EDITORIAL

This being my last Editorial, I find myself tempted to repeat statements that I've made many times before.

Look around my friend. Look around and what do you see? Such a beautiful campus with spacious lawns and wonderful architecture that's world renowned. But the paradox is that the school is broke! The administration wants to go for a tax override this spring. They also want your vote. Before you make up your mind talk to the administrators and talk to your Student government leaders. Get the facts, find out where your money is going and where it will go in the future.

One of the most common labels for an administrator is fascist pig. At times I would have to admit that it is a very befitting title and yet at other times I wonder if some students using the term aren't bigger pigs. I've talked to quite a few students who will call an administrator a pig and I ask them if they've ever met the man they reply, "Why no, but everyone knows he's a pig."

The administration is constantly put down for being unresponsive to students needs and desires. But how the hell can the administrators know what the students want when they can't find students to be representatives on the student administrative boards that determine school policy? (If you would like to be on one of the boards, talk to your student government representatives or Demi Georgas) How the hell can the Board of Trustees get student input when only three or four students (on the average) take the time to attend Board meetings? (Remember 5,000 day students).

How the hell can student government be responsive to the needs of the student body when only ten to fifteen students bother to show up for Campus Council meetings?

It is very disheartening to realize how easy change can come about on this campus and to see thousands of apathetic ass-holes sitting on their asses smoking dope, playing with their frisbees, chicks checking out cocks and cocks checking out the chicks and to hear such revolutionary rhetoric floating around such as, "Wow man, got some groovy acid!" or "Sure had a far out gig at Chucks cellar last night!"

Foothill's theme song should be "EVERYTHING'S BEAUTIFUL." It sure as hell isn't but when you got blinders on your eyes it sure can appear that way. Get off your ass and get involved. Do something to change your environment. Make it one where there won't have to be a special "RAP CENTER" where you go to communicate with another being. Bring the rap center into your life.

At this time I would like to thank everyone who has helped in so many ways to make the SENTINEL a fun paper to work on and everyone who has given me moral support throughout the past quarters. And to my critics, I thank you for helping me to understand myself.

Voice of the Moderate

By TERRY OTT

Have you ever been on welfare?

From childhood, we are told, "Beggars can't be choosy." Welfare recipients have to admit that they are beggars. How much pride does that give a man or a woman?

From childhood, we are taught to take adequate care of our children, to feed and clothe them properly. Beans, rice, and cornbread meals aren't proper foods for a steady diet. Salvation Army clothing and shoes cover the body. And get laughed at. How much dignity is there in that kind of humiliation?

From childhood, we are taught that adults take care of themselves; they go to work and support their families. A person on welfare actually loses money by going to work; his grant is cut, baby-sitter and transportation costs are high, and he is left with less than before. How much self-respect is there in being idle?

Have you ever been on welfare?

Do-Gooders run around the country getting welfare recipients evicted from their homes in the holy name of Urban Renewal. They chase all over the state trying to guarantee an annual income, so the welfare recipient can never be free.

Do-Gooders, who rob the working man to trap the welfare man, feed their egos on the souls of the poverty-stricken.

It makes them feel all holy and noble to be able to "help" a needy family. And the recipient is shoved deeper and deeper into the dirty, slimy sewer of despair and defeat of the welfare system.

Have you ever been on welfare? For those of you who have not, let me tell you this: Nine times out of ten, the recipient has no choice in the matter. No choice at all. Do-Gooders keep right on messing things up for him, keep him from being able to stand up on his own two feet like a man.

He hasn't got a chance as long as he is being penalized for trying. And that's how it is in the present set-up.

The Do-Gooders have arranged things quite nicely, making dead sure he'll never escape. God rest their holy, righteous, Christian souls.

For those of you who are on welfare, remember this: As long as they can make you suffer, they'll feed on your misery.

As long as you let them keep you in the Welfare Trap, they'll suck all the pride and self-respect you've got, until you turn to drugs or suicide or homicide, trying to get the devil away from it.

If you joined the fight to abolish the whole system; tried to defy the alleged "Do-Gooders" who are raking you over the coals; you MIGHT have a chance to get out of it.

