Schedule of Community Festival events

Festival here!

By KENNARD GRAY

"Find your place in the sun at Foothill College's Fifth Annual Community Festival," says Director Alison Good.

The day is fast approaching and the hour is drawing near when an estimated 15,000 people will be here.

This Saturday's festival is slated to be one of the biggest and best ever, with representatives from virtually every group imaginable.

"I think the strength of this year's festival is the diversity," says Good. "There's fun for all ages. We want to show our guests a great day, and at the same time, show them a wide variety of education and services that the Campus has to offer."

There are over 60 different events and activities taking place on Campus during the festival. "So, there's something for everyone," says Good.

One of the main areas in which gyrations can be witnessed is the Library Stage, located in front of Seman's Library. Here, a Street Corner Talent Contest will be held from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. The contest is being organized by ASFC President Bruce Jett. Dancers, mimes, strutters and breakers will battle it out for a distribution of cash prizes totaling $250.

There will not be an absence of eclectic music at this year's festival. Those interested in youth oriented music of a rock persuasion should bring their swimsuits and "bop, rock, twist, or whatever" by the pool, says Good. Five bands are scheduled to perform there.

For those who prefer other tunes, there will be performances by the El Camino Youth Symphony, Palo Alto Chamber Orchestra, Foothill Symphonia Wind Ensemble and the Don Olivet Jazz Quintet (check schedule, page 4, for times). Council member Jefferson Curry has been organizing the entertainment for this weekend's festival. "The effort that Jefferson put into negotiating and organizing the entertainment cannot be communicated in mere words. You had to be there to believe it," said Good.

Organizing club involvement is being handled by John Shapiro. John approached all the clubs through Organizations Board of Directors (OBD) and encouraged them to participate. JAHDA, the Dental Hygienists Club, is going to run the carnival games, the dunking booth and a drink stand. AGS, the Honor Society, is going to run a drink stand, a student services auction and a face paint-

Clements opposes ridicule

By KENNARD GRAY

Hyde Park, the area outside the Campus Bookstore, was developed as an area where people can express their opinions, according to Foothill College President Thomas Clements.

"Colleges need to have a difference of opinion expressed," said Clements. "That's our policy, and it's why Hyde Park exists." Two weeks ago, Stan Roberts did just that.

Clements said that Roberts has been here several times in the past and probably will continue to come in the future. "As long as he's not disruptive, he's welcome. There have been a couple of times in the past when he has had to be removed due to his disruptiveness."

Although Clements agrees with Roberts' First Amendment rights, he said that anyone who goes around preaching that sort of gospel is looking for a confrontation. "It's unfortunate, but understandable," he said.

"It seems to me if something is done to ridicule someone, then I'm opposed to it," said Clements. "I'm surprised certain people would take it upon themselves to do such a thing. Ridiculing is wrong."

Clements added one should not put another person down for what he or she believes in.

Clements reiterated the fact that difference of opinion is what brings life to a college, be it at Foothill or UC Berkeley. "People must be exposed to new things which expand their basis for belief."

Another issue involving freedom of expression deals with the nude painting on display in Seman's Library through May 9. The painting was part of the Cinco De Mayo celebration on Campus and appeared in last week's SENTINEL. Clements said he has received a number of requests to have the painting taken down. "I refuse to have it removed,"

he said. "At a college, censorship is inappropriate."

Clements said that as long as things are done in clear, generally acceptable taste, he will not intervene. He said general taste has been developed on Campus through discussions with various parties. "I'd have a hard time defending Hustler; however, there are reasonably good guidelines for people to follow."

Career Day offers job contacts

By RHONI GILKEY

Students should use Career Day, May 16, to their advantage, according to Victoria Taketa, Career Center assistant coordinator. "It will be one of the few times they have the opportunity to contact as many employment representatives as will be there that day," she said.

Students will have the chance for career information gathering, to learn about job possibilities and to meet potential employers, Taketa said. Information will be available for: internships; part time, full time and summer employment; cooperative work experience; flexible hours; child care facilities and actual job openings.

Victoria Taketa

Taketa had specific advice for students. It is very important, she said, that they go to the Career Center, located in the Student Development Center, to get help in preparing a resume, or to have someone critique a current resume for them.

