Five Foothill girls try for Paly queen

Five Foothill College girls have entered the Miss Palo Alto contest, according to Ervin Harlacher, director of Public Relations.

The girls are Sue Woodward, Faith Cliff, Linda Yarke, Janet Falkerson and Toni Bozicevich.

All contestants must meet the following requirements: 1) must not be married or married in the past, 2) must live in the Palo Alto franchise area, which includes Mountain View, Palo Alto, Menlo Park, Atherton and Los Altos, 3) and must be between the ages 18 and 28.

Judging will be divided into four divisions. Physical appearance in a swim suit, an evening gown, personality, poise and the talent which they choose to demonstrate.

The girls' first appearance will be made at the Town and Country shopping center in Palo Alto on Sunday, May 3. At this time they will be clad in swim suits. For those not interested in beach wear there will be a boat show in progress at the same time.

On this day the top 12 girls will be chosen to participate in the final pageant.

May 9 the girls will again appear. This time at the Palo Alto High School auditorium for the final judging. In more formal attire the winner will be announced and will be awarded her various prizes, among which is a trip to the Miss California Contest later in the year.

Miss Sue Woodward is 18 years old, is a psychology major at Foothill and resides in Palo Alto. She plans to demonstrate her ability in dancing. Sue graduated from Cubberly High School.

Modern dance will be presented by Janet Falkerson, a 19 year old graduate also from Cubberly High School. She majors in elementary education at Foothill and lives in Palo Alto.

Twenty year old Faith Cliff also an elementary education major, is a sophomore at Foothill. She is a graduate from Fremont. Faith lives at Moffett Field and will do dramatic reading as her talent demonstration.

Toni Bozicevich, who will also give a dramatic reading, lives in Los Altos and graduated from Mountain View High School in '58.

Linda Yarke will show her art work. She is a graduate from Cubberly High School and is a psychology major at Foothill.

Student officers to attend Long Beach meet this May 7

With one student government conference under their belts, five Foothill students are now making plans for the state convention in Long Beach.

Foothill will send a delegation that consists of only one veteran of the previous state convention.

Making the trip are President Joe Brundage, the lone veteran of the fall convention; Linda Flores, vice president; Ray Crump, commissioner of finance; Jim Johnson, commissioner of activities and Bob Siebenthal, commissioner of publications.

Although, only Brundage has attended a previous state convention, the delegation is not without experience.

Brundage has attended two Northern Region conferences in addition to the state convention.

Linda Flores attended the recent Northern Region conference at Modesto.

Crump was also a delegate at the Modesto conference.

Johnson has attended both the Northern Region conferences this year.

Siebenthal is the novice of the group. He has yet to attend one of the conferences.

The group will leave either May 6 or May 7.

Sneak day picnic planned in May

A picnic is being planned for an all school sneak day some time in May.

The Associated Organizations Council, Student Council, and faculty are planning a picnic for all students and faculty. There will be a meeting at 4 p.m. every Monday for all those interested in helping.

On the day of the picnic all students and faculty will be released from classes.

Suggestions for the site of the picnic have been Adobe Creek Lodge and Black Berry Farm.

Students will be expected to bring their own lunch but refreshments will be provided.

Swimming, dancing and many activities are scheduled. The picnic will run from the afternoon straight through to evening giving all night students a chance to attend. The student council is counting on a big turn out, according to Jim Johnson, commissioner of activities.

Instructors attend education program

Instructors will discuss mutual problems at their annual spring meeting of April 25. Dr. Fred Warren, president of Foothill's Faculty club, will be an attending member.

Dr. Warren said "We are deeply concerned with the development of an outstanding educational program for the students of Foothill College." We will meet to discuss common problems and share suggested solutions."

The instructors will get together with teachers of other Northern California colleges at the College of San Mateo.

The meeting will be presided over by Eugene Portugal, president of the Northern California Junior College Association.

Coffee will be served in the morning and after a business meeting in the forenoon the group will have lunch at the campus.

Warning to drivers

Having any trouble driving out of the parking lot lately? Many students still disregard signs posted by the Mountain View Fire Department.

If students continue to park their cars in "No Parking" areas, citations will be given out and a fine will be paid by those students.

