeanne Walker. The fencing team has been working under Miss Helen Windham for the past three weeks on a concentrated course.

The girls will be fencing against coeds who have had more experience, however Miss Windham feels that Foothill is able to match the others in skill as a result of the concentrated study.

Representing Foothill in tennis will be Beth Dale, Peggy Rey, Sue Woodwad, and Judy Sanford.

The girls will be served dessert and beverages at Santa Rosa, and the Foothill student union cafeteria will supply a short breakfast and lunch free of charge to the girls.

The bus will leave Foothill at 6:30 a.m. and will return late in the afternoon.

Faculty representative will be Miss Helen Windham.
