Sunken Garden's fountains flow

New plumbing and a great deal of hard work have converted the fountains in the "Sunken Gardens" into working order again.

During the energy crisis, all the fountains and a few lights were turned off to help curb energy costs, according to Sherry Hernandez, secretary to the dean of activities. When the other fountains were turned back on, the fountain in the gardens was replaced with a pond. To create the pond, some of the old plumbing was taken out and a few plants added.

The pond gradually deteriorated; the water became a breeding place for mosquitos, in addition to constant littering.

Volunteer help of students and staff helped in cleaning up the pond, and Plant Services, headed by Bob Mibach, installed new plumbing. They finished in time for the 1979 commencement exercises, which was the recognized deadline for the new fountain.

Variety of loans available to students

By DAVID WRIGHT
Staff Writer

A variety of emergency loans are available to qualified students at De Anza College to assist in educationally related financial problems. Emergency loans of up to $200, according to individual students' needs and qualifications, are disbursed on a no-interest quick-payback policy.

Hundreds of students utilize this program yearly with thousands of dollars being lent, according to Jose Robledo, Financial Aids coordinator. Due to the large number of student loan applications being made and the somewhat limited funding available to the program, it operates on a first-come, first-serve basis to an extent.

If a loan is needed, a student should apply at the beginning of or before the quarter to beat the rush and increase chances of obtaining a loan.

Frequently the office will have to stop making loans because of insufficient funds. Robledo explained that as existing loans are paid back, more loans can be made—but that has been a problem. About 10 percent of the money loaned is not paid back and many other loans are repaid belatedly or even have to be submitted to collection agencies for repayment.

Generally, loans are not made during the summer months and very few in the latter stages of other quarters. Robledo said that although funds are sometimes available, loans are withheld then because of the problems encountered with repayment, and also to reserve the funding for the influx of requests for loans that he gets at the beginning of each quarter, particularly the fall. He feels that, although this inconveniences some students, it still serves the interests of the majority of the students, and the College as a whole, better.

Funded largely by donations from various individuals and outside organizations, Robledo said that the emergency loan program usually starts a quarter with a base of about $2,500 to $3,000 and is assailed with a battery of loan-seeking students whose needs and numbers the office is only partially able to satisfy.

The base money is quickly exhausted and loans can be made only with funds derived from repayment of existing loans.

Don Perata, dean of Student Services, said that the Emergency Loan Program and the Financial Aids Office in general is a very difficult department to run and that he is pleased with the manner in which it is being administered. He was not aware that a policy generally denying summer loans was in effect, but said, "existence of such a policy would not surprise me."

EDITORIAL

Dedication well deserved for enthusiastic worker

On Oct. 26, 1976, the student council voted in favor of naming the Campus Center after Marj Hinson as a tribute to her memory. Miss Hinson passed away Oct. 18, 1976, a victim of cancer. She served the district colleges for the last 12 years of her life; first at Foothill where she was acting Dean of Student Activities and at De Anza where she served as Dean of Activities prior to Don Hogan. She became De Anza's first woman administrator.

Ms. Hinson is remembered as an energetic and enthusiastic worker by her colleagues. These people are anxious to see a memorial dedication take place as soon as possible.

La Voz discovered the proposition is at a standstill until it passes the board of trustees. The board of trustees has final responsibility in the naming of all buildings in the district. The proposal must first be presented by Dr. Thomas Clements, acting president of De Anza College to the board of trustees for their approval. Currently, the proposal is in the hands of Clements, to be acted upon at his convenience.

La Voz feels this seemingly routine proposal has been caught up for too long in an administrative boondoggle. We urge the administration to approach the matter in the same spirit that Marj Hinson approached her labors for the college.

Carter administration can learn from papal policies

This past week the National Football League delayed a previously scheduled championship season game, so as not to interfere with the President's talk to the American people regarding Soviet combat forces in Cuba.

Earlier that same day, Pope John Paul II arrived in this country and spoke about peace. The pontiff urged courage and patience, for there will be a man "who could light up the darkness with this year's triumph."

La Voz feels the man to "light up the darkness with this year's triumph" should be the most powerful leader in the world.

The Pope is not the world's most powerful leader, although he may well be the world's most powerful spiritual leader. Through recent decades, however, the most powerful person in the world has usually been the President of the United States of America.

President Carter should take note.

Just because Monday night football was held up doesn't mean the President's popularity has risen. All it means, in our opinion, is that the American Broadcasting Company, coordinating with the NFL, started their coverage later only to insure their sponsors of the most possible viewers, not because the fans in the stadium or across the nation particularly cared what President Carter had to say.