All Foothill property purchased; trustees pleased with outcome

Total property for the new campus has now been purchased as a result of an unpleasant job, as described by Dr. Calvin Flint, Foothill's president.

The purchase of the final 60 acres of land by Foothill College for its new campus now nearly completes the total acreage needed. There are two small pieces yet to be obtained.

At the board of trustees meeting on April 6, Dr. Flint announced that the College and John Lohman had reached an agreement on the amount to be paid for the Lohman land. A total of $416,000 pleased both the college and the land owner's lawyer, according to Foothill's president.

The average price an acre for unimproved land was $6,801 which is considered quite reasonable by the Board.

Uniforms, helmets arrive on campus

More news of the football uniforms ordered last fall: Coach Bill Abbey says that order, placed last fall after the color elections, has arrived on campus.

The uniforms are white with red and black stripes on the shoulders. The helmets posed a problem since they came back black with two white stripes on each side of a wide black stripe down the middle.

Foothill could be one of few jr. colleges to have firehouse, training on campus

The possibility of a fire training curriculum for Foothill students now lies in the hands of the Board of Trustees.

Los Altos Fire District Chief Richard Basset discussed the proposal of having a fire station on the new campus. Among other advantages offered by this item is the possibility of having a training program for students.

The fact that firemen are also deputies appealed to the board. If the board approves the proposal, Foothill will be one among few junior colleges to have such a luxury.

If such a proposal goes through, students could take a specific fire fighting curriculum while living and working part time at the firehouse

Other advantages offered by this plan are: 1) Two fire engines readily available. 2) Police protection on campus 24 hours a day. 3) A possible cut in fire insurance.

Editorial . . .

Students count blessings; privilege versus right

Is it our right to go to college? Many of us believe that we should be allowed to go to college without maintaining a certain level of standards. We think that, as citizens of the United States, it is our right to acquire all the benefits of a college education. Yet we aren't willing to meet the challenge of higher standards.

College students don't like to work hard for the privilege of being admitted to institutions of higher education. Other countries of the world, particularly the ones we are trying to rise above, as a nation, consider higher education as one of the greatest privileges one can achieve. These students have to be outstanding in order to be admitted to a college, to say nothing of how hard they have to work and study to remain in the schools.

They learn the English language and others in order to communicate more freely with other countries. On the whole we consider languages, mathematics and science a drudge and time consuming. To us these are unheard of.

How many students know when they go from high school to college what they're going to do when they finish? Many of the men in college are there merely to pass time, so they take courses such as underwater basketweaving or how to use chopsticks.

Think, for a change, what the standards of education can mean to you. Realize that it is your privilege as a resident of this county, rather than a right as a citizen of the United States, to attend Foothill College.

Letter to the editor

More on "beats"; clothes on campus

To the Editor:

Maybe you should pick up a sheet entitled "How to wash feet and tirm beards" seeing as we have so many 'beatniks' on campus.

The editorial in the last issue was completely off course. Is the Editor and the faculty so staid and outdated in their thinking that they shudder at every semi-bare foot and girl in pedal pushers they chance to see? If so, I suggest that the "offended" people move to Alaska where they will be happy as climatic conditions there do not permit the wearing of such "flimsy" attire.

As for showing low mentality, is it stupid to try to remain cool on these hot days? I can see the faculty's point of view because either they have to (or are afraid not to) wear suits and dressy dresses. I think they are just plain jealous because while they sweat there we sit as cool as cucumbers. TOUGH!!

To the "beatnik" part. Is a person a "beatnik" just because he wears a pair of go aheads, beach pads, shower shoes or any of the other names for those "detestable" sandals? No more than a faculty member is high society because he wears a suit.

Although I agree with the "Beatnik go home" feeling in relation to some of the outlandish costumes being worn on camus, such as sweatshirts and calypso pants being worn by the boys, but a pair of pedal pushers or a pair of sandals is no more "beat" than any one member of the faculty.

Call it what you may, a style or a fad, but it is no more than an expression of exhilaration. Girls coming to school in something comfortable rather than being forced to wear dresses as they were in high school and boys feeling free of being told what to wear, where to wear it, and when to wear it.

