Chris Meyer and Dave Kert, ASDAC presidential candidates.

Presidential running mates Deb Moody and Jim McMahon.

Kert and Meyer

(This is the candidates platform and qualifications as stated by the candidates themselves.)

Dave Kert's qualifications are present director of mass communications, and Biological and Health Division representative, for one term, director of special effects for KFSC-FM for two terms, chief engineer KFJC-FM for one term, director of react for three years. Kert is running for ASDAC president.

Chris Meyer is presently Representative-at-Large and president of Los Montaneros. Meyer was also ICC Representative-at-Large for one term, vice president of Los Montaneros for one term, and ICC representative for one term.

The De Anza Student Council, representing over 5,000 students has a huge responsibility to see that it operates solely for the benefit and in the interest of these students. If I am elected as president of council, improving communications between the student and student government will be one of my primary concerns. I will do everything possible to see that students are given every chance to voice their ideas and opinions.

I also plan to continue, and if necessary, improve student services already in progress. Such services include student bookstore, student auto service, family planning clinic, and many others. Other programs that have yet to be instituted include legal aid, efficient bike locks, Campus Center P.A. information system and others will be evaluated and initiated.

Without going into a lot of detail (please ask me any questions you may have), I have many plans to help each and every group on campus. This help, in the form of advice, monetary aid or referral, with stretch from the individual, to the various clubs, to the many ethnic groups--to every segment of activity on campus.

It is my belief Student Council exists not only for the student but because of the student. Without your support, without your criticism, student council would not be. I need your vote now, and if I'm elected I will need you to help me keep Student Council representing the students.

Seale runs for Oakland mayor

Bobby Seale, Chairman and co-founder of the Black Panther Party and recently announced candidate in the Oakland mayoralty race, spoke to a few hundred students on the Foothill campus last Thursday.

Seale was optimistic about his chances in the Oakland election, based on the fact that approximately 38 percent of the population of Oakland is black. "We have got to get rid of them," he said in reference to the "racists" who are presently in control of the local, state and federal governments.

Seale questioned whether air and water pollution are the greatest threats to an ecologically sane society. He suggested that the militaristic tendencies of our leaders and "polluting Vietnam with death and war" are greater threats to humanity than soot-belching smokestacks.

THE AUDIENCE reacted favorably to the announcement that the Panther's 20 Survival Programs (free food, clothing, dental-medical clinic, etc.) are finally gaining support and volunteers. Seale complimented Sheriff Richard Hongisto on his willingness to cooperate with a prisoner's free commissary at San Bruno Prison, which would be sponsored by the Panthers.

Throughout his speech, Seale urged his listeners to vote for Shirley Chisolm so that she would at least be able to exert some influence on the Democratic Convention in Miami.

Bobby Seale, a candidate for the mayoralty of Oakland, addressed a Foothill audience.

DAC student wins acceptance

Mrs Jessie Garibaldi, mother of six children ranging in age from five years to teenagers, has won acceptance at the University of Santa Clara. Mrs. Garibaldi is one of approximately 300 Women's Education Program students presently enrolled at De Anza College.

Mrs. Garibaldi says she had a seventh grade education and "I never would admit that I hadn't graduated from high school," she says. "I never dreamed I would go to college."

AT A WEDDING, she relates, she met Mrs. Beatrice Cossey, coordinator of the Women's Ed. program at De Anza. Mrs. Cossey suggested she enroll in the program and explained that a high school diploma wasn't necessary for admission. "I've always said it was like a dream come true," she says now.

Though Mrs. Garibaldi has maintained a strong "B" average at De Anza she stresses that she has to work hard for her grades.

When asked about the effect on her family life, she said, "It really has motivated my children."

MRS. GARIBALDI praised the instructors in the program, whom she described as having a special kind of rapport and empathy with the women. Particularly Biology Instructor - Bill Sayers, whom she described as "the most beautiful teacher I ever want to meet."

Dennis Peterson, chairman of the Biological and Health Sciences Division, under whose departmental jurisdiction the program falls, explained that the program is offered primarily for the educationally, economically or ethnically disadvantaged woman. It offers these women a realistic means for re-entry into the educational mainstream.

Counselors and carefully selected instructors attempt to develop WEP student's skill and self-confidence through offering courses and guidance directed specifically at their needs.

WEP STUDENTS take classes together for their first year at De Anza and receive special tutoring and counseling. By their second year they usually have chosen a

Loan given to Prop. S

A representative from the Proposition S campaign urged the Student Council last Monday afternoon to allocate the amount of $2,000 to be used as collateral.

Backers of the proposition, it was explained to the Council, wish to employ the money to obtain a loan from a finance company, to aid in furthering the campaign.

COUNCIL members agreed unanimously to pass a request. Stubby Wright, ASDAC president, stated that the $2,000 would be withdrawn from reserve funds.

The Council also allocated $208

major and work toward it independently of the program.

