

Owls to forfeit four games

Foothill College was unintentionally caught with its proverbial pants down this week at the announcement that the Owl football team would have to forfeit four ball games.

A DAMPER was placed on Foothill's best season record in the three-year history of the college's participation in intercollegiate sports. Foothill's season record was 6-3 this campaign and 4-3 for Coast Conference outings.

The ruling that the college would have to forfeit games to Orange Coast College of Costa Mesa, Mt. San Antonio College of Walnut, Vallejo JC and Menlo College came at Monday night's regular meeting of the board of trustees when President Calvin C. Flint announced that Paul McCormick played in four games illegally.

McCORMACK, 1961 graduate of Del Mar High School, was a resident of the Campbell area for one year. However, he had not established residence because (a) he cannot do it on his own, being under 21, (b) his parents live in Chicago.

He could have lived here for eight years and still not have established residency as long as he is under 21 and his parents live in Chicago. McCormick's residence is then Chicago, not Cambell.

McCormick, who lives in San Jose with his brother, stated at first notification of the ruling that it "surprised me."

"I LIVED in this area for one year and thought that was okay, but I guess it wasn't."

As far as future jeopardy is concerned, McCormick said, "I'm not sure how it will affect my future eligibility."

The 19-year-old, 168-pound fullback for the Owls was noticeably nervous while talking to a Foothill Sentinel reporter, still somewhat shocked at the announcement.

"IF WE had known in advance about the player's situation, we would have asked for a waiver and probably it would have been granted," commented Dr. Flint.

By forfeiture of four games, the Owls' season record will be reduced to 2-7 for the year and 2-5 for Coast Conference play, which places them in a tie with Vallejo for sixth place.

According to John Freemuth, Coast Conference commissioner and instructor at Foothill, "As soon as this was brought to our attention by another junior college, he was removed from the squad and was held out of the last three games."

Forum scheduled

Panel to discuss problems

A two-part forum on "Problems of Metropolitan Growth" will begin tonight with a panel discussing the problem of "Air Pollution." The forum will be held in the auditorium at 8 p.m. It is free of charge and is open to the public.

BENJAMIN LINSKY, featured speaker on the "Air Pollution" panel, is the Bay Area Pollution Control Officer. He directed the Air Pollution Control Program for Detroit, Mich., from 1951-56. He was also supervising engineer in Detroit's Smoke Abatement Bureau and an instructor of industrial safety at Wayne University, Detroit.

Other panel members include John Maga, Chief of the Bureau of Air Sanitation; R. S. Cramer, Standard Oil of California; and Harold Lindsay, representing Ampex Corporation.

THE SECOND part of the forum will be held Friday, Dec. 15 at 8 p.m. The topic will be "Metropolitan Government."

Main speaker that evening will be Stanley McCaffrey, president of the San Francisco Bay Area Council. Assisting him will be Kent Pursell, Supervisor for Alameda County; Burton Brazil, mayor of Saratoga; and O. W. Campbell, manager of Dade County, Florida.

McCAFFREY JOINED the San Francisco Bay Area Council last January as its first full-time president. Before that he served as executive assistant to former Vice-President Nixon and was Nixon's general campaign manager during the 1960 presidential campaign. Prior to that McCaffrey was vice-president of the University of California.

The forum is part of the "Foothill Presents" series sponsored by the Public Events Board of the college.

Winter formal tonight at St. Francis hotel

Ernie Heckscher and his orchestra will be playing for "Frosted Fantasy," Foothill's fourth Christmas formal to be held tonight in the St. Francis Hotel, San Francisco. Heckscher can usually be seen at the Venetian Room at the Fairmont Hotel in San Francisco.

MISS DEMITRA GEORGAS, faculty advisor for the dance, said, "I hope that everyone is planning to attend the dance this year. The past dances have all been a success and I'm sure this will be also."

Miss Georgas and the Social Committee will be at the St. Francis' Colonial Room early Friday afternoon to begin decorating. The St. Francis has been the site of the last three formal dances held by Foothill's studentbody.

THE ST. FRANCIS is located on Powell and Geary Streets directly across from Union Square. Union Square garage will provide the most convenient parking facilities for those attending the dance.

The Social Code of Foothill College requires formal dress for the dance: Women, long or short cocktails or formal dresses or dinner dresses; Men, dark suits, dinner jackets (white or dark) or tuxedo.