Yours truly,
Footsie Foot ("Dirty")

Jim Jones . . . director of Student Union

Kentucky bluegrass offshoot

"Jonsey" Jones FC bookstore

By Jim Johnson

How many students really know Jim Jones, manager of the student union? Other than the fact that he has a swivel chair not many know much about him.

Jim 'Jonesy' Jones was born and raised in Louisville, Ky. This is about the most routine and least colorful thing that he has ever done. He has been self employed most of his life and very seldom at the same thing for long. His many business endeavors include ownership of a bowling alley, restaurant, and coin machine route. The interesting part about his varied past is that none of it was ever planned. Things just happened! One thing led to another for him.

In explaining his wandering ways, Jones said that he has always been naturally curious. He compared this to seeing only part of a room through a half open door and wanting to see the rest of it. This led him to enter various businesses.

A strong liking for people is one of Jones' assets. His past gives him the background necessary to know and understand people.

Jim Jones is in the peculiar position of being a married bachelor. His wife is a teacher in Pacific Grove, where she and the rest of the family reside. He, of course, lives in Mountain View.

Not only is Jones a man of many experiences, but one of much education. He attended Louisville University for four years. After being out and away from school for 20 years, he decided he would like to further his education.

He was living in Monterey, Calif. at the time so the logical place to go to school was Monterey Peninsula College. Intending to go only on a part time basis he went in for counseling and walked out with a 12 unit load. He went to school days and worked nights.

He attended MPC for four semesters and was a member of Alpha Gamma Sigma, the scholastic honor society, for all four of those semesters. He was awarded lifetime membership in the society for being among the top 10 in his graduating class.

He was also awarded a scholarship in California history from the California Historical Society.

In addition to his work at the University of Louisville and MPC he has also taken a few courses at San Jose State and plans to go to Stanford on a scholarship.

At present the bookstore takes up most of his time and is the most important part of his work. He feels that the work in the bookstore is rewarding not only from a financial standpoint but also from the standpoint of seeing ideas come into being.

Jones also belongs to the California Association of College Stores where he is the chairman of the professional standards committee.

He explained the function of this committee to be to try to establish some standards of professional background and ethics of people working in college stores. He is also working in cooperation with the general manager of the national association to do the same thing on a nationwide basis.

Brand new at this type of job when he started the college bookstore his closest previous experience was in the restaurant business. Eager to learn about his new profession he attended a seminar on managing of a college store at his own expense in Ohio during the summer of 1957. He was awarded a $200 scholarship and returned again in the summer of 1958. He is now a graduate of the school.

Asked about his future plans, he said that he would stay in his present position as long as he is happy in it. He says that he has a teaching credential which he is not using at the present time.

McKinnon elected for second time

Genevieve McKinnon was elected to the presidency of Foreign Language Club for the second time last week.

There was a special meeting of the club when the president, Jill Schaffer, announced her resignation to the organization.

Genevieve was president of the Foreign Language club during the first semester.

Diane Parlatto was elected to replace Genevieve as secretary.

Cinch Notices

Are you one of the unlucky few who will be getting cinch notices on the 18th of this month? If so, your counselor encourages you to come and see him for your specific problem.

Your counselor will ask you what the trouble is in your bad class and then will assist you in your situation. Students who get too many cinch notices will be required to attend a counseling session. Even if you receive one it is advisable to see your counselor.

Foreign Language Club sponsors second Latin American dancing party

The Foreign Language club held their second dancing party last Wednesday, in the music room.

During the evening, students learned Latin American dances, directed by Dr. Manuel Guerra. Dr. Guerra was at one time a professional dance instructor. He is now advisor to the club and Foreign Language instructor.

As part of the entertainment Alba and Luis Osorio performed some Columbian dances.

Dusty Drivers, a beardless Jack here at Foothill

HAMBURGER ALA PARKING LOT: Foothill's mid-day college atmosphere was in full swing. Various students stood around the picnic tables nestled under the oaks near the student center. Talk was light and rapid, and everyone seemed to be enjoying the sun and their lunches. Upon the scene rolled a car, which stopped next to the tables to pick up a passenger. With all aboard the "driver" found it impossible to keep traction. All it took was a few casual revolutions of the rear tires in the loose dirt. As the dust cleared, everyone was quite impressed, in fact one person even suggested tar and feathers. If this individual was the only offender it might work, but there are just too many of these thoughtful students and not enough tar.

