

Mitzman out, Angelo in as president

Mitzman: too few units

ASDAC President Marshall Mitzman resigned last week after explaining to Student Council that he had dropped below the 12 semester units required to hold a student office. Vice-President Jim Angelo has taken his place.

Mitzman told the council that he had been informed on the last Friday of Christmas vacation that having dropped three units he was no longer eligible for the Work Study Program. This brought up the fact that the newly approved student constitution stipulates that a student holding an office must be carrying a class load of at least 12 units.

THE COUNCIL SAT in silence for a few moments before Larry Evans, director of finance, asked Mitzman what he thought the council should do.

"With only one week left in the semester until Dead Week, the semester as far as activities go ends this week. I will resign of course if you so wish. I feel it is your decision. I am down units . . . by the law which we have written, the students have approved, a law we have to abide by," replied Mitzman.

Council members, concerned over setting a precedent worried that not abiding by the provisions of the constitution would take apart Student Council. It was pointed out that the last week couldn't be nullified because of the planning for the new semester which was going on and the things which were happening during the week.

MITZMAN ENDED the discussion by saying he didn't think the council would have to vote.

"I formally resign as of today. It's been a very good semester. I'll be of as much help to any of you as I can."

Angelo announced that there will be no policy changes or operational changes that he could see at the moment.

"I think Marshall deserves great recognition for having the nerve and guts to come here and tell us. I hope I can fill his shoes," he added.

ANGELO ALSO commented that he realized that a number of people were thinking about resigning and asked them to continue on for a few more weeks.

Students, faculty meet

Asilomar offers exchange

Approximately 60 De Anza students, faculty and administrators got a unique opportunity last weekend to exchange ideas, complaints and opinions on a variety of problems facing the College.

The student-faculty retreat, possibly the first of its kind on the junior college level in California, was held Jan. 5 and 6 at the Asilomar Conference Grounds at Pacific Grove, near Monterey.

THE RETREAT was centered around small group seminars of approximately 10 persons (one student per administrator, instructor or counselor) each.

Each seminar met twice for two hours, discussing suggested topics such as student-faculty relations and free expression, and other related topics participants felt worth considering.

Seminar chairmen then reported the results of their groups to an entire De Anza assembly. Rather than offering any definite answers, chairmen offered their groups' general conclusions in the hope they might further be studied and lead to De Anza's future.

COMMITTEES ARE presently being planned to investigate the feasibility of the more important ideas brought up at the retreat.

Foothill College also had a similar conference at Asilomar, but seminar and assembly meetings were not mixed between the two schools. At the joint De Anza-Foothill general assembly, Marshall Mitzman, De Anza Conference Chairman, and Rich Chapman, Foothill Conference Chairman, noted the enthusiastic response from all attending and expressed their schools' desires for a similar retreat next year.

Schola offers Biblical work

The Schola Cantorum concert will be presented at the Foothill College Gym Sunday evening, Jan. 28, at 8 p.m.

Solomon is the oratorio, a musical opera with no action, which was composed by Handel.

Directing the oratorio will be Royal Stanton, De Anza's fine arts department chairman. Stanton is also the conductor of the Master Sinfonia.

A 130-voice chorus and a full orchestra will be performing. Richard Randolph, De Anza music instructor, will play the harpsichord. Major soloists are Archie Drake from Los Angeles and Lorene Adams. Drake portrays Solomon and Miss Adams portrays a queen.

Act I begins with Solomon and his wife, the queen, consecrating a new temple with songs of praise to God.

(Both De Anza and Foothill's retreats were held instead of the annual faculty retreat, since the Colleges' faculty felt it unwise to attend this year due to work on conversion to the quarter system.)

Foothill Junior College District Supt. Calvin Flint notified the assembly that the board of trustees, present at the retreat, had agreed to allocate the necessary District funds needed to help make a similar retreat possible next year.

Recital series offers harpist at DA tonight

Contemporary harpist Marcela De Cray will perform tonight at 8:15 in the second of this year's De Anza recital series. The performance will be held in the De Anza Forum Building.

Miss De Cray, who is presently a member of the San Francisco Symphony and a teacher at the Aspen Music Festival, has performed with the Metropolitan Opera Orchestra of New York, the Philadelphia Orchestra and in 800 recitals.