THE SOCIAL Committee asks you to remember that this is your Christmas Formal; the possession or consumption of alcoholic beverages prior to or during any college sponsored activity, on campus or off, by any persons regardless of age is forbidden by State law and by Foothill College's regulation.

Price of admission is four dollars per couple. The dance bids will be given on the night of the dance at the hotel.

'Accusation' letter submitted to council on queen election

A move to halt "undemocratic balloting in ASFC elections" was initiated in Tuesday's executive council meeting.

A letter of accusation, declaring "cheating and unfair balloting practices" in the recent Homecoming Queen election, was submitted by Bob Anderson, Foothill student, and three others.

After consideration of the letter the council voted to recommend to the election board that in future elections that (1) A full ASFC list be present at the polls to check off the names of voters as they cast their ballots, and that (2) proxy votes not be accepted.

Anderson, in submitting the letter said, "The purpose of this letter is to initiate action to eliminate unfair balloting practices.

"We have signed statements from eyewitnesses that cheating did occur in the Homecoming Queen balloting.

Following the executive council meeting Foothill's election board met in an un-official meeting to discuss the recommendations as they pertain to the ASFC and class elections in January.

PUBLICITY POSTERS—Paul Olsen, above, is adding the finishing touches to the poster publicizing "Frosted Fantasy," the annual winter formal of Foothill. The dance is being held tonight in the Colonial Room of the St. Francis Hotel in San Francisco.

Skyline Chorale offers first major program in 'Chorale for Christmas'

Foothill's 75-voice Skyline Chorale will offer its major effort of the season Sunday at 3 in the auditorium when the group presents "Chorale for Christmas."

Under the direction of Royal Stanton, music instructor and division of music chairman, the Chorale will blend seasonal music from many lands to provide both the familiar and the unusual in this first annual presentation.

HIGHLIGHTS OF the afternoon will include the choir processional, staging of portions of the Christmas story in costume, and narration of important parts of the Christmas story in the words of ancient carols. The music will include Latin motets, traditional carols, and some carols newly arranged especially for the Chorale.

Student soloists will include sopranos Lynne McCafferty, Susan Pierner, Margo Guerrero, and Karen Sanders; and tenors Robert Beckwith and John Allan. Barry Hunt will appear as the guitar player in a Spanish carol sequence. Robert Newton, a former Foothill student now studying at Stanford will be organist for the affair.

SUNDAY WILL also mark the first public appearance of the Choral Ensemble, a 24-voice group selected from the Chorale. Staging for the concert is under the supervision of Leslie K. Abbott, drama director. Narrator will be John Marks and lighting is handled by Dave Arrow.

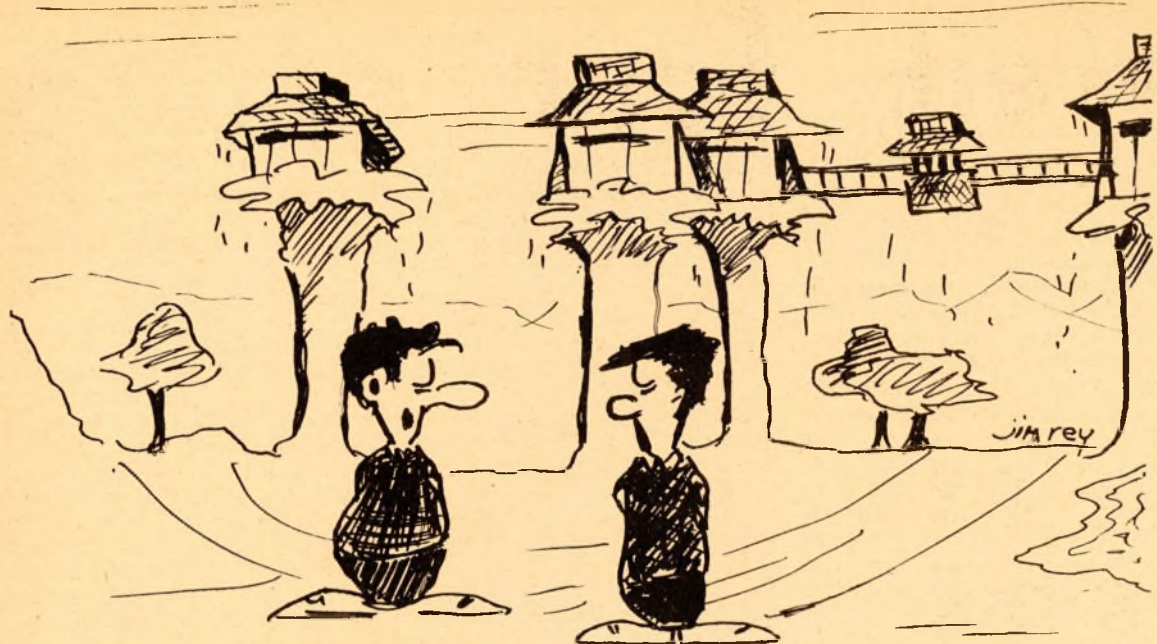

The concert is open to the public without charge.