This represents an apathetic attitude on behalf of the American people. Perhaps the people listened to what Mr. Carter had to say, perhaps they didn't.

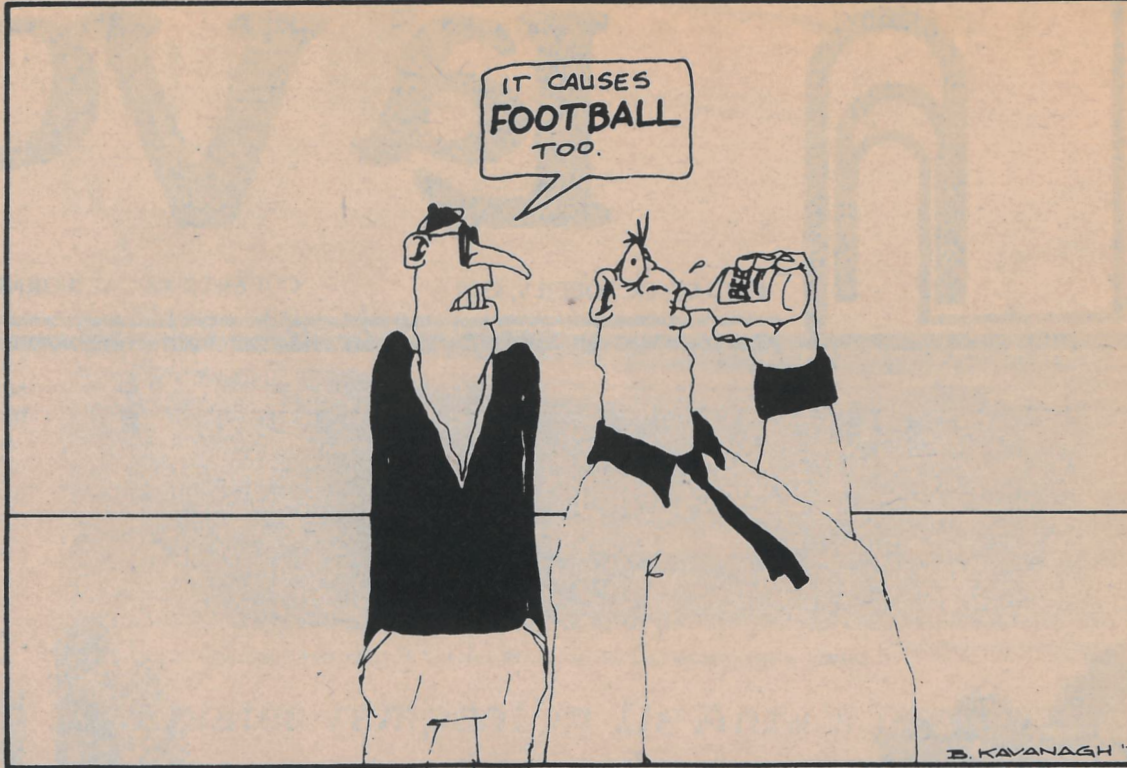

Even though ABC and the NFL didn't interfere with the President, we feel the President must interfere with world problems before it is too late.

The people turned out in droves this week to hear Pope John Paul II.

Mr. Carter should note the apathetic attitude of Americans coupled with the throngs of supporters the Pope has been able to draw, not only in this country, but worldwide, and should use the knowledge to his advantage.

La Voz feels the President of this country, one of the most powerful nations on earth, should better demonstrate himself as the leader of a world power.

La Voz hopes the President uses the Papal visit to Washington this weekend to reaffirm the power of the United States and to exercise the Presidency's worldwide influence and leadership capabilities.

Clubs offer variety

Editor:

I would like to take this opportunity to inform you and the student population of De Anza that there are great prospects here for people with the same interests.

I am speaking of forming clubs/organizations/associations on campus. A club generally has, as members, people who wish to do something together or to belong to a group with a common thought. De Anza can provide you with that opportunity, and possibly you might meet some new friends in the process.

These are the present active clubs/organizations on campus:

Alpha Gamma Sigma, Asian Student Union, Auto Tech Club and the Black Conservatives.

Child Care Co-op, Christian Fellowship, Christian Science,

Data Processing, De Anza Racquetball Club, and the Disabled Students Union;

Foreign Student Service, Instructional Aide Association, MEChA, Machine Tool Club and the Model United Nations Club. Showstoppers, Student Nursing Association and the Young Socialist Alliance.

Come by the Activities office in the Campus Center for more information.

Do not let the fact that there is not a club/organization here suit you—form one yourself and get involved. People who are interested in joining any of the following possible clubs, please come in to the Activities Office and put your name and phone number on the available list, and you will get back to you.