She will begin her recital by playing Spohr's "Fantaisie, Op. 35" and continue with Bach, Dussek and Hindemith sonatas. Later in the evening Miss De Cray will perform Faure's "Une Chatelaine En Sa Tour," Krennek's sonata and Prokofieff's "Piece for Harp and Prelude in C."

Tickets are $2 and are available at the De Anza box office.

Adviser to magazine withdraws from post

Mrs. Connie Mundrick has withdrawn as adviser to the student opinion journal.

Mrs. Mundrick, English instructor, withdrew after the magazine's staff included in their code a section stating that there will be three faculty advisers on the journal's editorial board.

"IF THERE HAD to be a panel of advisers, I didn't want to be one of them because I don't think the magazine will be able to accomplish what needs to be done."

The delay in the first issue of the journal has been due to a lack of funds. A request for funds can be endorsed by the Mass Communications Board only after it has adopted its code and accepted the code of the journal. The board has almost completed its code.

Getting students and administration in agreement as to what would constitute an acceptable code to both parties has been another delay. Mrs. Mundrick said she feels that Dr.

DeHart wants a journal "but he wants it to be harmless. He wants safeguards to make sure that the legislators and community are not disturbed." To this Mrs. Mundrick argues that "the journal is impotent if it is safe."

MRS. MUNDRICK criticized the prescribed steps needed to become a school-sanctioned journal. "They don't require all people to follow the rules, only some of them." As to the procedure she further stated, "It's a farce. You could spend an awful lot of energy trying to make something workable within arbitrary and sometimes personal rules."

Mrs. Mundrick noted that until the recent passage of the ASDAC constitution student government was operating without legal sanction of the Board of Trustees, who must approve the constitution.

Although it was illegal the explanation usually given was "we have to have some rules to work by." Because of the length of time and many obstacles the journal has had to face, Mrs. Mundrick feels that somebody has had the idea to just tire people out in order to get them to give up.

THE STUDENTS ON the staff of Sapien, headed by editor Geoff Baker, hope to have an issue out shortly after the semester break.

La Voz wants YOU

Students interested in writing and photographing campus news and finding out what never makes it into print are invited to join the staff of La Voz, editor Arn Heller announced today.

Journalism 61 includes reporters, columnists, sports writers and photographers. Students interested in the advertising, business and circulation aspects of the paper should enroll in Journalism 63. Both classes are two-unit transfer classes.

Although students with previous experience are preferred, experience is not a prerequisite for joining the staff. However, prospective editors and reporters should know how to type-write and have at least a passing grade in English 102A or English 1A.

Interested photographers should have completed Photo 51A with at least a grade of "B" or have previous experience in handling a camera and darkroom.

Further information is available from editor Heller or adviser Warren Mack, room L-41.

DAC cohosts joint concert

The concert bands of both De Anza and Foothill Colleges will present a Winter Concert tonight at 8:15 in the Foothill College Theatre. The concert will feature an original piece entitled "Kaleidoscope for Percussion."

The original three-movement suite was composed by Richard Peterson, a percussionist, organist and musical director for Christ Episcopal Church of Los Altos. Peterson will be guest conductor for his work which will be performed by the 10-member percussion section of the Foothill Band.

Dr. Herb Patnoe will conduct De Anza's 44-member band which will perform "Festival Prelude" by Alfred Reed, scenes from "The Louvre" by Norman Dello Joio, and Roger Nixon's "Elegy and Fanfare-March."

John Williamson, Foothill band director, will lead Foothill's 50-member band in Frank Beniciscutto's "Lyric Dance," "Serenade for Band" by William P. Latham, and William Schuman's "George Washington Bridge."

The two bands will combine to perform "First Suite in E-Flat for Military Band" by Gustav Holst, Felix Mendelssohn's "Overture for Band" and "January February March" by Don Gillis. Williamson will conduct this portion of the program.

Tickets are $1 for adults and 50 cents for all students and may be obtained at the College Box Office or at the door.

Discovery '68

Last weekend a group of students, administrators, counselors and instructors sat down and discovered each other. The conference resulted in some new friendships and a number of important and useful ideas for improving De Anza College life.