In addition, a child development center is provided for mothers of pre-school children. It is funded by three sources: Head start, Welfare and money from a grant as well as the $1 per day paid by parents using the center, if they can afford it. Mothers also attend parent education classes to help them deal more effectively with their children.

Women's Ed. students declare that the child care is essential to their being able to participate in the program. Also the hours classes are scheduled are between 9 a.m. and 2 p.m. in order to allow mothers of school aged children to be home in time to receive them.

to the De Anza Chorale Club, which will enable it to finance the rentals of tuxedos for the male members of the musical organization. The tuxedos will be rented for the Spring Spectacular in June. The girls are expected to provide formals and shoes at their own expense. Tickets for the Spectacular will be priced at $1.50 for adults, and $1 for students.

The amount of $100, to be used to purchase engraved pen sets for the Deans of Continuing Education and other administrators, was agreed upon unanimously by members of the Council.

Moody and McMahon

(This is the candidates platform and qualifications as stated by the candidates themselves.)

Debbie Moody, candidate for ASDAC president, is majoring in International Law. Her running mate, Jim McMahon is majoring in Medicine and minoring in International Law.

Miss Moody and McMahon have been pursuing their area of study by carrying at least 20 units, they have also been representing student interests at student council as Social Science Representative, Representative-at-Large, and Budget Committee Members, and will represent De Anza at the up-coming district meetings.

THEIR JOINT PLATFORM IS:

A practical Legal Aid System open to all ASDAC members, free of charge. In pursuit of this goal, we have talked extensively with the Boccardo Law Firm and are nearing a contract agreement for services during the school year 1972-73.

A more effective registration system to give all De Anza students an equal opportunity to register for the classes they need. We are currently conferring with the administration in hope that our new system will be used for the fall quarter.

WE ARE NOW working to coordinate efforts towards a student shuttle service. Among the possibilities for this service are: a concentrated effort towards a car pool co-operative; purchase of busses for ASDAC; bidding for area bus services. We are currently considering all three proposals in an attempt to co-ordinate a shuttle service that would be most feasible and economical for the De Anza student. If successful, this program would connect the De Anza campus with the surrounding areas.

Even though De Anza is a community college, it has displayed its potential in the field of interests as evidence by the fine performances of Auto Tech, Music Guild, Athletics, Journalism and many others.

TO ADD IMPETUS to these achievements, we are developing a seminar program for people renowned in their field. This program could include such persons as Ralph Nader, Melvin Belli, Billy Graham, Angela Davis, etc.

As envisioned, a different seminar program will be conducted each week, with the renowned speaker speaking on a different topic each night. We are designing this program so that it can be taken by ASDAC students for credit or audit.

In talking with people this last week, we have encountered suggestions from students that we feel are quite feasible and most beneficial. Among the suggestions are: additional telephones, in more convenient places; additional luxuries for the campus center, ash trays, piped music, etc.; more book drops; a reference book for students which would outline every De Anza teacher's grading policy and disposition; and a permanent child care co-op building.

BECAUSE WE FEEL these suggestions are quite reasonable we have already begun outlining possibilities. Perhaps, with the students help, such changes will shortly take place.

De Anza College is a significant force in the community. It can combine the intellectual realm of education with the practical realm of life. These programs must be instituted if De Anza College is to reach its full potential and enhance its relationship and importance in the community. These programs can be instituted if you vote May 31 and June 1 for Debbie Moody and Jim McMahon, as ASDAC president and vice-president.

Survival Fair needs volunteers

Survival Fair, Awareness Week both start Tuesday, May 30, and culminate the weekend of June 3 and 4. Students are needed to man booths, sing, play the guitar or do for others that which turns them on.

Featured at the Fair will be such attractions as Minstrel Singers, Living Theater, Crafts, various speakers on Proposition 9, peace, the air war and other topics of world interest.

Any students wishing to perform or volunteer can contact Dan Barry in the Ecology Corps and Campus Peace Center, located in the Campus Center next to the Fireside lounge, or contact John Milton in the English Division.

Rock tonight in bay area

On campus tonight, ASDAC will sponsor a dance from 9 to 1 in the student center, featuring "Gropus Cactus" and "Win-fahl." The film "Crazy Quilt," about the marriage of a pessimistic termite exterminator, will be shown tonight in Forum 1 at 8.

"Good Woman of Setsuan" will be presented through Sunday at the Foothill Theatre. Showtime is 8:15 p.m.

The Angela Davis Defense Committee will present Roberta Flack and Richard Pryor in concert at the San Francisco Civic Auditorium, Saturday at 8 p.m.

Van Morrison will top the bill at Winterland, Friday and Saturday nights at 8 and for all you liberated ladies, Wilma Scott Heide, head of the National Organization of Women, will hold a press conference at the Hyatt House in Palo Alto on Saturday at 3 p.m.

Letter to Editor

Hartig defends right to hitch

Editor:

After reading the last two published letters to this column regarding the hitchhiker and the car owner, I found it difficult not to respond to this dilemma. I therefore composed the following editorial which I feel is pertinent to both sides of the situation:

With respect to the well-known fact that no car owner knows the Prop. S rally plans campaign

Campaign plans for Proposition S were boosted Thursday, May 18, when about 150 volunteers showed up at a meeting to discuss precinct work.