Taketa advised that students dress appropriately, as if they were attending a job interview. She said they need to be ready with questions. They can get help from the Career Center in preparing the kind of questions that will give them the most benefit, she added.

A few of the companies being represented are: Intel, Tandem, Advance Micro Devices, Amdahl,

Letters

Council image undeserved

Editor:

Recently, the SENTINEL has publicized the actions of a few Council members who acted with considerable lack of forethought. I hope that the students of Foothill College understand that those persons' actions reflect little on the Council and what is actually done for the students by the council. In my mind, the action, or reaction of the students carrying signs stating, "Squash the Proletariat" goes directly against the beliefs and desires of the majority of Council members, and is in considerable conflict with what the Council stands for — serving the students.

Leslie Fay, an honorary lifetime member of the ASFC, wrote a letter to the SENTINEL that expressed her anguish over the acts of those few Council member. She had every right to do so, and you had every right to publish it. I have known and worked with Leslie for a long time now, and I can confidently say one thing: If there is one person on this campus that epitomizes SERVING the students, it's Leslie Fay. Before she became ASFC President, she worked on such projects as: acquiring better wheelchair access to the Campus Center, and extensive letter writing campaigns to help fight the tuition battle of over a year ago.

During her first term in office as president, she served with a Council that brought more politics to this "Yuppie" campus than was seen here in a long time.

There is one other thing that she should be thanked for: writing her letter of criticism. I fear that had she not written it, the issue of those person's actions and its possible reflection on the Council, wouldn't have been addressed in as timely a fashion as it was. Her letter caused both the Council and myself to review the actions that took place with introspection and self-criticism, an important function of any governing body.

The "thanks" that Leslie has received from very few people has been shameless. It even went so far as her privacy having been violated by an arrogant phone caller intent on verbally assaulting her for the stand she took, an act of cowardice that only accentuates the courage that Leslie has. Few other people know the kind of courage it takes to make a stand for what you believe is right, especially when it is unpopular with your "friends"

Leslie Fay, myself, and many other people on Council have worked too hard to simply sit by and allow the mindless acts of a few, whether the acts were jokes or not, to implant an image of the Council as uncaring, inconsiderate or unerving.

With that in mind, I have to say two things: 1) Leslie, you've got guts, and for that I admire you; and 2) the ASFC Campus Council, you're still, collectively, one of the best. Those of you who have worked so hard to give the students the service and support they deserve, know who you are. I am sure that you won't let those other few drag you down.

ASFC rep raps SENTINEL scribe

Editor:

I would like to voice my mild disappointment with the Foothill SENTINEL and most vigorously with staff writer Michael Belef. Looking at the headline of May 2, 1985, "Students Ridicule Radical" two more truthful headlines instantly came to mind, "Mike Belef Ridicules Radical" and "Radical Ridicules Students."

Although it is regrettable that Student Council members were responsible for holding signs (and they certainly did not represent Council as a body), no mention is made of the fact that Mike Belef was frantically haranguing the "radical" (inciting him to make vehement statements).

The Council members responsible were there for not much more than five minutes compared to the days that the "radical" engaged passing students in thought-provoking conversation. The Council members meant only to show, humorously, some of the hypocrisy of how and what the man was preaching. There was no great outcry of abuse at that time and everybody thought it was a joke and nothing else.

Following the incident, Michael Belef looked for more "information" with which to complement his story. A statement quoted from Randi McHargue was printed despite the fact that she adamantly wished it not be reported.

Looking over past SENTINELs, I hope the story was exaggerated merely to get attention or fill the paper; not to personally insult or defame other peoples' characters. I recognize the necessity for keeping the student body informed, but not with half-truths coming under the name of journalism.

—Ralph Langenheim III
Foothill Student

Editor's note: There were no half-truths. Reporters Mike Belef and Deborah Smith stand by their story.

R. McHargue dishonored?

Editor:

Praise for Jerome Mark's and ex-president Fay's comments (SENTINEL, May 3) on the Stan Roberts demonstration incident. Whether or not I personally agree with Stan's political views is not the question. It is Stan's right to free speech which I concern myself with.

This was the first amendment in action here at Foothill! Are we really so sheltered and repressed here that an opinion should shock us into making a statement like Randi McHargue's "... if he doesn't like it here, he should go some place else,?"