I know. I've been there. And I got out.

I'm not going to guarantee that it will be easy.

General comments:

Marc Stenger, whose tooth was chipped in a recent altercation in the Campus Center, is covered by accident insurance even if he only has the $5 type ASFC card. That's the purpose of the card: insurance and a "campus use" fee.

If, as Jim Cumming suggests, it has been found that the "People's Vote" is inefficient, and if the "People's Vote" is implemented on campus, will everyone gripe because Frank Pretty cannot accomplish anything as President of the ASFC?

It seems to me that Rich Mendez had to contend with the "People's Vote," and everyone on campus who cared to speak about it at all cried because Rich headed a "do-nothing" council.

Don't forget to register to vote; then hurry over and sign the petition for the marijuana initiative. It's ridiculous to fine or imprison people for enjoying themselves when they are causing no harm to anyone else. Maybe if we're lucky, we'll soon get an initiative up to allow us to have a little privacy in our bedrooms, too.

I checked with Administration about Jaime Arias' being allegedly ineligible for candidacy as V.P. on the Student Council. I was surprised to learn that for some reason, the most recently updated version of the constitution has not yet been printed. So Mr. Henning had no choice but to declare Jaime ineligible (by the old constitution, he was).

Maybe our new council will be able to find the time and money to print recent versions of the constitution so that such problems can be avoided in the future.

The Mar. 2 Student Council meeting was pure chaos. I am told, however, that it was 100 percent better than previous meetings. The council convened at 1:15 (only 15 minutes late, and I left it at 3:05; approximately one-third of the agenda had been covered).

The council got hung up in an argument about whether Doug Mountford should be allowed to set things up for a rock concert, or whether it had to go through Mike Kelly, the new VP of activities.

Mike walked in for just a few minutes, said "Let him handle it," and said he would not bring Doug's proposal before the board. But the council decided that Doug had to go through Mike anyway.

Renee Roatcap and Tim Allen protested, saying it was bad news to put down a student who cared enough to try and get something done, and the council agreed.

But Doug still has to go through Mike, and Mike says he wants no part of it, and so I guess it will stand that way. (I'm frankly not sure HOW it stands!)

Incidentally, it was at the council meeting that I discovered that Shelly DuBose, who had so much to say about what the students "need," isn't even a Foothill student. She used to be.

I found all that very amusing. She was carrying a bunch of Venceremos newspapers and a yellow flower. She sold her newspapers for a quarter each.

I feel relatively certain Angela Davis will be acquitted, even if someone has to kill the judge in order to assure it.

Dunn discusses district's finances

By JOHN W. DUNN
District Superintendent

The report of a study of the Foothill District finance problems by community representatives which was made to the Board of Trustees has raised a number of questions among the staff and students which call for some answers and discussion.

1. What is the financial problem?

a. $1,600,000 in needed supplies, equipment, and staff had to be cut out this year's budget.

b. All staff took a pay cut of 3.65 percent in order finally to get costs down to the amount of money available.

c. It was still necessary to begin the year with a dangerously low reserve for any emergency which might arise.

d. It was possible to restore the pay cut in January, but only because the faculty had taken on heavier teaching loads and larger classes. All other budget cuts remain.

2. What has caused the problem?

a. In the past five years, the number of students at Foothill and De Anza Colleges has increased by 67 percent.

b. During that same period income for operations has increased 50 percent.

c. At the same time the buying power of the dollar has gone down 20 percent in that period.

3. Why did the committee recommend that "all avenues for charging tuition and fees be explored to the fullest?"

a. Since the California Community Colleges are the only non-tuition colleges left in the nation, it is obviously a source of income yet to be utilized.

b. However, the committee recommended tuition as a last resort solution to maintain the present college services.

c. Tuition may only be charged now to students over 21 years of age who are taking fewer than 10 units, or to people enrolled in adult classes. Since March 4, the over-21 requirement became "over 18," however.

d. The law does not permit charging tuition for full-time (more than 10 units) students. Only the State Legislature could change this, and currently there seems to be little interest in Sacramento in this kind of legislation.