The meeting was mainly a rally to instill enthusiasm and a sense of purpose into the workers. However, important details on house-to-house campaigning were brought out by Bill Sauer, a biological sciences instructor here.

Sauer, a veteran campaign worker, included such helpful ideas as; don't campaign for anything other than one idea when in your precinct.

Other speakers at the campaign booster were: Dr. John Dunn, district Superintendent; Mike Hoppin, DAC student; Sandy Haye, geology instructor and as M.C., Kenneth Bruce, history instructor.

Two teams from De Anza Law Enforcement division visited Bakersfield on May 5 to compete in a pistol shooting contest. motives of a hitchhiker, it is most feasible to understand the fear a car owner might have at the thought of picking up a perfect stranger. Because of our increased speed and efficiency in communication it has become known to us that hitchhikers are unsafe due to our increased awareness of rape and murders. What most of us fail to take into consideration are that thousands of hitchhikers who only want to get somewhere. Furthermore, these hitchhikers, are out there because of no other alternative. Countless numbers of these people are in route to or from a job. And to me it seems obvious when a hitchhiker is laden with books that his person is heading toward school.

THE HIGHER institutions of learning are for the bettering of our people as well as the betterment of our society. The people that hitchhike to school who are jobless aren't necessarily in that position by choice. It is in fact that there are more people today with Ph.D's who are jobless than ever before. Owing to the joblessness and lowered economics phenomenon which we all are experiencing, it therefore adds up that many people in this country are not in any financial state to own and maintain a vehicle. Thus the hitchhiker stands at the mercy of those of us who are fortunate enough to own a car.

In direct response to the car owners of this country who are under the indiscrete assumption that hitchhikers are jobless, free-loading bums, I beg to correct your disillusionments. To use myself as a classic example, I am fortunate enough to be holding a part-time job. I am currently enrolled in the two-year registered nursing program of which I am about to graduate. And I happen to be the title owner of a car and a motorcycle, neither of which are in working order. My economic situation is such that I am rendered incapable of having them fixed. I am consequently left no alternative but to "bum" rides. I feel an injustice when I am placed into an immoral false stereo-typing.

On behalf of the hitchhikers, I'd like to thank those of you who hold out your hand to help us when we need you. Your services are greatly appreciated.

DAC gets bike racks

Ten anti-theft bicycle racks that would lock the frame and two wheels will be installed in front of the Campus Center in the near future.

Tony Musci, advisor of the Bicycle Club which recently merged with the Ecology Corps, has contracted Chuck Howard Metal Industries to make and install this first ten on a trial basis.

"If the students take to them, we'll put more in," said Musci.

These racks, made of encases steel, would clamp over the front and rear wheels and frame. single lock would secure the bike.

To steal a bike from one of these racks, an acetylene torch would have to be used.

Money for the racks is coming from a trust fund of $1,000 created for this purpose when Musci was ASDAC President last year. Each rack costs $25.

To help cut down on the bike theft problem, campus security has enacted a special beat of the bicycle racks already on campus. Bicycle thefts in the past four years have averaged 20.

Editorial

Work and play makes La Voz

La Voz is frequently of one mind. The editors generally agree on editorial and news content. However they do have a falling out every so often.

For instance, who remembers the Venceremos editorial last quarter that the entire editorial board disagreed with? Who remembers that the disagreeable editors wrote an editorial with exactly the opposing point of view and ran both stories side by side?

Few people realize that Tuesday 6 p.m. is the final deadline for all La Voz copy. Tuesday is also the day when headlines are written, it is decided where each story should go, and it is decided which stories are run.

This simple task only takes about 10 hours. Sometimes, if people wait around long enough to watch the fountains being turned off, they may see La Voz editors and staffers drag out of the newsroom weeping or practicing self-flagellation with used typewriter ribbon. This is merely another nights work finished.

The editorial board meets on Tuesday at noon. Few 'outsiders' have enough courage to attend one of these 'group therapy gone insane' sessions.

People are where the best of friends one moment, become engaged in ferocious ego battles the next. But we all just bleed a little and go back to work.

These battles are especially frustrating to the editor, who is mainly the coordinator of action and the final authority on matters of trivia. The present editor has been known to foam at the mouth and bite chairs.

Community college journalism is great fun. So much happens that it is an educational goldmine.

How many times is the average man on the patio confronted with a wild-eyed mercenary who wants to purchase one inch by one column worth of advertising and receive twenty inches of free publicity?

Where else but in journalism will you be called a communist and a fascist on the same day and in the same hour?

Where else would peices of fluff like this article run and be called an editorial.

Students run computer programming business

Four De Anza students have formed a small business on campus in computer programming.

The students also offer a keypunching service, using other De Anza students on an on-call basis. They do full documentation on their programs. They have written programs for De Anza and Foothill Colleges, receiving fees that go to cover their college expenses.