This is an embarrassingly ignorant remark made by a student who is supposed to be highly regarded academically here at Foothill. Randi's accomplishments are well publicized in this paper, from scholarships to AGS, but what a myopic attitude about the freedom of speech.

Randi, you're not alone. The student councilites out there with "Subjugate the Masses" signs as a joke shouldn't have been — at least not representing the students of this school.

Randi & Company, "I don't like you here, why don't you go some place else?"

Student replacement needed on board

By RHONI GILKEY

Wanted: Applicants to apply for the position of student representative to the Foothill-De Anza Board of Trustees.

Student Board member Dolly Sandoval, who has served a year's term as representative, is advertising for her replacement. According to Sandoval, selected members of ASFC and DASB will choose one from the list of applicants to be seated on the Board June 3, to represent students of both Foothill and De Anza until May 14, 1986.

Anyone interested in the job who has accumulated 20 quarter credits at either school, who will be enrolled for at least seven units during the term of office and who has a minimum GPA of 2.5, has until May 22 to turn in a completed application to Mrs. Thacher in the Student Activities office.

Sandoval sees the value of having a student representative. "It's important for the Board of Trustees to know how students feel about issues that affect them. In turn it is important for the students to be aware of the issues the Board deals with. The students are affected administratively, economically and academically by decisions made by the Board," she said.

Mary Wallace Wheat, Board member, said she has enjoyed the participation of student trustees. "We are fortunate to have had such an outstanding group that it makes me believe that the selection process is effective," she said. "I think it is a really valuable experience for students and it adds perspective to the Board," she added.

One of the first agenda items facing the new student representative will be to study the proposed district budget, according to Sandoval.

She feels there are a number of essential duties required of the next representative. They are to: read Board packets and do research to learn the history of agenda items and how they affect all concerned; take time to search out issues and find how they relate to student needs; talk to students on both campuses and find out through surveys, polls and newspaper articles what their concerns are; and be willing to ask questions and not be intimidated by administrators.

One of Sandoval's accomplishments during the past year, she said, was to gather 1,000 signatures from students, staff and administrators to protest student financial aid cuts. She submitted the petitions at the Community College Board of Trustees Legislative Conference in Washington, D.C., Feb. 21.

Response varied, according to Sandoval. Secretary of Education William Bennett was unresponsive to the petitions, and Norman Mineta, congressman from the 13th District, supported the position.

Congressman Ed Zschau from the 12th District, supported the Reagan administration budget cuts. "He promised to come out to the colleges to discuss his position and our concerns before the budget was passed," she said. "He hasn't fulfilled that promise, nor has he given me any indication he will even though I have been in constant contact with him."

"Dolly served very well," said Alfred Chasuk, Board president. "We just hope we get another just as good as Dolly. All of our student trustees have been excellent and have contributed greatly."

Sandoval, Wheat and Chasuk echoed the same sentiment — that they hope there will be competition, with good, qualified people applying for the job.

McDonald: 'Innovation---a team effort'

By MICHAEL FIELD

Supervising the expansion of computerized resources available to Foothill students has earned Marilyn McDonald, assistant dean of learning resources, an Honorable Mention from the Foothill-De Anza Innovator of the Year Committee. The Innovator of the Year award is sponsored by the League of Innovation, a national organization.

Asked by the selection committee, as part of the consideration process, to describe her own contributions, McDonald said that "innovation is always part of a team effort." She described her goals as seeking to "increase access to information by the faculty, staff and students, promote computer literacy, and increase productivity by using microcomputers and computer systems."

The new systems which have been put in place under McDonald's supervision, include automated cataloging, computerized inter-library loan, computerized information retrieval, and the establishment of an open microcomputer lab in the Individual Study Center. The open lab provides a place where students and staff can utilize microcomputer systems for a variety of individual and instructional purposes, she said.

In addition, McDonald also cited the development of a capability within the audio visual department to service microcomputers within the college, eliminating the need for outside service contracts.

McDonald describes her association with Foothill in glowing terms: "I believe in the mission of the community college as it affects the many groups we serve, and I'm proud to be here. We really make a difference."

ing booth, in addition to helping with the security and parking control. AEI, Estudiantil-Ibero, has been contracted for the set-up and the clean-up of the stages and the Campus. PBSA, the Progressive Black Students Association, is going to run a drink stand and help with the security and parking control. The Ornamental Horticulture Club is going to have a plant display and sale in conjunction with the OH department. "There are more clubs involved, but too many to name," says Good.