Ski Club, Chess Club, Grease Club, and Tolkien Club; Science Fiction Club, Model Train Club, Athletic Club, and Block D.A. Club.

Trustee renews student life

By MICHAEL DELCASTILLO
Staff Writer

After serving the Foothill-De Anza District for 20 years, Howard G. Diesner, M.D. is resigning as a member of the board of trustees and has become a student at De Anza.

Dr. Diesner, vice president to the board, suffered a stroke recently, was admitted to Los Gatos Community Hospital's Stroke Rehabilitation Center on June 12 and was released Aug. 8.

Now confined to a wheelchair, Diesner, 71, has enrolled in an adaptive and rehabilitation physical education course at De Anza. The course, "Ambulation Training," is designed to provide general conditioning and exercise programs for individuals having difficulty with ambulation, balance and motor skills. Diesner says, "De Anza has the best handicap training equipment in the area." He is proud that he can use a program that he had a key role in starting.

Having special interests in the handicapped programs, Diesner said, "There are too many state funding agencies and they should incorporate into one program to alleviate bureaucratic processes that exist to file for financial aid."

DR. ROBERT Smithwick and Diesner, both founding board members, have also worked together in the Fremont Union High School District where Diesner served 30 years. Playing a key role in starting the Foothill-De Anza Community College District in 1957, Diesner also stayed on with the high school district for many years thereafter.

As one of the founders of the Sunnyvale Medical Clinic, Diesner had a private practice until 1974. He sold the clinic to his partners: 54 other doctors. While in private practice, Fremont High School named their football field after him.

Diesner has been on the advisory committee for the handicapped as well as starting the re-entry program at De Anza. In the beginning he played a key role in establishing the Foothill Junior College District. Being instrumental in selecting the location and architectural design of Foothill and De Anza, he has won national awards in architecture. He also helped in the selection of the three chief administrators: Dr. Calvin Flint, Dr. John Dunn and Dr. Thomas Fryer.

ACCORDING TO Donald Ewing, director of Education and Personnel Services, Dr. Diesner is "the kind of person to be a favorite uncle," extremely dedicated to education and the District. Diesner made it a point to instill the quality of education serving people of all ages.

Diesner's son-in-law, Dave Towle, is one of the seven candidates running in the district board election this November.

Info center new success

Lost people are in luck this year. In response to the growing need for a personalized source of information, the new Information Center has been added to the Campus Center. Students seeking information about anything from financial aid to the location of the restrooms will find the center located in the upstairs lobby of the Campus Center.

The idea for the information service was developed by Greg Druehl in the Activities Office and Rena Frabony of the counseling department. The center is manned by a paid student staff, among them students enrolled in the Physically Limited program. The "peer advisers," as the staffers are called, are: Gay Zsori, Joyce Feight, Shirley Ringen, Marilyn Osterlund, Jim Malcolm, Debra Dunwoody and Laura Guttormsem. They are available from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Monday through Friday and 5 p.m. to 8 p.m. Monday through Thursday. The service is funded by the associated students.

Druehl feels the center has been a "super success" so far. The center handles about 300 to 500 student problems and questions a week. Most problems can be solved by providing the student with the proper brochure, but if telephoning and follow up are necessary, the staffers are eager to do what ever they can. Visitors interested in finding the highlights of the De Anza campus are invited to drop by the center also.

Movies liven Campus

To help liven up Tuesday nights, the Activities Office is presenting classic comedy movies in the Student Council Chambers.

The starting time for the movies is 7 o'clock, and admission is 25 cents with a student body card and 50 cents without, except at the Nov. 6 and 13 movies, when prices will be 50 cents and $1.

The movie program kicked off with "You Can't Cheat an Honest Man," starring W.C.Fields, last Tuesday. The following movies will be "The Great Race" on Oct. 9, "The Producers" on Oct. 16, "Walk, Don't Run" on Oct. 23, "Duck Soup" on Oct. 30, "Dr. Strangelove" Nov. 6 and "Paper Moon" Nov. 13. The last two movies may be shown in the Forum if the turnout for the others is high.

The movies are the brainchild of Extended Activities Adviser Bruce Fremd, who feels "not enough is happening on campus at night." He will be running the projector himself but emphasizes that he needs some volunteers to help present the movies adequately. Those interested should contact Fremd at his office in the Campus Center.

He views the movies purely as fun, and since the films cost anywhere from $40 to $75 to use, he doesn't expect to make a profit. He feels the series will prove to be an enjoyable Tuesday night activity for students, non-students and faculty.