All four hold A averages in data processing.

Wayne Yacco, coordinator of the group, plans to continue his education at Cal Poly at Pomona, where he will major in business administration and data processing.

Cindy Rowe, who will become coordinator when Yacco graduates in June, will enter either the University of California at Berkeley or San Jose State College, where she will also major in business administration.

Dan Kuhl, another member of the team, plans to go to either Chico State College or San Jose State where he will major in data processing.

Yacco says the Computer Service Bureau hopes to involve more students in programming, "because you learn by doing."

The students, Wayne Yacco, Dan Kuhl, Margaret Teall, and Cindy Rowe do their programming on an IBM 360, Model 40G with a disc operating system.

Tutors needed in Center

The De Anza Tutorial Center has openings for students proficient in geology, math and accounting.

To qualify as a tutor, a student must have received an A or B in the course he will be tutoring or have a recommendation of the instructor.

Prospective tutors are interviewed for their attitude and past experience. Attitude and personality are the most important things, according to Ms. Sarita Skidmore of the Center.

Dr. De Hart stresses the passage of Prop. S

De Anza president A. Robert De Hart stressed the importance of an affirmative vote on Proposition "S". He commented that the school would not be closed if the measure should fail, but that the quality of these same programs would be greatly diminished. He explained the details and the significance of the proposed tax override, and elaborated on the consequences of a negation of the proposition by the voters. He observed that DAC is operating below the average cost per student.

Political rally held: cause not present

Of the approximately 200 people assembled at the Williams Street rally last Saturday, most were at a loss in finding a common cause.

The rally was called with the purpose of unifying all peoples behind efforts to end the killing in Vietnam, to end the police violence in the streets, to end racism and discrimination against women, and to free all political prisoners. Three featured speakers were advertised to appear. Of these, only one spoke. He was Richard Hatcher, mayor of Gary, Indiana. The other two scheduled speakers were Delia Alvarez, "Sister 1 of POW Hermana Del

Dodge donated

The Chrysler Corporation has donated a 1972 Dodge Colt to the Auto Tech Department. It arrived April 15.

The purpose of this car, along with several others donated in the past, is to aid students doing specialized work in car repairing to learn while working on the latest models with the newest equipment.

The Colt has been thoroughly dissected by student specializing in different areas. For example, students who mainly work on brakes dismantled the parts they needed.

Chrysler has also donated a 1970 Dodge Swinger to be used as a test car, and it has been extensively used for a variety of educational purposes.

Primero," and famous singer Roberta Flack. No reasons were given for their non-attendance.

THOSE WHO did speak to the assembled crowd spoke of oppression of the minorities both here and abroad. Richard Estramera, head of the Community Alert Patrol, spoke about the violence against Chicanos by members of the local police. Mayor Hatcher attempted to unify the rally by mentioning the injustices brought upon oppressed peoples throughout the world. He mentioned the war, brought to light the misuse of government foreign spending which is supporting dictatorial governments in Africa and South America, and called the people to unify through a bond of brotherhood.

Although most of the crowd was disappointed by Roberta Flack's no-show, and they eagerly awaited either Angela Davis or her sister Fania Jordan. Miss Davis was unable to attend, and although her sister Mrs. Jordan was there, she declined to speak in order to allow Alexander Franklin to address the rally. Franklin is prominent in the defense of Angela Davis. His speech summed up the defense's case in the Davis trial, telling of the lack of evidence to back up the prosecution's accusations.

It was after the speech by Franklin that the crowd deduced that most of the important people had already spoken; they then began to disband en masse.

The urgent need for the passage of Proposition "S" was stressed by Dr. A. Robert DeHart in an interview this week. He noted that the school would not be closed if the measure does not pass, but that the quality of the current programs would be greatly diminished. Here are some questions put to Dr. DeHart with his answers:

Dr. DeHart, just how much out-of-the-pocket money will this ten cents per $100 valuation cost the average taxpayer?

Well, in the first place, it won't amount to ten cents, but, more likely, five cents per $100, because the Board of Trustees have pledged to reduce restricted taxes by about five cents if the proposition passes. In dollars and cents, this will cost the owner of a $30,000 home about $3.75 a year for the four years.

Why did the Board place a four year time limitation on the override?

Because the Board felt that long-awaited tax reform by the State legislature would surely be enacted by that time. If such does happen, the tax over-ride could be removed at any time during the four year period.

I noticed in the sample ballot that those against passage of this measure noted that the district would not have its current problem if, for one thing, it "had not this year spent $500,000 for an additional tax free retirement annuity for the benefit of faculty and employees." What is your reaction to this?

It's true that the Board levied a five percent permissive tax for a non-taxable annuity plan. This was done, however, to offset the fact that the faculty did not get a promised cost of living raise because of lack of monies.

I have heard criticism to the effect that the District had $5 million in reserves several years ago and that, currently, the reserves have dwindled to almost nothing. Could this be the result of poor planning?