All-day events include indoor soccer, tennis, volleyball and Ultimate Frisbee tournaments; amateur radio electronics flea market, craft sales and a wind surfing demonstration.

Departments of Foothill College will be open as well. They include the Honors Program office, the Electronics Museum, the Computer Lab, Library 8, the Computer Graphics classroom and the art area, which will feature a show and sale accompanied by jazz, classical and pop music.

Radiologic Technology, the Flight Simulator, Health Services, Children's Center, Japanese Cultural Center and KFJC, to name a few, will all be open to the public.

Scheduled activities, such as a fashion show, cheerleader and pompon girl tryouts, an aerobics demonstration, a Shakespeare troupe, water safety demonstration and a Frisbee demonstration "will keep the activity level high for the whole day," says Good.

The Semans Library will sponsor a book sale as part of the festival. The sale will be held in Library 8 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Organized games for children are planned for Saturday from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. A petting zoo will also take place in the Animal Health Technology complex.

Free lung screenings will be given by Foothill's Respiratory Therapy Department.

A wide variety of international foods will be sold throughout the Campus.

To round out the evening, the Foothill Drama Department will present a performance of Shakespeare's "As You Like It," at 8 p.m., in the main theatre.

The members of ASFC, which sponsors the festival, have been working diligently to ensure a spectacular festival, says Good. "There are a lot of people doing many things and I can't possibly name them all. However, the main areas of organization and planning include: facilities, publicity, entertainment and club involvement."

The facilities organizations is being handled by Paul Junker. Facilities is everything that touches the ground on Campus, according to Good. "Paul handled it all and even found time to organize the Fine Arts portion of the festival. The festival would not be happening if Paul had not been so willing and reliable."

According to Good, publicity director John Roach, along with Paul Junker, Jessica Rose, Becky Locke and many others, have contributed greatly in promoting the festival.

Just under $4,000 has been spent on publicizing this event. This included a 30-second spot on the program, "People Are Talking," Thursday.

"One of the biggest reasons for having a community festival is to give the students of Foothill College the opportunity to learn while they are working," says Good, adding that students leave the college with experience, in addition to an education.

Bruce Jett summed it all up by saying, "This, by far, should be the most successful festival ever presented."

Foothill College students Paul Junker and Kathy Osterhaus (seated) and Foolsie the Foothill mascot will entertain thousands of visitors like Stacy and Jeffrey Millichap of Los Altos Hills at the 5th Annual Foothill Community Festival.

Foothill radio spreads mayhem

By KENNARD GRAY

A "Month of Mayhem" is upon us. Radio listeners who want to discover what it's all about from a musical standpoint should tune to KFJC-FM, 89.7.

Music Director Scott Stapleton describes "Month of Mayhem" as a month filled with special programs featuring some of the more popular and unpopular bands in the world. The specials include rare music, interviews and a great deal of biographical information on featured artists.

"It all started a couple years back," said Stapleton. "May was chosen as a time for mayhem because usually at most commercial radio stations it's sweeps [ratings] month. If you notice when you listen to the major stations, there are a great deal of contests going on designed to entice the listener." Stapleton said that since KFJC isn't really involved in commercial radio's annual ratings race, they decided to have a "Month of Mayhem" instead.

May was also chosen because of the spring schedule, according to Stapleton. "After May, school is out and April is the month when these various programs are being planned out. So, May is an opportune time."

Basically "Month of Mayhem" covers and uncovers all different types of music, according to Stapleton. "We try and come up with things that not only hold a certain contemporary value, but also get people to think about what they like and why they like it."

"Month of Mayhem" consists of nearly 20 different programs on various acts and groups. "Our goal is to do something educational as well as fun," said Stapleton, adding that a lot of time is spent by staff members researching and finding out everything there is to know about a certain artist or group.

Stapleton says it's even more of a challenge to do research on a band that's not established.

This year one of the "Month of Mayhem" specials on KFJC will be the Depeche Mode Special, hosted by Joe Friday and Karol Brunette. Depeche Mode is one of the original modern synth pop bands that continue to gain momentum as others fade to obscurity, according to Friday. Brunette and Friday plan to play a chronology of their music, featuring live material, at 6 p.m. on May 14.