GEZUNDHEIT. One of the more outstanding people on campus is a young man who stands 6 feet 8 inches tall and weighs 300 plus. He goes by the call letters Jack (big daddy) Ruch.

Upon entering a morning class last week those who knew stood in wonderment for where there was once a beautiful beard there was now only a massive chin. Immediately his public wanted to know the reason for this tragedy. "Simple," replied Jack. "I was allergic to it."

WAY OUT, BUT A LITTLE BEAT DEPT. A committee has been formed by student council to look into the "dress problem." From opinions already voiced by various powers on campus, objections seem to center around dirty feet and pedal pushers. The "long live jeans" group will be glad to know that as long as they show signs of being clean they seem to be out of danger. We feel this is a good thing for jeans are very practical and in our opinion not objectionable. What we would like to see if there must be rules, is to eliminate any over all restrictions and leave it up to each individual instructor to set his own standards.

INFORMATION WANTED: The Sentinel Board wants to know if the students would like to have a classified section in the paper. If so, drop a note in the "Letters to the editor" box. Also suggestions for the Student Handbook name would be appreciated.

TO BE OR NOT TO BE FOOTIE FREE: A civic minded Foothill student left us a suggestion for a new mascot name to replace the much debated Footsie. Fred Kulick says, "I propose that we name him Archie!" The reason for this 'John Henry' was given as being the close relationship between the name and the arch of a foot. How's that for a compromise "Footsie Fans?"

Alba is a freshman here at Foothill College.

A charge of 50 cents was paid by each attending student. This money was added to the Foreign Language club treasury.

NEED CASH

Mr. Jim Jones, director of the student union, reports that the union will have $500 or hand to cash checks up to $500 at any time during the week.

Park here Joe, they're only two deep; parking promotes competitive spirit

This picture is almost as comical as our parking problem. The only difference is, that here, cars are not parked on top of each other, but instead left with four foot spaces between fenders. This helps prevent dents but wastes valuable space.

Here we can apply our own version of Parkinson's law. The fewer students there are the larger the parking spaces become, or give them an inch and they take a mile. A field trip to the lot on either Tuesday or Thursday when the classes are few will prove this application.

Now let us consider the conditions for the rest of the week. Suddenly cars begin to appear in spaces that never existed before. From 7:45 to 8 am the dust flies. When again the atmosphere clears those with power steering or sports cars sit gloating over their victories. The rest motor down the road until they find a space. Once the defeated finds a place to park, he slips into his track shoes and manages to make a class that wasn't quite worth the effort in the first place.

In conclusion we offer the solutions: 1) Buy a bicycle; 2) Buy a sports car; 3) or is these two are out of the realm of possibility, do the most impractical, and get up half an hour early.

Art takes to the field; artistic subjects sought

The art classes of Foothill College have been making field trips and are doing outside drawing.

Several days of the week art students are out on the campus sketching trees, buildings and other objects.

The students, under the direction of their instructor, Kenneth Orrett, visited Sondgroth Bros., an asphalt plant and a chicken ranch here in Mountain View. The purpose of the trip was to help students recognize artistic subjects that surround them every day.

According to Orrett, the classes are also using models for face and figure drawing.

Six clubs planning organized picnic

Six clubs at Foothill College are organizing a school picnic at Adobe Creek Lodge.

The clubs include Alpha Gamma Sigma, an honor society, Foreign Language Club, Veterans Club, Press Club, The Music Council, and the Newman Club which is now being organized.

These clubs are represented at the Foothill Student Council as well as the Associated Organizations Council meetings.

Foothill sends 20 students to Modesto for Northern Calif. government meeting

Modesto Junior College was the site of the Northern Region California Junior College Student Government Association Conference last weekend. Foothill was represented by 20 students and two advisors.

Continuation of business brought up at the state meeting, eligibility of athletics and coordination of scholarship requirement for student officers were the main topics of discussion.

After the meeting there was

Pace of colliding worlds turns eyes to Russia

Every day it becomes more apparent that we live in colliding worlds. The pace at which we move has been determined by production of missiles and other weapons. All eyes are turned towards Russia. Our minds aren't just dealing with science but are also concerned with the culture of the Soviet Union.

