

Share gives chance to become involved

De Anza students who want to get involved with helping others can do so in two hours a week by becoming a tutor with Operation Share.

Share is a tutorial program in Santa Clara County which began at De Anza College last year. William Mulford, who has taken a year's leave of absence from his teaching position to direct Operation Share at De Anza, said the program was very successful during its first year at the College, attracting 120 students.

MULFORD CONSIDERS these students to be Share's best salesmen. He remarked that they helped children who were in definite need of a one-to-one relationship and may have helped themselves in understanding people.

He said the average child helped by Share, if an average can be found, is bothered by academic or emotional problems. He feels that the public school system is not geared to handle these problems and neither is the child's home.

He said the children are usually two or more years behind in reading, which causes them to fall behind in other subjects. In addition, Mulford feels that the children usually have a low-esteem and are unable to associate with a group.

THE CHILDREN IN the Share program range from kindergarten through 12th grade. The job of the tutor, Mulford said, is to see how a particular child can be helped by donating a minimum of two hours a week for 16 weeks.

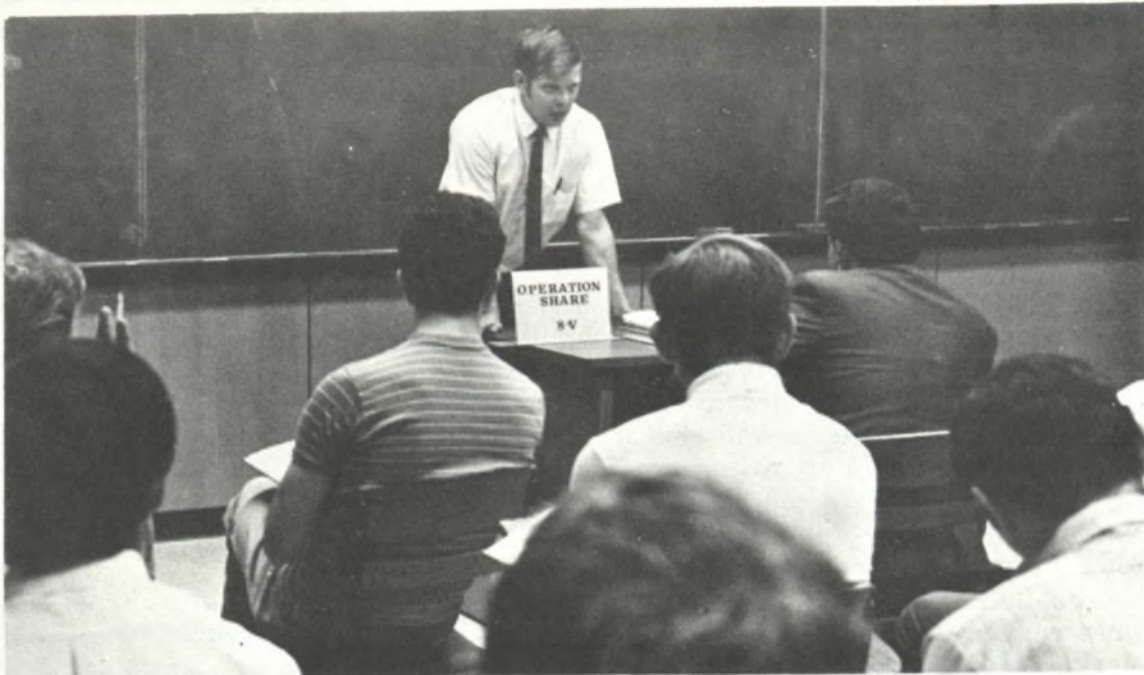

The tutor chooses his pupil by looking over a file of additional data cards. This allows the tutor to choose a pupil with whom he can identify, according to Mulford.

After the selection, the tutor goes to the child's school and meets the teacher, who tells the tutor which area the student needs help in. The tutor then visits the child's home to arrange a weekly meeting time.

MULFORD SAID the home need not be the only meeting place. The tutor can take the child to a football game, for a walk, to the beach or some other place of interest. He said the basic idea is to get through to the child and give him a sense of self-identification.

Tutors from De Anza serve only the Cupertino Union School District so the children will be conveniently located. Since there are many more children in need of help than there are tutors available, Mulford urged all interested people to contact him to sign up or get more information. The program is not limited to any one type of student.