Another program being planned is the Detroit Special. From noon to 8 p.m. on Sunday, May 26, Danny Detroit will highlight the contributions of Detroit Talent. A Motor City Countdown will be included in the last hour. Special requests are being accepted by KFJC.

English bands of the 60s and 70s that dared to play twisted subverted aggressive rock and roll when everyone else was singing about flowers and being brain damaged will be a program called "Psychedelic Rowdies," according to host, Phil Dirt. The program will take place from 6 p.m. to midnight. Some of the bands include the Deviants and the Pink Fairies. "The music is aggressive, fun, and basic rock and roll," said Dirt, adding that the psychedelic influences are heavy but not overpowering.

Designing these programs is like putting a puzzle together, says Stapleton. "It's up to the individual who designs the programs to decide what aspect he or she will cover in presenting it," he said. "Some might start at the beginning and work up to the payoff, while others might focus only on the beginning." Stapleton added, "It's interesting to see how each individual will approach the project."

Past "Month of Mayhem" programs have been extremely successful, according to Stapleton. He added that this year they plan the finest one ever.

"Invariably people will call in after hearing one of the specials and comment on how much they liked it," he said. "Once the specials are being run, more people want to get involved which is very encouraging."

Alcohol/drug abuse program begins at Foothill

By ERIK BRATT

Are you an abuser of drugs and/or alcohol? If you answered yes, then Foothill student David Gibbs' new referral/advisory service for drug abusers may interest you.

The service, which started last Wednesday in B-5, is designed to help students and staff who feel they're having drug or alcohol-related problems.

"I want to find people around Campus who feel they drink and use drugs excessively and guide them to programs around this area that deal with drug/alcohol abuse," said Gibbs, an alcoholic.

"Room B-5 would be a place where people can go and talk to me about their problems in complete privacy," he added. "I can relate to where they're coming from; I know what it's like."

Born 24 years ago in San Mateo, Gibbs graduated from Mayfield High School. He said he started drinking and using drugs at eight years old. He has been sober since July 8, 1983, because he was "tired of living on the streets and going to jail."

A judge told him he could either go to Alcoholics Anonymous (AA) or spend six months in jail. "I chose AA," said Gibbs. "They offered me a way of life where I don't have to live on the streets."

"I want to reach out and help other people who have the same addictive tendencies that I did," he explained. "AA has shown me I can't stay sober by myself and if I can help one person get on that road to sobriety, then the program's a success."

What is alcoholism? According to Dotty Carpenter, from the National Council on Alcoholism, it is an addiction to booze. "One is an alcoholic when one's life centers around drinking and the person is not able to function without it," she said.

"Alcoholism isn't how much you drink, but how much it affects your life," continued Carpenter, who also says there are over 400

AA meetings every week in Santa Clara County.

Carpenter says that the average age of an AA member used to be in the late 30s, but now the age is moving down because drinking is becoming an "accepted part of life." "There is an increasing number of teenagers at AA meetings," remarked Carpenter, also an alcoholic.

Gibbs feels that there's a lot of drinking among both faculty and students on Campus. "I overhear conversations that I can relate to in my alcoholic ways," he said.

In room B-5, between 12:30 and

2:30 p.m., Monday through Friday, Gibbs will not only offer free advice, but there will be AA and NA (Narcotics Anonymous) approved literature plus information on various alcoholic abuse programs for anyone interested.

"Nobody's name will be revealed to the school, police, probation officers or anyone else," Gibbs stressed. "I'm willing to help even if it means driving people who do come in to an AA meeting myself."

Gibbs, who hopes to keep the service running through next year, added: "I hope people will not be embarrassed to come . . . for their sake."

Shakespeare cast into future in Foothill fantasy play

By DIANE FORD

A fantasy version of Shakespeare's comedy, "As You Like It," set in the year 11,000 A.D., will come to the Foothill College Theatre at 8 p.m., Friday and Saturday, May 10 and 11.

This new Foothill Drama Department production, directed by Foothill drama instructor Daryl Lindstrom, will have an original score composed and synthesized by Charlie Cutten.