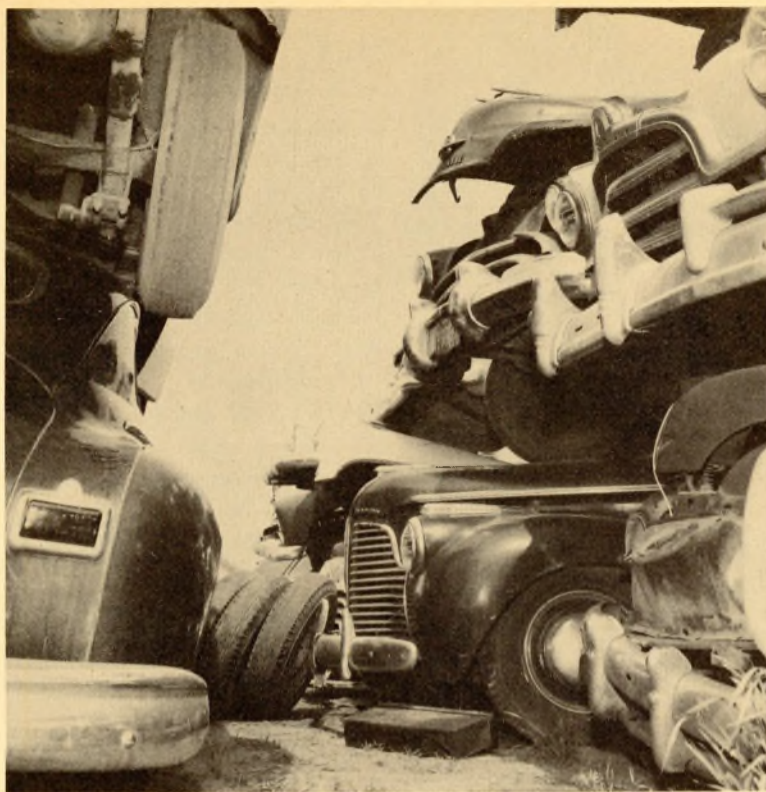

This can be seen when we take a look at the number of students enrolled in Russian here at Foothill College. The course which covers the fundamental principles of Russian grammar and syntax is being instructed by Eugene Eiche.

Despite the difficulty of Russian, 25 students are enrolled in the evening class. Most of the students are people employed in industry in this area with a small percentage of day students.

Marilyn Rauenhorst is the first entry from Foothill College.

Student handbook free to freshmen next year

When does Foothill play Hartnell? The answer to this and many other questions will be in the Student Handbook, according to Bob Siebenthal, commissioner of publications.

Working on the handbook will be Jerry Buzzell, Barbi Titsworth and Bob Siebenthal. The faculty advisor will be Miss Joan Seavey.

Contents will include information of importance to the entering freshman and things of general interest to all students on the campus.

The handbook will be presented to all incoming students entering Foothill College next year. It will be free of charge to all students, according to Siebenthal.

Ping pong tables bought by students

The students of Foothill will soon be able to play ping pong.

The student council recently purchased two ping pong tables and associated equipment. These tables will be set up in the near future. The tables would have been set up by now, except for a misunderstanding on the part of the painters, Art Kuzniewski, George Hass and Jim Johnson. One night several weeks ago, these three painted one side of the tables. The next day they were informed that they had painted the wrong side. When they finally found time to paint the other side, the painters found that they had been misinformed, and that they had originally painted the right side.

The tables are now only lacking the white stripes that will make them official.

Electronics division may be enlarged soon

Further enlargement of the electronics division at Foothill College will be considered by the board of trustees next Monday night.

The area served by Foothill is in need of electronic Technicians, according to Dr. Calvin Flint, Foothill's president. Because of this, he recommended the enlargement.

"There is no problem with the screening of students," Flint added, "considering the fact that more than 5000 did not pass the electronic exams given at the beginning of each semester."

Newman Club forms for Catholics; newest organized club on campus

The Newman Club has been added to the list of organized clubs of the campus.

This club is a Catholic organization sponsored to foster spiritual, intellectual and social interests of all Catholic students at Foothill.