More important, the Asilomar retreat created a unique spirit that hopefully will become an integral part of De Anza.

Ironically, the De Anza retreat was an "accident," since the Asilomar conference was originally scheduled as the annual faculty retreat, which had to be cancelled due to faculty preparation for the quarter system.

It was also an experiment — no one was sure just what would result, but dire predictions of "a drag" were happily never realized. What did result was some honest discussion, and the pleasant experience of talking to a counselor or administrator or faculty member, not behind a desk, not in his or her "role," but as an equally concerned individual.

Plans are already underway for another retreat next year. But again, only a very few students will be invited, and those will be the student leaders, the active, the organizers, the "important."

What was important at Asilomar was not that it happened in Monterey. We think the same things could have been accomplished anywhere, although, to be sure, a sparkling beach and Monterey pines do help things a bit.

The one word repeated over and over again at Asilomar was "communication." What we've got to do is communicate to the 98 per cent of the student body who didn't go, in short to make "Asilomars" a common occurrence at De Anza.

Our fearless heroine (Pam Card) has just discovered finals are four days away. La Voz staffers will be hitting the books, too — next La Voz comes out Feb. 2. (Photo by Dennis Bellman)

Angelo new ASDAC chief

Looking toward the new semester, Angelo later said that he would like to get the thoughts and ideas that came out of the Faculty-Student Conference at Asilomar moving. Among these, he cited ideas on instructor-course evaluation, low-cost housing, and putting off-campus issues on the school ballot.

During the first week of next semester there will also be a number of offices open. AMS Representative Bob Hilton resigned last week for "personal reasons." In addition, the offices of AWS representative, sophomore representative, and vice-president will be open. Interested students may pick up applications during the first week of the new semester.

PRIOR TO MITZMAN'S resignation, Angelo told the council that in going over the ballots of the constitution election approximately 14 per cent of the "no" balance of votes rejected section four, which covers terms of office.

He feels that this may be due to a misunderstanding on the part of the students who were being asked to vote on a constitution which listed a semester term of office when they knew that this year's officers were to be in office for the entire year.

The council also discussed the problem of clubs turning in petitions for activities late. A Siniwik petition for a children's Christmas party was given to Roberta Goulding, activities director, on Tuesday after the Student Council meeting. There was no quorum in Executive Council to vote on it, so it was given to Alan Booth, head of the Interclub Council.

ICC CALLED AN emergency meeting of the executive board and voted the activity through, "not because Siniwik should have another activity but because we didn't want the children involved to be disappointed."

Counselors furnish specifics for spring master schedule

Students with problems concerning their spring semester schedules should see their specific counselors, according to Assistant Dean of Instruction Donald Fraser.

In special cases, students who need to know what times certain classes will be offered, may obtain this information from their specific counselors. "However, we only have a tentative master schedule right now," said counselor Gary Ressa.

Adults taking just a few classes and having a special time problem should call Mr. Fraser's office.

A master schedule for all students will not be available until Jan. 30 to enable the computers to schedule more classes or eliminate classes according to the students' demand up until the first day of spring semester.

Final examinations are slated for next week

Asilomar sparks wealth of ideas

The Asilomar retreat provided a unique opportunity for discussion of some important topics.

Small seminar groups, headed by Student Council members, met for two hours Friday night and again Saturday morning. Seminar discussion leaders then reported to the entire De Anza assembly their group's discussion. Their general findings are listed below:

CAMPUS CENTER — One group cited the potential problem of loud and annoying music by students in the soon-to-be-completed Campus Center advertising an upcoming event. The group decided the Campus Center Board should establish rules about possible background music and restricted areas for playing music.

PASS - FAIL — The idea of taking a course on simply a credit/no credit or "pass-fail" was given serious attention by several groups. One seminar thought a student should be given an opportunity to pass-fail any class outside his major, while another discussion group thought it should be restricted to such courses as Health 21 and, in particular, Psychology 50.

Two major disadvantages against implementing a pass-fail system were cited: (1) a "pass" is generally recorded as a "C," thereby possibly reducing a student's GPA. (2) several colleges simply won't grant credit to pass-fail courses.

GRAPEVINE — One session agreed as to the general ineffectiveness of the Grapevine. As a possible substitute, the idea of La Voz coming out twice a week was brought up.