On the contrary. We knew at the time this campus was opened that our expenses would far exceed our income. This was the purpose of building up the reserve to allow for this difference. I would say it was the result of good planning. You may recall that, at the time we had, by the way it was just over $3 million not $5 million in reserves, we went to the taxpayers then for a tax over-ride and it was defeated. In effect, they said, "Come back to us when these reserves have been depleted," and that's what we're doing now.

I have heard from several areas that De Anza College offers a splendid program, covering fields not available at other Community Colleges, such as the data processing and nursing programs, to mention two. Are these specialized programs one of the causes for the current financial problems?

No. To be specific, we are operating below the average cost per student for state community colleges. It's true that we have a tremendous demand for our programs. Last year, 18,403 of 170,000 people in our service area attended some class at De Anza.

What would be the most visible immediate effect if this measure does not pass?

The students would have to take the courses available instead of what they need. We may have to devise a system whereby the student would be limited to taking 12 units instead of 16.

This, in effect, then, would prolong the length of time a student would have to spend here?

Very definitely. We have the second highest teaching load in the state at present and it would be foolish to try to increase that load by placing more students in each class. After all, we have a responsibility to the student to see that he learns something. We cannot reduce the quality of our programs although it does limit opportunity. But, to answer your question, it will prolong the time necessary for a student to spend here from one-half to one full year.

What would be the long term impact, as you see it, if Proposition "S" does not pass?

It would be more costly to the student, to the family and to the community. For one thing, it would keep the student away from a productive job for as much as a year, and the general level of our community's economy as well will be affected.

What other areas will be affected if the measure does not pass?

Well, one of the areas that deeply concerns me is that of the educationally disadvantaged and the minority student. These programs must be advanced because they have lagged behind other programs. If you merely maintain the status quo in these programs, you are, in effect, cutting back.

Dr. DeHart also pointed out that De Anza operates at one-half the cost per student of the state colleges and at one-third the cost of university students. He added that the administrative cost at De Anza is below the average for other state community colleges.

Co-Rec program proves valuable

Swimming, diving, volleyball, basketball, badminton, karate...all these, and more, are available at De Anza every Friday night for a mere fifty cents.

Three years ago, Community Services began a program so that neighboring taxpayers could take advantage of DAC's facilities. Helen Windham, who has been the director of Co-Rec night since it was organized, recently turned the program over to Bob Piferini.

According to Miss Windham, the facilities offered for family recreation "haven proven valuable for members of the community. Everyone seems to enjoy this opportunity, as the weekly turnout of 500 to 600 people seem to indicate."

The self-supporting program employs six lifeguards, five people to instruct in the gymnastics room and both a recreation major and nursery school major to lead children's (ages 3 to 8) activities.

A co-ed weight training program, tumbling, table tennis and an exercising bicycle are all available for community participation.

Evening for McGovern attracts politicians, stars

An enthusiastic crowd shared an "Evening for McGovern" with entertainers and politicians Sunday night in the Flint Center. Actors Jack Klugman of the "Odd Couple" television series and Jon Voigt of "Midnight Cowboy" fame flew in especially to speak in behalf of the presidential candidate. Cal Tjader's quintet furnished music for the occasion and poetry was read by Jim Marks. Assemblyman John Vasconcellos and Willie Brown, who acted as master of ceremonies, were also present. The highlight of the evening was a telephone call from the South Dakota senator which was audible to the audience. The call was made from Portland where McGovern was campaigning for the Oregon primary. The entertainment in the Flint Center was preceded by a reception in the Campus Center. The entire program was sponsored by the Palo Alto chapter of the McGovern for President campaign.

Play called 'professional'

By DAVID M. FAMA
La Voz City Editor

The southern general store owner shot his wife and bloodhounds tore the wife's vagabond lover to pieces to climx De Anza's May 19th production of "Orpheus Descending." The De Anza Playhouse presented Tennessee William's 3-act tragedy during May 17-20 for its spring production.

Hillis Williams directed a fine cast in an almost professional presentation. Judith Hettler's vividly impressive portrayal of Lady Torrance dominated throughout the drama.

WRINGING her hands in anguished frustration, and running them through her hair, she demonstrated the realistic quality that added to Lady Torrance. Moving powerfully and comfortably through her lines,

Mrs. Hettler is welcome in future DAC productions.

Her leading man, Richard Evans, complimented her efforts well as the guitar-playing drifter, Val Xavier.

His role nickname, "Snakeskin," suited him well, as he drawled convincingly as the "peculiar talker," devastating the town's ladies.

EVAN'S credibility was doubtful as a night club entertainer when, as he sang, he could only accompany his voice by holding the guitar. At least one musician could have taught the actor the necessary chords, lending realism to the role.

Mickey Martin and Laura Lanfranchi added refreshing comic relief with their catty gossip as the town busy bodies, Dolly Hama and Beulah Binnings.

The main object of their barbed tongues was the foxy Carol Cutrere, tartly played by Helen Macizek.