Vets to install belts

Persons who bought seat belts through the Vets Club may have them installed next week. According to Jerry Telzerow, club president, "An installation center will be set up on the lower parking lot." At Sentinel press time, Telzerow had no further information but said, "Footprints will carry the details."

Editorials . . .

Good was his intent

Foothill's 1961 football squad will not look back upon the season as the year that they had to forfeit four Coast Conference games, neither will they hold dependable halfback Paul McCormick in contempt because his ineligibility cost the team a wasted month of practice in preparation for these games.

On the contrary. Ask an Owl player what he'll remember most about the recently ended season, and the answer you'll receive will more than likely be the upset win over Hartnell.

McCormick's fatal part in this distressing turn of events came in a role most inept for the Foothill athlete. His contribution to this year's team was immense. He scored the only touchdown, catching a pass and artfully racing to score in a 76-yard pass play against Menlo. Foothill won, 9-7.

In addition his running figured prominently in other victories. Still, his playing in four of these games made Foothill unable to compete for championship laurels, even though at the time both he and the team were unaware of his error.

Paul's ineligibility ruling is the second this year for a Foothill athlete. Both have resulted from technical errors in their residence and not because of academic deficiencies.

Steps should be taken to assure that such unfortunate mishaps will not recur in the future.

Paul came to Foothill with a Del Mar diploma. His high school coach described him as, "The greatest high school back I've seen in my six years of coaching." He carried this reputation here with a modest, well-liked personality that all his teammates accepted. In short, Paul's a regular guy who played this year in hopes that the school would win its first football championship.

It's without asking that Paul feels disheartened about his part in the fate that has befallen the team. We feel he should be pardoned from a completely unknowing mistake and be rewarded for the sincere effort he intended to give.

U.S.A. and its flag

Too often Americans are leery of participating in acts which demonstrate love of country and frown on such things as saluting the flag as nationalistic, militaristic tendencies which promote ethnocentrism.

They argue this defeats the principles that this country was founded on—among them tolerance, and open mindedness. Last week students began reciting the Pledge of Allegiance.

Frankly the administration feared the oath would be passed off as a "necessary evil." But in meeting with a group of student leaders, President Flint found not only did the students accept the practice, but they insisted the Pledge be given in a manner that would instill respect for the Flag and loyalty to the United States.

The reaction of the faculty association was just as heartening. These attitudes were not born out of super patriotism, whatever that is. But these groups, reacting in such a manner were insisting on more than respect toward the Flag. They were insisting that tolerance and open minds not be "necessary evils."

Neither liberals or conservatives can argue with this. We would ask them, "What's wrong with being 100 per cent American?" People who are really 100 per cent respect the views of others, love their country, have open minds and are tolerant.

LETTERS TO EDITOR

The Foothill Sentinel welcomes all letters to the editor. Letters may be written on any subject of general interest as long as the rules of good taste and libel are observed. All letters must be signed with the written signature of the author. Shorter letters will be given preference. The author's name must run with the letter.

Editor:
Several weeks ago, I wrote a letter to you on the problem of parking at Foothill College. Instead of getting better, the situation has gone from bad to worse.

AS I said in my former letter . . .

"Plants have been planted along the street side of parking lot 'B' leaving only two hazardous and confusing entrances . . ." Well, after the rain of last week, gosh! These two entrances are simply two watering holes for the deer that frequent this area.

The problem is getting so bad, and the water is getting so deep, that the drivers of small foreign autos should carry aqua-lungs in their cars as standard equipment.

If something isn't done about this and soon, one of the faculty or student body may fall into this quagmire and totally disappear from the Foothill scene.

WHAT WILL probably happen is that they will fill up the divots at the entrances time and time again for the rest of this college's existence.

Now fellows, I ain't a hater of plants, but my suggestion is to dig the damn things up and plant them where they will be appreciated.

Repeal of Prop. One

Editor:
Is there a chance of Proposition One ever being repealed?