HOUSING — Two discussion groups tackled the problem of housing. One group considered the feasibility of operating an entire apartment complex under supervision of the College. Another group dismissed on-campus housing because of the prohibitive costs.

TEACHER - COURSE EVALUATION — Several groups discussed the value of some means for a student to get a better idea of a course and an instructor than simply the college catalog.

One group came up with the idea of a booklet listing each instructor's background, interests and hobbies, while another group suggested having each instructor's grading and attendance policies located in the counseling section.

Another group thought it desirable to produce and sell a catalog listing a general "rating" for each instructor based on a scientifically conducted survey of his or her students. Others rejected this idea on the grounds it might damage an instructor's career.

Dr. A. Robert DeHart, president of De Anza College, said he would welcome "anything" that would help cut down on the tremendous number of class changes which now numbers one for each student per semester.

FREE SPEECH — Dr. Calvin Flint, Foothill Junior College District Superintendent, told one De Anza circle they had his "complete support" in asking the administration for a temporary Hyde Park stand.

(The permanent Hyde Park stand is awaiting erection by the library pending completion of the landscaping.)

APATHY — How many students should vote? De Anza's last election saw 22 per cent of the student body vote. Some saw this as a poor showing, while others saw it as quite a respectable figure.

One idea considered was the use of side issues on the regular ASDAC election ballot. Suggested voting issues were presidential candidates and Vietnam.

One group noted the oft-quoted remark, "This is another high school." Some attributed this to general disillusionment about college in general, noting that tales students bring back with them about dorm life are often wildly exaggerated.

Several committees have already started to further pursue some of these ideas. Student Council members have expressed a desire for any interested students to join one of the committees and help bring about some useful contributions to De Anza life.

Night school gains courses

Registration is now under way for the Evening College at De Anza. Along with the courses offered last semester several new ones will be offered for the first time.

These classes will include six new Quality Control courses, a Crafts class, a Business Machines class, a Business Correspondence class, an Elementary Field Mapping Class, Home Economics 51, and three new Industrial Supervisions classes.

DR. R. D. WRIGHT, assistant dean of instruction of the Evening College, said that the courses taken for non-credit will again be offered during the spring semester. The non-credit classes are an adult education plan, open to any person over 21 years of age taking less than 10 hours of instruction per week.

Non-credit means the student does not receive a final grade in the course; however, he is governed by the same attendance policies and homework responsibilities as the student taking the course for credit.

The three-hour one night a week classes offered this past semester are "working out very well," according to Dr. Wright. The teachers of these classes vary the three hours with lectures, discussions, panels, student presentations, quizzes, movies and slide presentations.

These classes will be evaluated by the students from the standpoint of student learning abilities and teachers' stamina.

Academic Council

Second chance given

The Academic Council at De Anza can never change a grade, but may act to re-examine a grade which a student feels is unjust.

The council provides students with recourse to a body to which they may petition for changes in class schedules, adding or dropping classes, receiving credit for courses from other institutions, or for waivers for specific classes.

MEETING IN the conference room each Friday morning at 11, the council is composed of 10 members: the dean of instruction, the dean of students, the assistant dean of instruction, assistant dean of instruction for Evening College, the Evening College director, two counselors and three faculty members.

Because of the varied nature of petitions, students may ask to appear before the council and personally discuss their situation with the members. For this reason the meetings are not open to the students.

According to Dr. Shipnuck, assistant dean of instruction, students who have been dropped from a class because of absences (which they feel are legitimate) may petition the council for reinstatement.

STUDENTS WHO wish to petition the Academic Council should first speak with their counselors and pick up a petition form there. Both full and part-time students may petition the council.

Although there is no appellate branch of the Academic Council a student may take his case to the president of the school if he feels the council's decision unjust. After this he might go to the superintendent of the district and finally to the board of trustees.

B of A awards DAC students

Two De Anza business students have received $300 awards from the Bank of America.

Lela Hemmann, a secretarial major, and Earl Cochran, business administration major, received the awards on the basis of an interview with Carl Grame, Business Division chairman, and other division members. Applicants had to have a GPA above 3.0 and completed at least 20 units at Foothill.