4. What did the committee mean when they recommended a "priority of registration system?"

a. The committee was concerned that the rapid growth of Foothill and De Anza might cause the colleges to run out of space. It was their hope that some system might be developed to protect local residents from an anticipated increase in out-of-state or out-of-district enrollment. New laws now make it possible for anyone over 18 to establish residence anywhere.

b. The law does not permit denying admission to any resident however recently that residence was established. A priority to register, however, would be possible in terms of who gets first choice for class sections. Some consideration of these procedures by the District Council is currently being attempted.

5. It is apparent that the most significant recommendation from the committee is that the Board of Trustees request at the June 6 general election authorization from the voters to increase the operating tax by 10 cents per $100 assessed valuation for a period of four years. This recommendation grew out of the following considerations:

a. Such a tax would raise the tax on the property valued at $40,000 by about $7 a year. A home valued at $30,000 would have a tax increase of about $5 per year; and for property valued at $20,000, an increase of $3.50 per year.

b. The tax limit for community college operation is 35 cents per $100 assessed valuation. This limit was established in 1937 and certainly does not meet today's needs.

c. The total tax levy for Foothill and De Anza this year is 82 cents per $100 assessed valuation since other special taxes can be levied to pay for buildings, operate Flint Center, etc. Nothing over the 35 cent limit can be used for regular operation of the colleges, however. These special taxes will go down by over 3 cents next year, so the 10 cent increase requested will really only be about a 7 cent net increase.

d. The committee believed that the community should be given a chance to choose between paying more in taxes or a cut in the level and quality of educational services of the colleges. The election on June 6 will give them that choice.

Photos to be shown

By LIISA CHAPUT

In the Stanford Museum, there is an exposition of photographs of Ansel Adams. His portfolios, number one through five, are shown. The exposition will continue until April 30 during weekdays from 10-5 and weekends from 1-5. The photographs shown have mostly been taken between 1930-50.

This famous photographer, born in San Francisco in 1902, is particularly specialized in nature and landscapes. In 1916, he took his first photographs of Yosemite Valley. In 1927, he published his first portfolio of photographs. He is also a musician who has taught piano and given concerts, while continuing photography.

He has published "Making a Photograph" (1935) and "Sierra Nevada: John Muir Trail" (1937).

In 1940, Adams assisted Beaumont Newhall in establishing the Department of Photography at the Museum of Modern Art. In the same year he had also been appointed as photomuralist to US Department of Interior.

In 1946, he started the photography department at the California School of Fine Arts. He had received a Guggenheim Fellowship to photograph National Parks and Monuments in America and Hawaii.

In addition to his portfolios, he has published "My Camera in Yosemite Valley" (1949), "My Camera in the National Parks" (1950), "This is the American Earth," with Nancy Newhall (1960), and "These We Inherit" (1962). He now serves as consultant to the Polaroid Corporation, and in the summer, he teaches at Yosemite.

Union states position on override

By JOHN LOVAS
President, Foothill

Federation of Teachers

The Foothill Federation of Teachers, Local 1676, AFT (AFL-CIO), wishes to make known its position regarding the recommendations of the Augmented Board, presented to the Foothill Community College District Board of Trustees on February 16.

In the first place, the FFT has strong reservations about the prospect of success for such an election for the following reasons:

(a) the inadequacy of past District efforts to communicate the nature of the financial crisis to the community at large, particularly the fact of steady erosion of quality education over the past three years.

(b) the inadequacy of past District efforts to make the community conscious of the considerable scope and diversity of college programs which respond to the needs of almost every segment of the adults of this District.

(c) the regressive nature of the property tax, a form of financing which almost all agree is the wrong way to provide basic financing for education.

However, the FFT has always supported this District's goal of providing outstanding educational opportunity for all students from 18 to 88, male and female, white, brown, and black, rich and poor. It is clear to us that the present financial condition of this District coupled with the past pattern of budget priorities make it impossible to achieve that goal. As professionals committed to high standards of teacher effectiveness in helping students to learn and to develop personally, we must make every effort to secure the necessary funding to maintain those standards.