It seems that many students are complaining about the passing of Proposition One. Many students go so far as to say that the ballot box was stuffed to get the proposition passed.

THE GENERAL complaint against the proposition is that it doesn't give a fair representation of clubs in AOC. The limited number of people now representing a large number of clubs does not lend the proper amount of influence deserved by each individual club in AOC.

Also, how can a representative from a certain club, who is responsible for representing five other clubs, give proper attention to the duties he must carry out for each club?

IT COULD be that people just weren't properly informed about what exactly Proposition One was when they went to the polls to vote for homecoming queen. Perhaps they just thought it might be nice to put a mark next to Proposition One on the ballot in order to make the ballot sheet look balanced.

In any case, the people voting for the proposition, without knowing what it was about, who are now complaining about its passing, should make sure they know what they're voting for the next time they go to the polls to vote.

Thomas cries out for world law

By YVONNE BRADY

"I'm not here to give you a lot of easy answers, there are no easy answers . . . you can't solve the problems of today caught in a mesh of words and cliches," said Norman Thomas in last Friday's two lectures.

According to Thomas, the time has come when the peoples of the world must disregard nationalistic tendencies. "Absolute national sovereignty is demanded, yet the economy of the world is interdependent. 'Men are brothers' is not an ethical phrase today but an economic one. Because of the way we live you have to face life and its problems."

"When I was in college, the first of the twentieth century, were the so-called 'good years.' People looked forward to inevitable progress with great hope. There was no fear of serious or disastrous war."

However, he said, the manifold changes in population, industrial techniques, nationalistic tendencies, and the 'revolution in rising expectations' have necessitated interdependence which must be fought for with radicalism; a new, fresh, and different approach.

One of the most serious blocks to world brotherhood is the rise of fear concerning a total thermo-nuclear war, ac-ording to Thomas.

He said that men have always both cherished and hated war. Societies cherish it as a necessary evil, necessary for their economic advancement."

"Now, all of a sudden, the achievements of our scientists have made large-scale war unthinkable," he said.

Thomas then confronted the college-age members of his audience with this challenge: "You have got to find an alternative to war . . . if you are to live to my age in any sort of pleasant condition. You have to accept this fact."

He continued by saying that the institutions of today are based on the old rural society and that students must adapt these forms to today's needs.

"You never get anywhere by saying 'I am a conservative and I'm going to stand on state's rights. I'll take money for roads but never for schools,'" he said.

"Don't think you can return to the 'Utopia' of McKinley and Coolidge . . . I'm telling you Republicans and some Democrats that it's out, it's gone."

"It is fantastic," Thomas declared, "to say in a world as great as this that you have to keep prosperity by making the means for death. This is not true."

"The optimists," he continued, "think in the event of a nuclear war, we'll be able to come out of our bomb shelters and face democracy; liberty cannot survive under chaotic conditions. These same people debate the question of 'I'd rather be Red than dead' for hours. Well, let me tell you people, you're likely to be both."

"But," he continued, "there is a hope for peace in the four-point program that will enable us to approach the matter in a manner likely to succeed."

Thomas' "Pre-requisites for Peace" are as follows:

1. Acceptance of universal disarmament with checking systems to be worked out as necessity demands and the military brought down to a policing level.
 2. A strengthening of the U.N., in particular the World Court.
 3. Fight an effective battle against the war against poverty and the population explosion.
 4. Bring about an orderly disengagement.
- "If we can't talk," he concluded, "sooner or later we're going to fight. I have now a hope that somehow we'll blunder through and avoid war."

AOC beat: Christian Fellowship Club will play Santa Claus for needy's bright Yule

By EILEEN LA FONTAINE

The Santa Claus Exchange, sponsored by the Christian Fellowship club on the Foothill Campus is under way now with boxes placed in key spots around the campus. This is really a terrific way to help others out at Christmas, that is, to help make their Christmas brighter; so contribute all you can in the way of food, clothing and toys. The boxes will remain until December 15.

THE NEWMAN CLUB is having an ice skating party at Sutro's in San Francisco next Saturday night. Cost to all members is 85 cents, plus skate rental. Could be a real good evening of ice skating for the ones that can skate or an evening of ice sitting.

THE BUSINESS club of Foothill seems to be off to a good start. They have a series of talks by business representatives planned for some of their meetings.

Hank Needham of Irving Lundborg and Company started off the series with a talk of stock investments. Talks will be on human relations in business, employment opportunities, and different phases of business.