Yamashiro lends many facets to artistry

By ALAN SWEGER
Staff Writer

When one thinks of talent, one can't help thinking of Rick Yamashiro. The talented 26-year-old practically corners the market on creativity at De Anza College.

Samples of Yamashiro's work can be seen all over campus on posters, banners, advertisements and flyers because Yamashiro runs De Anza's Publicity Room.

The shop is located on the lower level of the Campus Center.

PUBLICITY WORK can be done for anyone on campus and prices are minimal, set according to the type and size of publicity wanted. Office hours and printing fees are posted.

Also employed at the shop are two other talented students, Vicki Hutchenson and Karen Taylor.

The shop is equipped with two block-print sign presses, colored poster board and butcher paper, and numerous other printing and painting materials. The shop also provides camera-ready artwork.

Yamashiro is also a skilled cartoonist and calligrapher. He does many hand-lettered posters and, according to specifications, may decorate many of his posters with cartoons and drawings.

HIS ABILITIES with musical instruments include alto and soprano sax, C melody sax, flute, recorder (a type of flute made of wood), harmonica, guitar, and some small percussion, including bongos and tymbals.

He is currently the lead singer in a band called "Flux" with four other musicians. The band has been together for about a year and a half and has played high school dances and proms, bay cruises, parties, and a few night clubs.

THE BAND concentrates mostly on progressive rock and some jazz here and there, with such sounds as Steely Dan, Jethro Tull, Super Tramp, Beatles, Chuck Mangione and George Benson.

Yamashiro not only sings with the band but has played most of his instruments at one time or another in their performances.

He is also interested in writing, having served on the La Voz staff for two years doing reviews and cartooning. He enjoys creative writing in particular and has written poems and a few plays that he is hoping will be published.

Campus lawyers help out

Conflicts with landlords, tenants or spouses, injuries, arraignments and arrests are some of the issues discussed by lawyers and clients in De Anza's free legal assistance program.

Day and evening students, faculty and classified personnel are eligible for this service.

Doug Lipton, CESDAC's attorney for evening students, says people put off consulting a lawyer because they are afraid of the costs. Procrastination often causes problems to grow larger and more difficult to solve.

De Anza's free legal service seeks to help people resolve problems early, before they get out of hand.

In a fifteen-minute interview, clients are informed of their rights and responsibilities. Alternatives and solutions are suggested.

"If possible, clients are advised on how to help themselves without hiring an attorney," says Ron Goularte, directing attorney for ASDAC's program. If an attorney is needed, the client is given several names of lawyers to choose from. Referrals are also made to the county's Legal Aid Society, the Landlord/Tenants Union, the public defender's office and other county and community agencies if necessary.

Appointments to talk to a lawyer are made at the Activities Office downstairs in the Campus Center or by calling 996-4756. For day students, the 15-minute appointments are scheduled on Mondays and Wednesdays from 4-5:30 p.m. Evening students come in Tuesdays from 5:45-7:15 p.m. If a student has difficulty coming in, phone appointments can be set up within those times.

Ron Goularte, enthusiastic supporter of legal aid programs, has been involved at De Anza giving seminars on legal rights for consumers, handicapped persons, landlords and tenants and women. He also helped set up the course Consumer Law 50.

Activities at top of dean's list

From his start as basketball coach for the 1964 Australian Olympic team to Dean of Activities at De Anza College, with a few stops in between to pick up degrees and experience, Don Hogan's career background is as versatile and varied as the man himself.

Starting his eleventh year at De Anza College, Hogan hopes it will be a productive one. With the outcome of the Joe Sharino dance, which is probably the most successful dance in De Anza history, things are off to a good start.

A native of Santa Cruz County, the Scotts Valley resident still considers himself a "Santa Cruz boy" even though he went to college at San Jose and Stanford. Graduating from San Jose State University with a master's degree in education, Hogan lacks only four classes for his Ph.D. from United States International University in San Diego.

Hogan worked at many jobs before joining the De Anza staff. He was a teacher and counselor in a high school, and the dean of men and assistant dean of students at San Jose State.

Hogan feels his most satisfying job was being the Olympic basketball coach for the Australian team in Tokyo. Hogan said that he had a lot of choices in his career. He chose administration over teaching, counseling and coaching.

The different departments that run under Hogan are: Activities, Athletics, the Bookstore, Food Services, Building Services and the SLS 90 Short Courses.

Some of the goals set for this year are: a community service program, a Business Education Day, a master parking plan and establishment of a financial plan to maximize earnings of the Campus Center operation.

Women's Tae Kwon Do World Champion Marsha Hall.