At their first meeting officers were elected to various positions. Those elected were: Dave Green, president; Gloria Cesena, vice-president and treasurer; Diane Michelsen, religious vice-president for public relations and historian; Ken Gouveia, secretary; and Bob Rayl, sergeant-at-arms.

Dave Green stated that there would be two meetings a month. One meeting would be held here at school and the other would be a combination Communion-breakfast.

A little background on Dave is: He is a freshman, Business Administration major, and a graduate of East High School in Denver, Colo. He served in the Navy two years and now lives in Mountain View.

Intramural football competition starts

Spring has sprung and so has touch football. Teams are now being organized for all interested males.

The first scheduled game was played Thursday, April 16 at 3:30 p.m. Registration of organized teams has so far fallen below the expected level and these are not enough men registered to compete in the scheduled games.

When asked about who may join the club Dave said, "All Catholics and those studying as a convert to the Catholic Faith."

Faculty advisor for the club is Miss Emily Waszkiewicz. She is also a business instructor.

Forty students travel to Monterey next week end for college Sports Day

Foothill archers, badminton players, bowlers, golfers, tennis teams and volleyball players will trek to Monterey Peninsula College sports day, April 25.

All of the teams will be coeducational—with games starting at 9:30 a.m. The requirements set by MPC are as follows: Five archers, with equipment. Columbia Round will be shot—24 ends at 30, 40 and 50 yards. Team captain is Mrs. Isabelle Dale.

Badminton players are requested to have one men's and one women's singles team and one mixed doubles. Two games will be played against each opponent. Sally Gieszl is team captain.

Two teams of five are specified for the bowling team.

Golf tournaments will take place at Pacific Grove Golf course, with individual scoring. Scoring will be on the basis of total strokes and total putts. Team captain is John Pesek.

One team men's singles, one women's singles and one mixed doubles team is needed for tennis. Four games against each opponent will be played. Beth Dale is team captain.

The volleyball team shall consist of six players, with at least two women on the courts at all times. As many substitutes as needed are welcome. Team captains are Bill Weidman and Art Kuzniewski.

All expenses will be paid by Foothill at MPC. All students are requested not to bring guests, due to the limited space on the bus. The bus will leave Foothill at 7:00 a.m. and it is requested that no private cars be used.

BEND THOSE BOWS—Mrs. Isabelle Dale and Jack (Big Daddy) Ruch show the form that they will use when they attend the Monterey Sports Day. Both Mrs. Dale and Jack can be seen practicing every day on the sports field.

Archery enthusiasts urged to direct aim at formation of intramural competition

Students interested in archery should take notice of the practice time and join the other archers on campus.

To date, archery is one among many of the intramural sports started here at Foothill for the first time.

The archery team captain is Mrs. Isabel Dale, who was State Archery Champion of Virginia while attending grammar and high school.

Other archers so far are Jack Ruch, who uses his talent for hunting purposes, Ed Parodi and Nick Bouja.

The archers will get a taste of stiff competition at the coming Monterey Peninsula College Sports Day, according to Mrs. Dale. She urges that those interested join the practice on Tuesday, Thursday and Friday noons on the practice field.

Equipment will be supplied by the athletic department.

ATTENTION STUDENT BOWLERS—Cherry Bowl will be the site of the coming Foothill College Handicap Bowling League.

There will be a total of three games bowled at a total cost of $1.05 for those who have shoes and $1.25 for those who don't.

These games will be played on Wednesday afternoons from 4 to 6 p.m. and according to the American Bowling Congress rules.

Springtime in Paris to be held at Elks Club

Foothill students and their guests are invited to the annual Spring formal to be held May 22 at the Elks Club in Palo Alto. The dress will be semi formal with the boys expected to wear suits and the girls formals.

The theme for the dance is Springtime in Paris and the decorations for the dance will be very chic, according to Sandra Killian, social chairman.

Up to now there has not been too big a turnout for any of the dances. The student council has invited San Jose State and San Jose City College student councils to attend this dance.

Council committee looks up dress problem

Student Council has appointed a committee to investigate the campus dress problem.

The committee is to look into the problems on this campus and others in the area. It has to find out how other colleges have taken care of similar problems.

Serving on the committee are Dennis Britton, Judy Yahn, Jim Lanz, and Vicki Glanville.