ABOUT 20 students are in the club now, and anyone interested in business is invited to join.

The service project of the club is to volunteer clerical help to one of the local hospitals.

The first slate of Business Club officers includes: Diane Copeland, president; Sharon Hollingsworth, vice president; Ingrid Todsén, secretary; Randall Graham, treasurer; and Cathy Imbornone, commissioner of activities.

Trustees expected to nix school zones

Foothill trustees were expected to go on record as opposing the inclusion of the Santa Clara, Campbell and Los Gatos high school districts in this district according to sources in the administration.

THE BOARD met Monday to discuss the question but because of press deadlines, the Sentinel was unable to learn their decision in time.

However, administrative news sources indicated last week the board of trustees would oppose the inclusion of the districts possibly with the exception of the Saratoga-Los Gatos area.

The county committee for School District Reorganization wrote the board asking if they would be "interested" in the combination of the high school districts into the Foothill Junior College district. The board of trustees of San Jose City College were also contacted.

THE REQUEST to this district and SJCC is one of the combinations being weighed in conjunction with a study of the mid-county junior college system.

Because Foothill would probably be opposed, the solution may be formation of a new junior college district including the three West Valley high schools and San Jose City College.

Wanted: 36 ushers for cultural events

A total of 36 students are needed to form a corps of ushers for future cultural events at Foothill. The positions are open to male and female students who are reliable, personable, pleasant and well groomed.

Those interested may contact Miss Patricia Edgerton, English instructor, Room L-55-B, for application forms.

Monterey battles College of the Sequoias at 8:30 p.m.

THE OWLS, hitting 40 percent from the floor and a smart 65 percent from the charity line grabbed a 36-30 halftime lead and held onto it to register a 64-58 win over American River J.C. of Sacramento in the championship game of the Foothill Dedication Basketball Tournament Saturday night in the college pavillion.

Foothill grabbed the lead in the first two minutes of play, before the Beavers took over 20-19 with 7:14 to go in the first half.

With forward Chip Pratt hitting on layups and jump shots from near the key, the Owls left the court at the intermission with a 36-30 command.

DESPITE SOME fine work on the part of forward Bob Oliver and center Robert Lewis the Beavers failed to recapture the lead.

Lewis and Oliver paced the losers with 18 and 14 points, respectively.

Pratt topped the scoring list for the Owls with 11 markers, while Ken Schramm followed with 10. Tony Perusa and Sam Bradley notched nine digits each.

Foothill sophomores John Escobar and Mike Lowry were named to the 1961 All-Coast Conference team as released by John Freemuth's office, conference commissioner of athletics, yesterday afternoon.

Lowry is a repeat from last year's all-star team, while Escobar was the Owls' season captain. Loop champs Monterey and Hartnell each placed five men on the "dream" offensive and defensive teams, the squads boasting size and speed.

FC cross country team breaks mark

By KEN BISHOP

Forced to run on its new "all-weather" track Saturday, Foothill's cross-country squad broke the national junior college five-man three-mile relay mark.

The Owls, slated to run against Stanford University and San Jose State varsity teams, made the last minute move to the Foothill track after week-long rains had soaked Angell Field at Stanford.

RUNNING WITHOUT the competition of the Stanford and San Jose squads, Foothill managed a 78:30.6 clocking to break Bakersfield JC's nationally accepted time of 78:48 set in 1959.

The mark, which rates second on the JC list this season and fourth on the all-time Track and Field News rankings, fell short of Santa Ana JJC's pending effort of 77:48.7 set earlier this season.

Pacing Foothill Saturday was

Al Chapman of Huntington Park, N.Y. Chapman stepped off a good 15:00.5 clocking for the three-mile race, setting a school record for a flat course effort in the event.

BEHIND CHAPMAN were Bert Stringer, who clocked 15:13.7, Jack Parsons, who ran 15:37.1, Ernie Long (16:19.5) and Leonard Anderson (16:19.8).

Foothill gets a second chance to eclipse Santa Ana's "best" tomorrow afternoon at Angell Field in the first of a series of weekly All-Comers meets at 1:30 p.m.

Owls to forfeit

This is the second resident ineligibility matter to affect Foothill this year. The first being the ineligibility of track and field and cross country star Charles Oakley.

San Jose City College had to give up its Coast Conference basketball championship and second place in the state tournament last year when Bob Emheiser was discovered as ineligible after an out-of-area JC blew the whistle. Emheiser was actually a resident of Idaho.