Hall grabs second Gold Tae Kwon Do champion

By KATHLEEN SULLIVAN
Staff Writer

Gold medal winner Marsha Hall has won the Tae Kwon Do Women's World Championship for the second consecutive year during international competitions held in Taipei, Taiwan, in 1979.

Hall was among eight women and 12 men who comprise the United States team chosen to represent the United States, one of 23 countries participating in the competition. Hall holds a black belt in Japanese Shotokan and a black belt in the Korean style of Tae Kwon Do.

To become eligible for participation in international competition, Hall states that each competitor she had to "come up through the ranks." This required competition in the AAU West Coast Region where she won first place in the middle-weight division. She went on to win first place in the AAU National Championships.

Tae Kwon Do is the national sport of Korea, where it originated, and the Koreans were "toughest competitors," according to Hall. Tae Kwon Do is a form of the martial arts and is more closely related to Judo than the other arts. It contrasts on the offensive-defense being less violent in nature than Judo.

This year the Chinese government sponsored the entire competition at an approximate cost of $1 million. This was the second year women have participated (continued on page 10)

Another tilt Future files

by Roger Tilton

March 1, 1980

March marched to a day late opening this year due to an extra day granted again to arch rival February. For its big leap toward March, the last day of February was dedicated to presidential aspirants and proclaimed "Primary Day 1980" by a unanimous vote of members present in the House of Representatives, 46-0. The other 389 members were out campaigning for President.

In light of this special proclamation, 27 states switched their presidential primaries to February Leap Day, which will fall immediately after the 28th.

As with any other national event, California's governor, Edmund G. Brown, Jr., couldn't refrain from making a statement.

"California is proud to lead the nation," declared Brown, "in declaring Leap Day the official primary day for California for four years, at a time, to come." The governor understood what he said and went on to number each day after the year it will leap for: Feb. 84, 1984, Feb. 88, 1988, etc.

Yesterday, Feb. 80, 21 primary winners (each state didn't choose a different one after all) vowed to win his and, in some cases, her party's nomination at the summer Republican and Democratic conventions. What a circus that will be.

APRIL 1, 1981:

April showers showered the April fools who stood drenched in line anxiously and nervously awaiting the opening day of the movie billed as the "Movie of 1981" and starring George Kennedy.

The premiere showing of "Space Shuttle: Airport 81" was witnessed by nearly 7,000 moviegoers in New York and Hollywood, but more than an estimated half million were turned away at those same New York and Hollywood box offices.

Even though "Shuttle" opened before NASA was able to get their facsimile off the ground, officials at the space agency said, through an agency spokesperson who was lucky enough to view the first screening, "Wow, is this what ours is going to be like?"

The NASA spokesperson, quickly gagged, fired and sent on an irreversible space mission, was unable to elaborate further.

The film, meanwhile, destined to be a blockbuster, should smash all box office records, if not box offices, before picking up an expected Academy Award a year from now for best something-or-other.

Insiders say Kennedy has already won the coveted jewel. The same insiders failed to mention which jewel, or even which Kennedy.

Cleveland, the city, applied to New York, the state, for the all-new "Merger License."

Beset with continuing financial troubles and plagued by inadequate city leadership, Cleveland decided its only hope was to merge with the Big Apple. New York City, still getting yearly fixes (of $$$) from the Feds, opened its arms with all fingers out-stretched.

A merger license, initiated by the governor of New York, works just like a marriage license but joins cities, not people. Care to guess who is the groom?

Photography by Mike Del Castillo

Due to the recent excavation near the forum building, the natural flow of students has been disrupted in this area. This distraction is temporary and soon the campus will be back to its original beauty.

Council considers money alternatives

ASDAC council was faced Friday with the decision of how to invest $37,000 of reserve monies.

Morgan Maher, ASDAC director of finance, said at their meeting he had explored several alternatives, including Eurodollars, an international investment system which yields a 12 percent return. ASDAC has yet to investigate if such an investment is legal under the California Education Code.

Dave Frederick, director of publicity, reported the council made a good profit on the successful Joe Sharino dance.

There was a substantial decrease, compared to past dances, in publicity costs, which amounted to only five percent of the net income. Other members suggested the council stick with well known bands in the future to draw crowds like that at the Sharino dance, which brought 717 people to the Campus Center.

Presiding Member Keith Slenkovich commented on a new district computer. The IBM system which is now being looked into would take two or three years to arrive, but would make the registration process more efficient as well as benefit students enrolled in computer classes.

Alternatives to this system are also being looked into, to weigh if the costs and long wait are feasible.

Sandy Habr reported on the Academic Council meetings which she has been attending. The Academic Council includes faculty, classified staff, administration and one student. It reviews academic concerns that don't fall under normal policies of De Anza College.