Heather Sanderson will play Rosalind. Sanderson, a Bay Area actress, has performed with the California Conservatory Theatre in San Leandro and Theatreworks. She has studied in England, and appeared in "Murder in the Cathedral" at Grace Cathedral in San Francisco.

John Oswald will play Orlando and has studied at the Royal Shakespeare Company in England.

Director Lindstrom has taught and directed productions at Boston University and the University of Rhode Island. She was just awarded a National Endowment for the Humanities stipend to study Shakespearean genre at Harvard University.

The cast includes: Alan Begon, Elizabeth Buhr, Bob Compagni, Beverly Crawford, Norman Crawford, Kathy Dechow, Mark Dodson, Kirk Eicher, Carol Emerich, David Engstrom, Mike Frecceri, Diane Holcomb, Susan Larson, Judy McCandless, Sheri Martin, Christine McKenzie, Claudia Moody, Scott Rasmussen, Sandra Petritsch, Heather Sanderson, Jon Selover and Gino Torrey.

Space-age costumes, make-up and hair design are being designed by Janis Cortez. The set design is by another Foothill instructor, Jay Manley. Rachel Oster is in charge of musicology, lighting design is headed up by Tom Stocker and Alexandra Brodmann is the associate lighting designer.

Tickets for "As You Like It" are available at the Foothill College Box Office and California Avenue Box Office. For more information call 415/948-4444.

The Evil Duke Frederick, played by Alan Begoun, and Rosalind, played by Heather Sanderson, bring Shakespeare into the future at Foothill College Theatre.

GOTCHA!

This spy-thriller-comedy from director Jeff Kanew ("Revenge of the Nerds"), begins with a Southern California college student, Anthony Edwards ("Revenge of the Nerds"), engaged in a pretend spy battle on campus, and then turns into real spy stuff in Europe. Falling for a beautiful and mysterious Czechoslovakian woman in Paris, tumbles him into trouble in Berlin.

JEFF: As any comedy will, this movie has its funny spots, but by stereotyping the characters, it quickly becomes an insult to Latinos and to half of Europe. The "hero," Johnathon Moore, comes off looking like an "ass" when he gets upset that a French waiter doesn't speak perfect English and when he flips off an East German guard at the Berlin Wall; yet these people are portrayed as the villains.

EOE

There is "Vlad," the Russian spy, and "Manillo," Johnathon's slick Latino friend, along with a host of extras who speak in fake foreign accents. Although it was filmed in Europe, the producers probably couldn't find enough European actors who fit the shoddy characterizations.

ROBIN: Where are these "funny spots"? This movie is simply the average teenage sex-comedy. It is rude and insulting and often bordering on tasteless. You were right about the main character; Johnathon Moore is the epitome of "the ugly American" during his adventures. However, you forgot to mention that this movie is more predictable than your average TV soap opera. "Gotcha!" is the type of movie which will soon be making its glorious debut on cable.

Men's tennis dominates

By BILL MUSICK

The only one not surprised at the upsets that occurred last Saturday in the Golden Gate Conference tennis championships was coach Tom Chivington.

"I've been telling people all season that the depth of this team is what makes it such a great team," said Chivington. "Saturday's performance was a perfect example of the quality of this team. It was like a no-hitter in baseball or a 300 game in bowling."

Foothill dominated the competition with all six singles players making it to the final eight and the three doubles teams making it to the final four.

In singles, fifth-seeded Robert Green defeated second-seeded Marcelo Tella in the quarter-finals, then beat third-seeded Kelly Kerner in the semi-finals and lastly, defeated his third teammate of the tournament, fourth-seeded Layne Lyssy in the finals for the GGC singles championship.

Lyssy had defeated Handley of West Valley in the quarter-finals and teammate Cort Schultz in the semi-finals before losing to Green.

Joining Tella with a loss in the quarter finals was tournament top seed Nelson Banes who lost to teammate and doubles partner, sixth-seeded Cort Schultz.

In doubles competition Tella-Lyssy (first seed) defeated Kadota-Hampton (Canada) to set up a Foothill showdown for the doubles championship.

In the other semi-final match Kerner-Green (second seed) defeated Banes-Schultz (third seed) and then upset Tella-Lyssy for the title. This was the second GGC doubles title for Kerner, who last year teamed with Craig Corfield for the Nor-Cal title.