Our effort will consist of the following actions:

(1) The development of legislative proposals, in cooperation with the Community College Council of the California Federation of Teachers, for adequate state funding of the community colleges which minimizes the reliance on the property tax, whether local or statewide. Through the California Federation of Teachers, the support of the California Labor Federation will be sought for such legislation. Representatives of our local will testify in Sacramento on behalf of such proposals.

(2) The presentation of proposals which will make the student and the classroom the very first budget priority in this district. These proposals will be carried to the CEC by our representative for negotiation.

(3) The endorsement of the proposed tax override as an interim, short-term amelioration of our financial crisis. On the basis that all revenues from a successful tax election will be used for instruction to prevent further deterioration of educational quality and hopefully to make some effort toward regaining past standards of quality, we will seek endorsement of the override by the Santa Clara County Central Labor Council, the representative body of organized labor in this county.

In taking the above actions, we are acting in accord with the highest traditions of the teaching profession — to identify error where we find it and to seek remedy as we see it.

Adopted unanimously, March 7, 1972.

Foothill student arrested during Packard speech

Foothill student Greg Edelson was arrested during a demonstration against David Packard Feb. 29 in front of Rickey's Hyatt House in Palo Alto.

"I was taking pictures of the demonstration with a friend of mine, Rick Moody," said Edelson. "We were not participating in the protest; we were just shooting pictures.

"At about 8 p.m.," Edelson continued, "I was talking to another friend of mine when I saw a scuffle between a middle-aged man and a 16-year-old boy.

"I heard the kid's camera crash against a wall, so I grabbed the man from behind to break up the fight. I was then thrown to the ground by three plain-clothes policemen. They threw me into a room, hand-cuffed me, and arrested me on assault and battery. The 16-year-old kid was also arrested," Edelson said.

"I was put in the back of a riot bus and was caged in the bus until the sheriff came and took me to North County Jail in Palo Alto.

"I was let out of jail after 14 hours 'on my own recognizance' because I am a Foothill student and have lived in the area 14 years," said Edelson.

"What I want to know is why wasn't the middle-aged man arrested?" Edelson asked.

'Invalid' to open

"The Imaginary Invalid," a French comedy set in Paris in 1673, will appear in-the-round, March 18, 19, 23, 24, 25, and 26, at 8:15 p.m. in the Foothill College Theatre.

Joseph Fenwick, director of the Roundabout Theatre play, has cast Orlando Maione in the title role of Monsieur Argan and Barbara Forbes as his wife.

Sunday, March 19 at 8 p.m., Blue Mountain will appear at In Your Ear in Palo Alto. Admission is $2. Then, March 21-23, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday, at 9 p.m., the Beans and Rebecca Williams will play. Admission will be $1.

"Compression With Halo," a collection of eight primitive paintings depicting steps to break people of the deadly cycle of wars, poverty, ignorance, crime, and insanity, is currently on display at the Oakland Museum, and will be there through March 19. There is no charge for admission.

"Jesus Christ Superstar" will be back Monday, March 27, at the Orpheum Theatre in San Francisco. The play is based on "Christ as seen through the eyes of Judas, with Christ as man, not as a god," according to the authors, Tim Rice and Andrew Lloyd Webber. After the Monday opening, the play will show Tuesdays through Thursdays at 8:30 p.m., Fridays and Saturdays at 7 and 10 p.m., and Sundays at 5 and 8 p.m.

Mail orders are being accepted at the Orpheum Theatre, Market at Hyde, San Francisco, 94102. Tickets are also on sale at Macy's and other agencies.

ecology: a wild idea

Owl nine lacks offense, defense

"We've had no hitting, no fielding, no pitching, and no thinking," explained baseball coach Al Talboy of his team's 2-10 record.

"The defense up the middle has been very poor," he continued, "and the pitchers haven't helped, because they have gotten rid of the ball so awfully slowly."

The only bright spot has been the .343 hitting of Roy Whitley, compared to the team average of .189. The poor 2-10 record has even shown on the earned run average of 4.77 per game.