Slenkovich also brought up the subject of the possible joining of ASDAC (day student council) and CESDAC (evening student council), but refused to make a formal comment at the present time.

CESDAC was formed in 1969 because the evening students felt they weren't being properly represented. Throughout the years, the ASDAC and CESDAC councils have had many disagreements. Reorganization to join the student bodies was considered in 1977 but required evening student body approval, and it was defeated.

Credit for internship

"Internship experience can really help a student get an edge in the job market," says Gloria Ott of the Volunteer Programs Office. For the past two weeks more than 250 volunteer organizations of the Santa Clara Valley were represented on campus, recruiting students for placement in such varied internships as the Greenpeace environmental organization and Santa Clara County legislators. The internships cover "all academic areas," says Ott.

De Anza students can also earn units for their work with these organizations. The units vary from one to three per quarter and would count in the student's major or as a transferable general elective.

The Volunteer Programs Office is located in Forum 5.

Indians show up at CHC

The California History Center celebrated the opening of its exhibit, "The First Californian," last Friday. The exhibit is a display of artifacts left behind from the American Indians who lived in California before European settlers arrived. Visitors to the center may see many examples of Indian basketry, weaving and sculpture that are now lost to tradition.

The exhibit's designer, David Rickman, along with volunteers, spent three months researching Indian culture and three months bringing together artifacts and building displays. Many of the pieces are on loan from the Lowie Museum in Berkeley, but several are actually crafted replicas by Rickman and volunteers.

A group of people spent a day at the Federal Parks Interpretive Sight at Point Reyes, where evidence of Indian civilization moved the government to preserve it as a historical area. The purpose of the trip was to learn how the Indians made reed mats so the method could be reproduced for a display of a reed hut. Greg Gnesios, a ranger at Point Reyes, instructed the group in the gathering and cutting of tule reeds but to do it quickly when one member accidentally disturbed a hornet's nest, bringing a cloud of angry hornets down on the volunteers.

Debora Cardenas and Rickman's brother Robert acted as models for the mannequins on display. They allowed themselves to be entirely wrapped in plaster-of-paris bandages by Catherine Garcia and trusted her to cut them out of the dried bandages later without drawing blood, a task even Rickman preferred to avoid.

All the volunteers were essential to the production of the exhibit. Approximately 100,000 volunteer hours went to research and physical labor.

"It's a real learning experience to put together an exhibit like this," says Rickman.

The project was funded by private donations to the center itself, and employees of the center are paid by the Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA), which is a federally funded program.

Future exhibits on the Grand Hotels and the Gold Rush are in the works.

In coordination with the current exhibit is a lecture class, "The First Californian." The class was scheduled to be taught by Dr. Robert F. Heizer, but shortly after those plans were made, Dr. Heizer died. Teaching in his place will be three graduate students, Karen Nissen, Colin Busby and Sean Swezey, all of whom have done graduate work under Dr. Heizer. The lecture dates are scheduled for Oct. 1, 15, 29 and Nov. 12.

The exhibit will run through Dec. 14. The public may see it any Wednesday when there will be docents there or Tuesdays or Thursdays when group tours may be arranged by appointment.

Soccer team wins match

The De Anza soccer team has yet to lose a game this season and has compiled four straight wins, most by incredible margins.

Sergio Cardoso, an All-American last year, is far and away the team leader. In Tuesday's 5-0 win over West Valley, Cardoso scored two goals. The other goals were punched in by Steve McCargo, Dave Crosse and Bill Adent. Mike McMackin and Marty Sullivan teamed up in the goal for the shutout.

Last Friday the Dons whipped

Evergreen College 9-2. Cardoso again proved his immense value by scoring an unbelievable four goals.

"I played every player," said Head Coach Bill Walker. "We emptied the bench in each game. We're still trying to find who our top 18 players are."

One would seem to be Eric Dripaux as he knocked in the lone goal earlier last week in the Dons' 1-0 win at Diablo Valley College. The game, played on astro-turf, featured 35 shots on goal—33 by De Anza.

"We may be as good as we were last year," Walker added. "Our goals are to win the conference and go on from there." Last season, like the season before that, the Dons won the Golden Gate Conference title. Each year the team ended up in the state finals.

To get that far this year Coach Walker and his eleven will have to get by such powerhouses as Foothill, Canada and Chabot. The Dons play Chabot here this afternoon at 3:15. Tomorrow the Dons will be in Fresno for the Fresno Tourney. Tuesday, De Anza returns home for another conference match, this one vs. Canada, also at 3:15. Then on Thursday, the Dons travel to San Francisco to play CCSF.