The bank, feeling that junior colleges are able to produce many students who are interested in career prospects with the bank and in other industries, tries to make students aware of the opportunities in business.

The winners' names will be entered on a perpetual plaque in the business office.

Hoopsters visit Gavilan after loss

By MIKE DOWNING
La Voz Sports Editor

The basketballers of De Anza will try to get back on the winning trail tomorrow when they travel to Gavilan College in Gilroy. Tip-off is 8 p.m.

Last Saturday night the Dons suffered a disheartening 71-63 overtime loss to the West Valley Vikings at Campbell High School.

A BRILLIANT performance by Don guard John Myers almost pulled the game out for De Anza in regulation time. He scored the last 11 De Anza points in the regular game and ended with a total of 22 points.

Seasonal high scorer Rick Korte, who tallied 17 points, had a chance to win the game outright for the Dons in the waning seconds of the game when his 25-foot jump shot at the buzzer bounced around and fell out. The overtime period was all

West Valley needed as the Dons gave the game away through ball control errors and mental errors.

Center John Dybvig was the only other De Anzan to hit in double figures with 12 points.

MAKING A fantastic 70.5 per cent of their first-half shots, the Dons opened their 1968 Coast Conference schedule with a convincing 87-63 win over taller but outthrustled Monterey Peninsula College on Jan. 3.

The De Anzans held a 50-25 halftime lead as practically everything they threw up went in the hoop. Rick Korte led the halftime scoring brigade with 18 points. Korte set a new school record with a 28-point outburst as he hit on everything from 25-foot jump shots to driving, twisting lay-ups.

Guard Rich Utt, showing a feather-soft touch on his jumpers, burned the nets for 18 points. John Myers, who makes the team go with his ball-stealing antics and general floor leadership, added 14 more.

ALTHOUGH COOLING off in the second half, the Dons ended up with a 54.4 per cent shooting mark and set a new school scoring record in the process.

Over the Christmas holidays, the De Anzans rang up five wins against a single loss. In the Santa Monica tourney, held Dec. 26, 27 and 28, De Anza lost a tough 65-61 decision to Los Angeles Harbor in the opening round but then rallied to take the consolation crown by beating Palomar College, 83-64, and disposing of Chaffey College, 64-51.

Against L. A. Harbor, the Dons led from the outset of the game only to lose a seven-point lead in the last three minutes of the game. Myers, playing in top form, led all scorers with 24 points. Following the flashy guard were Korte and Utt with 11 and 10 points, respectively.

THE FOLLOWING night, the Dons made short order of Palomar, moving out to a 34-19 halftime lead and coasting to an easy 83-64 win. A balanced scoring attack saw Utt lead the way with 19 points, followed by defensive specialist Paul Card who canned 18 points, and the consistent Myers with 15 points.

Led by Korte's 11 first-half points, De Anza moved out to a 32-24 half-time lead that it never relinquished and beat an out-classed Chaffey squad, 64-51. The Dons led from the outset of the game and once again the trio of Korte, Utt and Myers led the way with 18, 11 and 10 points, respectively.

Myers tallied 50 points for the tourney for an average of 16.6 a game. He was followed by Utt with 39 and Korte with 35.

VISITING COLLEGE of Redwoods of Eureka didn't find the De Anzans too hospitable Dec. 18 and 19 when the Dons rolled to easy 68-45 and 65-46 wins. Myers led the scoring with 19 points, but it was the hustle and rebounding that was the key to victory. Paul Card, John Dybvig and Korte all contributed on the boards.

The opening day 65-46 victory was again characterized by balanced scoring. Korte with 15, Utt with 14 and Dybvig, with his unorthodox but effective hook shot canning 10 points, led the scoring parade.

Matmen at Hartnell today

Coach Bill Walker's wrestlers will have their hands full today as they host Hartnell College in a do-or-die Coast Conference match for the Dons. "Hartnell has a tough squad," stated Coach Walker from what he saw at the Cal Poly Tournament last weekend. Hartnell finished above De Anza in the final standings at the tournament.

With the first half of the season nearing an end, the Dons are going to have to keep up their winning pace if their chances for a championship are going to be increased. Laney

College is still the squad to beat as they have won all of their games so far and have dealt De Anza its only loss on the year.