THE PLAY occasionally faltered technically when light and soun effects missed the proper cues. The most visible prop flaw was the substitution of Sheriff Talbot's billy club for an undisguised, broken cue stick.

Either the play's budget couldn't afford black spray paint or the Campus Police couldn't loan one for the sake of realism.

In total production, the De Anza Playhouse presents a unique stage arrangement, bringing performer and audience closer. The clever staging divided the action into a central set (the Torrance Mercantile Store) and an off-stage right set (the nearby confectionary).

Last weekend proved that De Anza theatre goers may relish in their own backyard (or should it be, backstage?).

Tax hike favored

What's your opinion on Proposition S? (proposed tax increase for the De Anza and Foothill Community Colleges)

"I won't be here after this quarter, but I have to be honest with myself and state that I will neither be effected nor care what happens to this campus. However many teachers on this campus do earn their salaries and I will vote yes for Proposition S to keep things prosperous for it is a good."

"Yes and no. Yes, because we need it. No, because it's a makeshift solution to a deeper problem. Like busing. We really need greater state financing. But until some such deep seated reform occurs, I'm all for S."
Bill Griese

"I will vote yes on it. Education is really important and De Anza's a good place for kids who can't afford to go to state colleges or universities. It has really good programs which should be continued and without this 10 cent tax raise some of them may be abandoned."
Cheryl Krier

"We must at least maintain the present level of education at De Anza. If the proposition fails it would deprive a lot of students the opportunity to receive at least a two-year degree. There should also be room for improvement and without the necessary funds, improvement would be an impossibility."
Tom Healy

"I think it's great because we need more teachers. The classes are too over crowded right now and we need more personal contact with them."
Linda Galt

"I would vote no because there's a big hassle between out of state people crowding the classes and the local people having to pay taxes to keep this school open. All an out-of-stater has to do to establish residency here is live here for a short term and not pay taxes unless he works. Instead of cutting down on faculty or closing the school, create some kind of criteria to limit out-of-staters and get the locals in first."
Herb Weeks

Candidates' platforms listed for representative contest

John Borja

John Borja is running for representative-at-large. His qualifications include student council in high school, and his current work in the McGovern for President campaign.

His platform is: "I will work to represent as effectively as possible the students of De Anza. I will endeavor to reset the priorities of student government. Our council has not been indicative of the student movement on campus, this must change.

Greg Skaggs

Greg Skaggs is running for representative-at-large. His

Grads need petitions in

Students planning to graduate this June should file a petition with their counselor as soon as possible to meet the June 7 deadline.

Both the student and his counselor must sign the petition which is then sent to the Registrar's Office. A student must have completed 90 or more units, have met the requirements for their major, and have fulfilled the State requirements. State requirements include English, speech, ethnic studies, health, a biological and a physical science, American history and institutions, and physical education. Counselors also check to assure that the student has completed a general education certificate and has a satisfactory grade point average.

The Registrar's Office then posts a list of prospective graduates. Instead of a ceremony, students voted to have a luncheon this year. Awards will be given out at this time, although diplomas won't be available until late summer.

qualifications are: working in the Model United Nations, working as a teacher assistant in the Social Science division, and action in the Proposition S campaign.

His platform as stated is: "I have been a student at De Anza for two years and feel qualified to hold a position as representative-at-large. I have been actively involved in campus activities and am confidently aware of how DAC functions and how to work within the government."

B. Farmer

Bill D. Farmer, transportation major, is running for freshman representative-at-large.

His platform is, "A representative-at-large is freed from any affiliation with any interest groups on campus, therefore he can appraise any impending council actions from an unbiased viewpoint. As your representative-at-large, I plan to interest more students in participation of student government, establish better faculty-student communication and especially, to represent with my vote on the council, no special interest groups, but only what is the best interests of the majority of students."

Bill has had no direct experience in student government, but feels qualified for the position. He has been in the military for seven years and expresses his most valid qualification as his desire to be representative-at-large.

Count Basie, world-renowned jazz musician, will be appearing in Flint Center. The June 3 concert is a benefit one for Prop. S. Basie has led a big band continuously for two and a half decades, and has recorded with Frank Sinatra and Tony Bennett. His band, which has given a command performance for the Queen of England, has reached record sales in the three million bracket. He has played at most of the society cafes in New York, and has made several movies.

Basie concert proceeds planned for Proposition S

Proceeds from the Count Basie concert, which will be sponsored by the Associated Students of De Anza, are designated to assist in the financial support of the Proposition S campaign.

Basie will appear in concert on Saturday, June third, at Flint Center. Concert time is scheduled for 8 p.m. The performance marks the midway point in the annual De Anza Days, a two-day recreational sports fair scheduled for Saturday, June third, and Sunday, June fourth.

BASIE, WHO HAS led a big band continuously for two and a half decades, has played the piano since childhood. Famed for his undying allegiance to the jazz beat, he took over Benny Moten's band in 1935, after working in a silent movie theater. His band made its first recordings in 1937, and became internationally famous the following year. His simple, swinging style with the piano and the impetus of his rhythm section established the band's fame.