De Anza's current conference record is 2-0. The win at Evergreen was non-conference, as was the 6-1 victory over the Santa Clara reserves earlier in the season.

De Anza women spike down Berkeley opponents

In an exciting pre-season match, De Anza women's volleyball team defeated U.C. Berkeley last Friday night in De Anza's gym.

Before about 80 enthusiastic onlookers, the De Anza Dawns showed that another winning season is likely to be in the making.

"I predict another championship," Coach Debi Shafer said, "particularly if they continue to play the way they did tonight."

The Dawns have been the Golden Gate Conference champions for the past two years, going undefeated in 28 league games.

The first league game was Wednesday night, but the results were unavailable at presstime. They also have a game scheduled for this afternoon at Diablo Valley College. The next home game will be Oct. 12 at 7 p.m. against Canada College.

invited to participate in international competition and became the highlight of the event. It created enthusiasm and a sense of unity among the women as they demonstrated their high level of skill. Hall said, "This shatters myths that women have to rely on someone else for their defense."

"It's really an upper for me to participate in women's teams," beamed Hall. "It had to be a struggle just to participate in the past, let alone have our team."

Hall stressed the importance of limberness and flexibility pointing out the highest in competition were awarded high head kicks. Tae Kwon Do requires endurance, quick and mental alertness in action to an analytical mind. Competition improves mental alertness as opponents react to unfamiliar styles of each individual. She explained back kicks were part of her practice workout she was temporarily "thrown" when her opponent used them.

Hall is a full-time student at De Anza and says she will continue from competition after this year. She has "peaked out" at the age of 22, saying the best year was "17 to 19 for maximum alertness and agility."

She is currently an instructor of Tae Kwon Do at Macowski San Mateo and will teach a defense course at De Anza in the coming winter term short course program. She explained, "Women underestimate their potential in situations requiring defense."

Her objective is to "build confidence and back it up with skills so (women) become aware of their surroundings and assertive in their reaction to them."

To dispel the fear of women becoming too masculine, she reassures that Tae Kwon Do actually "enhances femininity."

Hall emphasized fear as a cause of vulnerability which can attract trouble, and "learning to channel this fear into technique (offering alternatives) enables women to perform at an optimum level." She wants to "shatter stereotypes of male attacker being mainly the tall, intimidating male" when men are "the same size as women or even smaller."

Those people trained in martial arts are non-violent having learned discipline and alternative behavior in addition to being analytical in sizing up a situation. They view Tae Kwon Do first as an art. Those who are "not trained would use violence first, where (we) use it as a resort," assures Hall. "It's an all-around confidence builder."

Polo splashes into first game

The De Anza water polo team opens the 1979 season here this afternoon with a 3 o'clock game against Diablo Valley.

The Dons are the defending Golden Gate Conference and NorCal champions and have never finished below second in the state during the reign of Head Coach Bob Wegman.

Pat Yates, the state's Most Valuable Player last year, leads De Anza's six returning players, which include three starters.

This season's goal, according to Wegman, is to again reach the state playoffs.

Dons demolish West Valley Vikings

Photography by Rudy Sabin

Mervyn Fernandez speeds past his defender to score another De Anza touchdown, in a game that the Dons won against West Valley 24 to 7.

The De Anza Dons, keeping to their winning ways on the football field, demolished West Valley 24-7 last week in the Golden Gate Conference opener for both teams.

Overstreet, in addition to his touchdown pass, rushed 11 times for 45 yards and a touchdown. De Anza's record is now 3-0.

De Anza, ranked number two in the state, got on the scoreboard first with a 24-yard first quarter field goal by Scott Hertler.

Woman's hockey places second in pre-season

In the second quarter, Don quarterback Jack Overstreet teamed with Mervyn Fernandez for a six-yard scoring pass, and De Anza took a 10-0 lead into the halftime locker room.

De Anza women's field hockey team is going to have a great season if they keep up the good work. In the first pre-season tournament, they beat all other junior colleges, losing only to Stanford, the tournament winners.

The Dons scored their final two touchdowns on running plays, a one-yarder by Overstreet and a two-yarder by Ron Thornburg. The touchdowns gave the Dons a resounding 24-0 lead.

De Anza gave up only one goal during the whole tournament and were defeated by Stanford on a penalty stroke. The team took 55 shots, allowing only 21 attempts by their opponents, finishing with a 13.75 average for the tournament and with a save ratio of one to 18.

West Valley scored their lone touchdown on a fourth-quarter running play.

"I'm glad we won," De Anza Head Coach Chuck Elder said. He praised his defense for giving up only one touchdown to a stubborn West Valley team. The offense, according to Elder, moved the ball well.