DON WRESTLERS over the Christmas vacation played five games and participated in one tournament. Dave Brigham led the Dons to two more conference wins as De Anza beat Gavilan, 36-13, and West Valley, 32-13. Brigham has still to be beaten in conference play, and along with Bob Garcia form the only undefeated grapplers on the Don squad.

In Tuesday's meet with Chabot College, the Dons' winning streak ended as the Gladiators defeated the visitors, 23-16. Two of the Dons' three undefeated wrestlers lost their first matches against Chabot.

Bob Garcia lost his perfect record to Paul Weston. Weston won the championship at the Cal Poly Tournament and is considered to be one of the best wrestlers for his weight in the state.

Burt Dudgeon, down with the flu, also lost his first match.

Coach Walker felt that "if Dudgeon would have been feeling better our chances would have been much better."

FC graduate aids heart operation

David B. Sedlacek was the only non-MD listed as a member of the Stanford heart transplant team. Mr. Sedlacek is the senior laboratory technician in cardiovascular surgery for the team.

Sedlacek, a registered nurse, graduated from Foothill's nursing program in 1965.

Mrs. Jeanne Wilcox, De Anza nursing instructor, was an instructor of Sedlacek's while he attended Foothill. Sedlacek received his first training and experience on the cardio-pulmonary machine.

Skiers set for Squaw Valley

It's going to be a late night or a very early morning for students who are going on the ski trip to Squaw Valley on Jan. 24.

Students are meeting at 3:30 a.m. in the "C" parking lot near the P.E. buildings. The buses will depart at 4 a.m. There will be no refunds if a student misses the bus. Students will be returning around midnight of the 26th.

De Anza and Foothill will each be taking three or four busloads of students. The two colleges will be sharing an 80-room chalet, according to Miss Helen Windam, Co-Rec adviser.

Among the special events scheduled for the weekend are broom hockey, slalom races, snow sculpture and cash bingo.

Broom hockey will be an intramural sport with an all-star play-off between De Anza and Foothill. On Thursday, the 25th, there will be slalom races for beginning, intermediate and advanced skiers. Two weekend ski trips to Squaw Valley will be awarded in the snow sculpture contest. The cash bingo game will be in the dining room that evening. There will be a cash prize of $100.

De Anza will bring along two combos, John Ganis and the Blacklist, for the two dances which are scheduled.

"Skiing instructions are available to students and will be given by some of our expert student and faculty skiers," said Miss Windam.

There is a swimming pool and a sauna bath available.

Action taken on flicks

The recurring failure of the Community Film Series to show the same films as have been advertised was the main topic discussed at a meeting moderated by Dr. Rowland Chase, director of Community Services.

"In addition, the film festival, which has been presented yearly, has been taken out of budget and canceled for this year," said George Andrews, student coordinator of public events.

THE MEETING, held in the Board Room at De Anza Tuesday, Jan. 2, was attended by student council representatives, Miss Marge Hinson, assistant dean of students, activities, Dr. Chase and Mr. Stephen Roe, KFJC manager at Foothill.

Andrews noted that several things had "gone wrong" in the past with the Film Series productions. Parents have brought their children to see what was advertised as a kiddie show and saw what turned out to be an extremely "adult" picture.

In another instance, a special Japanese Cinemascope lens was required to focus the film — a lens which was not available within the two hours left in which to show the film.

FINALLY, THE production of "Ten Nights in a Barroom," advertised as starring W. C.

Fields, did not star the famous actor. In this last incident many of the people who had come to see Fields refused to leave after the film was over.

Andrews explained that it was decided that all films were to be previewed before the formal presentation and signs "will be posted explaining that the film may be subject to change without notice."

Films slated for DAC soon

Two films, part of the Community Film Series, Eclipse and Castro Street, are scheduled for showing on Jan. 19 in the De Anza Forum Building at 8 p.m. Admission is 75c.

No advance publicity will be issued on the films of the series until problems with films are solved.

Eclipse, written by Michaelangelo Antonioni, portrays love and man's inability to communicate.

Castro Street uses experimental montage camera work and soundtrack to conjure the impression of a railroad switchyard. The screenplay was written by Bruce Baillie.