Mayor's reps at DAC

Two representatives of the Mayor's Youth Council were at De Anza last Thursday accepting applications for summer jobs.

The job placement type agency functions free of charge to find jobs for young people during the summer. Unemployment fluctuates between 20 and 50 percent.

Job opening tips are secured through industrial representatives serving in advisory capacities to the Youth Council, and through personal visits to every firm in the San Jose area. These contacts are followed up by phone calls.

Employment availabilities range from yard work and babysitting to engineering aides and computer programmers.

Rick Purdy, staff aide to the program, said that "10 to 15 percent of the applicants were placed in meaningful jobs."

No special priority is given to minority applicants, according to

SCENE on CAMPUS

BY SID GAULT

This seems to be a week of approaching climaxes, what with student body elections on May 31 and June 1, De Anza Days on June 3 and 4, the presidential primary on June 6, which will include a vote on Proposition "S," all capped by finals week beginning June 15. Whew!

Since I wrote my last column, another team has filed for the position of student body president and vice-president. Dave Kert and Chris Meyer are the candidates and may the best team win. . . The Vietnam Symposium, under the leadership of student Mark Hall, to be held on campus May 30 through June 2 received the blessings of the Faculty Senate, but they would not approve excused absences of participating students.

Part-time evening instructors exceeded their anticipated goal of $1,000 in contributions to support the passage of Proposition "S" in the June 6 primary. . . The staff building near the Flint Center is headquarters for the Proposition "S" team and Mike Hoppin, co-chairman of the precinct committee is soliciting help in the campaign. Drop in anytime.

Music lovers have a full fare ahead for the month of Juen. Count Basie will appear in conjunction with De Anza Days at the Flint Center on June 3 at 8 p.m., followed by a rendition of Verdi's Manzone Requiem by the Schola Cantorum on June 4. A joint presentation by the concert bands of Chabot and De Anza Colleges will be conducted by Dr. Herb Patnoe on June 6, and the De Anza Chorale and the Vintage Singers will be featured in a Spring Spectacular on June 7, and on and on.

Those who attended the "Evening for McGovern" in the Flint Center last Sunday night were treated to a barrel of entertainment. Speakers were Jack Klugman, the dirty one of the "Odd Couple" television series, and Jon Voigt, of "Midnight Cowboy" fame. Willie Brown, Assemblyman from San Francisco, was the master of ceremonies and local Assemblyman John Vasconcellos was there, looking, as usual, more like a pro-linebacker than a politician. Poetry was read by black poet Jim Marks and music was furnished by Cal Tjader's combo. Tjader's two talented children, Liz (piano) and Rod (trumpet) were back stage and wife Pat was in the audience. McGovern spoke via telephone from Portland and the conversation was audible to the audience. I must say that his voice exuded confidence.

From all appearances, Joel Goldfus has lined up so much entertainment for the second annual De Anza Days Recreation and Sports Show that it will be hard to squeeze in during the two days. Latest additions to the program include concerts by both male and female barbershop quartets and an old time country music group. . . Seniors, don't forget the farewell luncheon. It will be held June 21.

Healy selected athlete of year

All-American water poloist and swimmer, Doug Healy, ran away with the most awards last Tuesday night during the Spring Sports Athletic Banquet.

Healy was selected as the most valuable player of the swimming team, received a $100 scholarship award for the highest grade point average, and was voted the 1971-72 De Anza Athlete of the Year.

SWIMMING Coach Art Lambert praised Healy as having all the attributes an athlete needs, "...drive, perseverance, and determination." Lambert continued by saying he couldn't think of a more deserving athlete and that Healy was a pleasure to coach and "the best aquatic athlete I've ever had."

Paul Weiss, owner of Key Chevrolet, presented Healy with a $100 award donated by his ownership for his 3.56 GPA maintained over the two year period he has been attending De Anza.

The banquet encompassed both winter and spring sports with winners in other areas including:

Dave Blasquez, Most Valuable for basketball and winner of the award for the highest free throw average and Bill Ames, Most Improved in basketball.

Wrestling gave it's Most Valuable Player award to Rick Lewis, Bob Marsella was voted as the Most Outstanding Wrestler, and Peter Araujo won the award for the most take-downs in the season.

Steve Macchi won the Most Valuable Player Award for baseball, Scott Covey won it for track, Dave Sutton won it for tennis, and Dennis Lehman won it for golf.

Doug Holt won the Athletic Division Scholarship of $200, and the Quota Club Scholarship of $300 went to Fidel Arreola. Holt was known primarily for his wrestling skill while Arreola was a De Anza football player.

Covey sets new mark in disc

De Anza pole vaulter Doug Olson failed to make opening height at the NorCal finals last Saturday.

Scott Covey hurled the discus to a new De Anza record in the NorCal finals held last Saturday in Salinas, and as a result, placed first in the field, enabling him to compete in this weekend's State championships.