Coach Greg Valastlica feels the team is a favorite for the Golden Valley Conference title. He hopes to take his team all the way to the state championship at San Antonio College in December.

"We need a lot of luck," added Elder, referring to upcoming games featuring Foothill at Foothill tonight at 7:30 and Diablo Valley on their home field next week.

"We have to play a controlled game, not physical," said Valastlica. The team is a good all-around equally scoring group of players.

Thornburg was the leading rusher in Saturday's win over the Vikings as he carried 17 times for 70 yards and a touchdown.

The Dons play at Yuba College at 3:30 this afternoon and play two games next week. The first is here against Ohlone, Tuesday at 3:30 p.m.; and the second is a week from today, also at 3:30 at American River College.

Hunter valued by team

By PAMM BLACKWELL
Staff Writer

The football team at De Anza College plays an important part of the total Athletics Department. The team stresses athletic ability along with academic performance. Chuck Elder heads the coaching staff along with many other talented faculty and staff members.

One of the most talented members is Eb Hunter, a social science and inter-cultural studies instructor. A few years ago a search began for a supporting coach that was also a faculty member. Hunter was selected to help coach the football team because of his past experience in the field of football. His duties as instructor were reassigned to include time for football coaching.

Hunter has a colorful background in football. He started playing in high school at Richmond High and received many scholarships to play football. He spent some time at the University of Oregon. He later returned to the area and attended San Jose State University where he played very successful football for two years.

His most memorable highlight at San Jose State came about when they beat UC Berkeley by a score of 25 to 0. Hunter intercepted a pass in that victory.

After San Jose State, he played semi-pro football with the San Jose Aztecs. He was at this time working in the probation field, but decided to return to school once again for his master's degree. Hunter attended Berkeley and served an internship for teaching specifically at the Junior College level. He has been teaching at De Anza for the last nine years.

His immediate desire is to help win the championship.

QUESTION: Who would you like to be the next President of the United States? Why?

Sam Fernandez:

I have not yet heard of someone who I would like to be President. We need someone who will be honest and straight-forward; however, someone like that would probably not be a politician.

Lily Rogers:

Kennedy or Brown. Brown is more liberal. He is into solar energy; things to do with the environment. He is trying to spend money on social services rather than other things.

Leslie Waller:

Hopefully, Kennedy will be the next President. He has the Kennedy name, he knows how to deal with people, and he is an organized man. Also, he is a Democrat.

Kenny Avila:

I would like Edward Kennedy to be the next President. He is an experienced politician and he has his family's influence behind him.

Donna Dorn:

Elliot Richardson. He is a conservative like I am, and I like how he handled the Watergate crisis. He's got a strong backbone.

Ego plates rampant in De Anza's parking lot

Next time you are struggling up and down the rows that we call parking lots, take some time out from your parking space hunt to notice license plates. You may find that De Anza sports some of the "best-dressed" cars in California.

The California Environmental License plates are becoming the rage. Everyone has a little message to spread, and "personalized" plates are a good outlet. De Anza's parking lots can provide hours of entertaining plate reading, reflecting that its students and faculty like to be heard. Is your car on the "best-dressed" list?

Some of De Anza's most fashionable wheels include a perky yellow Honda Civic exclaiming

"STOOPS," a brown Trans Am that I "APRIL 5" and a beige Toyota Celica Li proclaiming "UR TUFF."

Candidates speak their minds Special Ed offers the Candidates for the three open positions on the Foothill-De Anza Community College Board of Trustees will appear twice this month at public forums sponsored by the League of Women Voters of Sunnyvale-Cupertino.

The public question-and-answer sessions will be held October 29 at Fremont High School, 1279 Saratoga-Sunnyvale Road, Sunnyvale, and October 30 at Cupertino High School, 10100 Finch Avenue, Cupertino.

Both forums will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Seeking one of the three positions available on the five-member board are: Gerald Beson, M.D., physician; James Clymer, corporate managing director; and Franklin (Pitch) Johnson, Jr., incumbent.

Additional candidates are: Norman John Shafkey, accountant, realtor, instructor; Robert Smithwick, incumbent; Marc Strassman, journalist; and David L. Towle, insurance broker.

Sharing the program with the community college board hopefuls will be candidates for the Fremont Union High School District Board.

Students interested in practical experience working with physically limited can find a "theory" class, ARPE 62A.

In addition to class lectures, various disabilities and experimental techniques, Theory of Special Education participants will be able to work with on-campus adaptive PE classes.

More information is available from Steve Sellitti, 996-4742, the office, PE 41k.

The class is offered Tuesday and Thursdays at 1:30 p.m.