The only two wins were a 7-3 victory over University of San Francisco's Frosh-Soph team in the Stanford Tourney, and a 10-4 win over Skyline in the Peninsula Junior College Baseball Tourney.

The Owls lost last week 8-3 to San Jose City, and 12-3 to San Mateo.

"The catchers don't have very good arms, and the other teams know it and run on us," bemoaned Talboy, "We have given up 31 stolen bases in 12 games, compared to the 35 we stole all of last season."

Tomorrow the Owls travel to Laney College for an 11 a.m. game, and next Tuesday host Merritt at 3 p.m. Thursday the Owls travel to Concord to face Diablo Valley in another 3 p.m. game.

Netters dump Chabot; put hold on league title

The Owl tennis team seems to have a good foothold on the league dual match title after beating top contender Chabot 8-1 last Thursday. The match was moved back to Thursday after it was originally scheduled for Friday.

Tuesday the Owls faced Laney, and next Thursday they host San Jose City. Next Friday the Owls are hosting Montana University at 10 a.m.

March 25 they host Oregon State, and the following Friday they host Oregon University. Then they tune up for the second half of the league season with Canada here Tuesday, April 4, at 2:30 p.m.; they host Santa Clara two days later, and then they travel to Merritt April 7, and West Valley April 11.

The Owls were led in their victory by Rich Andrews and Pete Hultgren, as each won their singles

Golfers win, lose, and tie

Foothill beat De Anza last week 35-19, fell to Menlo 44-10, and tied Chabot Monday 27-27.

The Owls were led by Rich Allen and Jim Knoll, as they each carded 77's against De Anza to lead the Owl victory.

The loss to Menlo was the first setback for the Owls at the hands of a junior college team this season, as they have won eight matches so far. Knoll was the top golfer for the Owls in that one, with a very poor 78.

Knoll, Allen, Don Clark, and Mike Glasson all fired 76's, but it was not enough to beat the talented Gladiators, although the Owls beat them a week earlier, the best they could get this time was a tie.

matches, and then they combined for a doubles victory. Greg Norris was also a key figure, as he continued his improvement with a 6-0, 7-5 victory over Gary LeCheminant. Hultgren beat Ron Estrada 6-2, 6-1; Andrews beat Rich Huzieff 6-1, 6-1, and then they combined to beat the same pair 6-3, 6-3.

Bike hike finances campaign

By DAVE ROBERTS

On Sunday, April 9, Santa Clara County will be the scene of a Bike For Life. Sponsored by People's Lobby, the ride will be used to finance the campaign for passage of the Clean Environment Act by buying TV time, newspaper space, and other campaign necessities.

People's Lobby is a grass roots action group which is seeking solutions to environmental problems through the initiative process, writs, lawsuits, and injunctions. All their support is volunteer, mostly relying on student help. On the Foothill campus, Spaceship Earth is busy helping support the campaign.

Briefly, here are some principal provisions of the Clean Environment Act:

- (1) Bans new off-shore drilling in coastal waters.
 - (2) Establishes restrictions on manufacture, sale, and use of the DDT family of pesticides.
 - (3) Phases lead from gasoline over a five-year period.
 - (4) Calls for a five-year moratorium on nuclear power plants to enable the dangers to be studied and solved.
 - (5) Prohibits enforcement officials from having conflicts of interest.
 - (6) Cracks down on industrial polluters and deals with auto emissions by putting teeth into existing laws.
- The act was endorsed by the Foothill Student Council.
The Bike For Life will be very similar to previous walks where persons walking got sponsors to pledge a certain amount of money for each mile the person went. The only difference is the bicycle.

Check-points will be positioned along the route, and people will have their cards validated. After the ride, people will collect their pledges and give it to People's Lobby.

Bike cards, which are necessary to have sponsors sign and to have validated at check-points, are available on campus in C-31 or in local bike shops.

Volunteers are still needed to help run checkpoints and monitor.

A meeting will be held Saturday, March 25, at the Fremont High School Science Auditorium in Sunnyvale for those who want to help (10-12 a.m.), or come to a Spaceship Earth meeting on Thursdays, 1 p.m. in room B-22.