Covey threw the disc 163'10", erasing his old mark of 162'9" set earlier in the season. The throw put him well ahead of the rest of the field and seeded him into the top flight of competitors in the State meet that will be held in Modesto tomorrow.

The meet will be run simultaneously with the California Relays and both are scheduled to begin at noon.

Doug Olson was the only other De Anza competitor that qualified from last Wednesday's NorCal Trials. However, at the finals, Olson was unable to make the opening height and according to De Anza track coach Jim Linthicum, "he would have qualified with 14'0".

Olson had been pole vaulting consistently at 14' for most of the season and was recently moving to greater heights, but a strong headwind, as well as "not having a good day," put a damper on his final '72 vaulting performance.

Linthicum, however, was pleased that Olson made it as far as he did and said, "It was great for Doug, as a freshman, just to be in the top competition of this nature. I'm sure the experience will help him greatly next season."

Linthicum said he was also extremely pleased with Covey's mark and commented, "This is something Scotty has been working for all season and I'm glad he's had this type of success."

Dons set records

This year's De Anza baseball team recorded a third place in the final CNC standings at 13-8, something less than what Coach Ed Bressoud had in mind.

However, despite Bressoud's disappointment, this year's squad was a record-breaker and three of it's members have been selected to first-team, All Camino Norte Conference.

Steve Macchi, the second leading hitter in the conference with a .407 batting average, Eric Elson, De Anza's home run hitter with a .313 average, and freshman Jess Pifferini who finished off the year at .311, were all selected on the All-CNC TEAM.

Pifferini was the only freshman in the league to be named to first team and another De Anza baseballer, Burke Weismann, was named to the second team, All-CNC. Weismann finished the season with a high .333 average.

FIVE NEW school records were also set by this year's team.

Steve Macchi set a new De Anza record with 35 hits in one season, and Eric Elson set a new, single-season home run mark with the five homers he hit this season while tying Glenn Egusa's record for career home runs.

Burke Weismann broke Denny Kinzy's old doubles record as he swatted eight doubles during the year.

Two pitching records were broken as Randy Zylker tossed for a total of 68 1-3 innings, breaking Tom Chagnon's old 1969 mark of 64, and Mike Smith came in as a relief moundsman in 10 games, the former mark of Tom Medley's, which was seven.

Macchi, Elson, and Weismann led the De Anza nine in batting. Elson, Jaramillo, Macchi, Pifferini, and Weismann each stole three bases during the season, Smith led in games pitched with 14, Zylker led in games, started 8 and in games completed 2, and he also recorded the team's only shutout of the season.

Co-Rec has events set

A track meet, a basketball "night" and an old fashioned gold rush are the activities scheduled to wind up the De Anza Co-Rec spring calender of events this month.

This afternoon, beginning at 2 p.m., co-ed track meet will be held on the campus track. Both field and running events will fill the afternoon. Among those to be held are: co-ed relay, mile run, 100 yd dash, 75 yd dash, sprint relay (men), sprint relay (women), quarter mile run, 120 low hurdles (men), 70 yard low hurdles (women) and the 880 yard run (women). Closing out the day will be popular "three legged" race at 3:30.

Over the Memorial Day weekend, fifteen local prospectors will strike out on a three day search for gold in the mining town of Juanita. Taking their task to heart, the miners will "rough-it" on the trip, hiking some three miles around cliffs, sleeping on, of all places, the ground, and "pan for the precious yellow nuggets in stream water that is 40 degrees. Miss Helen Windham (De Anza Co-Rec director) will supervise the prospectors during their journey.

Basketball is the sport to be played by one and all on Co-Rec night.

Doug Healy won awards for Most Valuable Player for swimming, $100 for highest GPA, and Athlete of the Year award.

Aquatic squad vies for Olympic berth

The De Anza Aquatic Foundation, under the direction of De Anza water polo and swimming coach Art Lambert, is well under way in competing for the title that will allow it to compete in the Olympics this summer.

The De Anza squad, as well as several other teams throughout the state, are competing in water polo matches each weekend; the ultimate winner determining the coach as well as some of the players who will journey to the Summer Olympics to be held in Munich in late August.

Two of the members on the current De Anza Aquatics team include Bill Evans, a 1968-69 All-American poloist from De Anza and Doug Healy, a 1970-71 All-American poloist from De Anza.

The DAC Aquatic squad has a good chance of ending up on top, according to Coach Lambert, with the deciding match to be held June 4th during De Anza's Sports Day activities.

The De Anza team plays

Concord this Saturday and Sunday here in the De Anza pool, game time for both matches is 11.

The Sports Day match against the current leader, Phillips 66 from Southern California, will begin at 1.

Phillips beat the De Anza squad earlier in the season in what Lambert termed as a "frustrating match." However, Lambert sees the tables turned in the final battle and, in the result of a tie, the team with the highest goal average will become the winner.

If De Anza does win, as Lambert is hoping, his team would become the overall winner with a goal average of 12 points above that of Phillips.