"I'm very pleased with the GGC results," said Chivington. "A performance like that resulting in an all Foothill final makes you look like a great coach for the day. It's nice to be in a no lose situation and there just wasn't any way we could lose. Robert Green did an outstanding job winning the singles and sharing in the doubles championship."

The Owls will be at West Valley this week (May 9-11) to compete in the Nor-Cal Individuals championships. Foothill has already won the Nor-Cal team title and will face the southern representative May 17-18 at Chabot in the state championship tournament.

The top eight singles players and the top eight doubles teams in the Nor-Cal tourney will advance to the state tournament.

Flying Owls soar

By BILL MUSICK

The Flying Owls journey to Sacramento Friday, May 10, to compete in the finals of the Northern California Community College Track and Field Championships. Foothill has seven women and 12 men in the finals.

"We're having a good season," said track and field coach "Peanut" Harms. "The women have a chance to challenge for the title. I think we have one of the three best women's teams in Northern California. The men's team has bettered overall expectations this season and we're taking a good sized team into Nor-Cal. I think we'll do all right in Sacramento."

Foothill school record holders Anne Kendrick, Mary Beth Henke, Linda Mantynen and Beckie Van Zant will be joined by Kelly Bungo, Shirley O'Neill and possibly Michele Dubois in an attempt to add the Nor-Cal title to the GGC championship won two weeks ago in San Jose.

The men's team will feature Mike Schmidt in the javelin (GGC Champion), Steve Scholz in the 1500 meters and Dave Lapp in the pole vault.

Les Branson and Steve Walker will run the 400 meters, and Mike Mathews and Paul Hoover will compete in the steeple chase.

Todd Thomas will run in the 800 meters, an event he is capable of winning if he can lower his time to the level he reached last year when he covered the distance in 1:52.9.

Andy Mantel will throw the javelin and Andy Parker (LJ) and Dave Campbell (800 meters) are alternates in their events and Campbell will join Branson, Walker and Sanders on the mile relay team.

The next event for those that qualify in Sacramento will be the state meet, May 17-18 at Modesto.

Special education student Peter McDonald, in his first year at Foothill College, has made a special contribution to Foothill athletics by serving as manager for the basketball and track and field teams.

Softball team wins

By ERIK BRATT

The Foothill softball team cashed in on three De Anza errors to score four runs in the top of the sixth inning, to down the Dons 4-3 on April 25 at Foothill.

Carolyn Gabe, who pitched the entire game for the Owls, scored the winning run from third base on a passed ball; a walk and two wild pitches helped provide the other three runs.

Gabe, who only walked one batter, pitched her way out of trouble in the sixth inning with the bases loaded, and again in the seventh. "It was very exciting," commented Coach Elaine Rotty.

On April 23, Chabot, aided by 10 Foothill errors, delivered an 11-2 thrashing to the Owls. Three days later, San Jose City scored three runs in the top of the tenth to wing the birds, 4-1.

Then on April 30, in the final game of the season, the Owls succumbed to West Valley, 2-1. Foothill led 1-0 going into the bottom of the third when an overthrown ball resulted in two unearned WV runs. Lynn Pirofalo's RBI single scored Foothill's only run.

The team rounded out the season in sixth place in the Golden Gate Conference with a 3-11 record. The first half of the season the Owls went 0-7 and in the second half, 3-4. "We improved that much, in pitching and outfielding," emphasized Rotty.

According to Rotty, the team has been hampered by injuries all year. There were only three people on the team who did not suffer incapacitating injuries at some time during the season. "Without the injuries, we would have easily been in the playoffs," said Rotty.

Would you support a war against Nicaragua?

By CHET TROSSMAN & ANA AIZENBERG

JUDY JOO
(Interior Design):

No. We have no business intervening in their affairs. We should worry about our own problems.

BRIAN OWEN
(Journalism):

I probably wouldn't go. I'd just as soon go to jail.

ERWIN AULERS
(Business):

I don't want war, but I don't like the Sandanista government. I don't think the U.S. should invade Nicaragua.

JOSH POLLOCK
(Drama):

No. Even if I did believe in fighting, I wouldn't do my country any good. I'm a lousy fighter.

NAN DAK
(Business):

I think we should be kind to smaller countries. They cannot defend themselves.