Mulford can be found in his office, Adm. 8V, or he can be called at extension 288.

William Mulford, director of Operation Share at De Anza, explains to a group of students what Operation Share is. The program, which is in its second year at De Anza, provides tutors for students with educational problems. A minimum of two hours per week for 16 weeks is required to participate in the program.

Racism topic of Guidance panel

"Institutionalized Racism in Education" will be the topic of a special Guidance 50 presentation in Forum 1 Oct. 14 and 16 during College Hour.

The idea for this panel came about last year when the counselors presented a similar program on prejudice to freshmen. The reaction was favorable and this year counselors went to the Ethnic Studies Division for assistance. Speakers consist of faculty members and minority student representatives from De Anza, according to De Anza Counselor Rena Frabony.

Rich Rios, faculty member in the Ethnic Studies Division and multicultural coordinator, is moderator for the panel.

Although the presentation is mainly directed to the second six-week guidance sessions, Miss Frabony said everyone is invited to attend.

Trustees discuss pond

The Foothill District Trustees met last Monday night to discuss problems such as whether or not De Anza will have a "percolation pond" on campus.

Three possible places for the pond were found, including the lawn between the library and the science buildings. The final placement would be the southeast corner of the campus, where a large dirt mound now resides.

More disadvantages than advantages were found. Details and a discussion of the problem are presented in the editorial on page two.

In the past, one summer session at a time was to be held in the district. Last year, both colleges held summer classes, at a 60 per cent increase in enrollment, and the second paid for itself.

Also discussed was De Anza's evening enrollment. At this time the Evening College is filled to capacity. If future enrollment increases, off-campus classes or week-end sessions may be planned.

The parking problems at Foothill were debated. This year illegally parked cars have collected many tickets from the sheriff's department. Solutions discussed included buses, an $18 fee for parking spaces, and the possibility of a costly two-level garage. Hugh C. Jackson, a board member, proposed that a questionnaire be given to the Foothill students for ideas on the alleviation of the problem.

Dr. A. Robert DeHart, De Anza president, introduced a report on off-campus programs of the college. Among them were educational television programs, off-campus classes and workshop courses within the U.S. Also proposed were trips abroad, such as a trip to England to study Shakespeare, a trip to Mexico for Spanish classes and other projects in the Fine Arts and Language Arts Divisions.

Approval was given by the board to move ahead on these projects. Three problems were found to be looked into. The first is the amount of money this would cost the district, because there is always competition for the money to go to other projects. The other problems were the equality of the program and whether or not the classes would be as much learning as on a vacation.

Foothill College presented a student bill of rights designed to aid in student discipline. A college review board, whose membership includes faculty, students and administrators would give penalties for violations of student behavior. De Anza will present a rough draft of a similar plan at next month's meeting.

Burro finds home; reps pass budget

Topics ranging from budgets to burros marked the first meeting of the ASDAC House of Representatives last Tuesday night in the council chambers.

The house approved the 1969-70 ASDAC budget by a 13-2 vote. The budget, which is already in effect, was illegally passed last spring by a simple, rather than the necessary two-thirds majority.

PAT BROWN, who made the motion for the approval of the budget suggested the council "admit our mistake and accept and pass last year's budget." Last year, Brown added, he voted against the budget and "didn't like it one damn bit." However, he felt that since the money was already allocated and spent and contracts had been made, the council should not disappoint those who are depending on the budget as it stands.

An amendment was added to the motion approving the budget stipulating that any income from ASDAC membership above the estimated amount would be added to the contingency fund.

AFTER A LENGTHY and formal election, four new members were added to the council. The new cabinet members are Karen Austing, director of activities; David Sage, director of public relations; Dennis Arnold, election chairman, and Mark Miller, parliamentarian.

The decision on the offices of director of finance and director of mass communication were tabled until next week. There were no applicants for the jobs of social chairman, publicity chairman or intramural chairman.

The council also temporarily approved Steve Meisenbach as draft counselor. A permanent counselor will be chosen in two weeks when the council has found out if anybody else is interested in donating time to the job of making draft information available to De Anza men.

AMIDST MUCH laughter and subsequent gavel-pounding stemming from puns on the common slang term for the school mascot, the future of the Don burro was discussed.

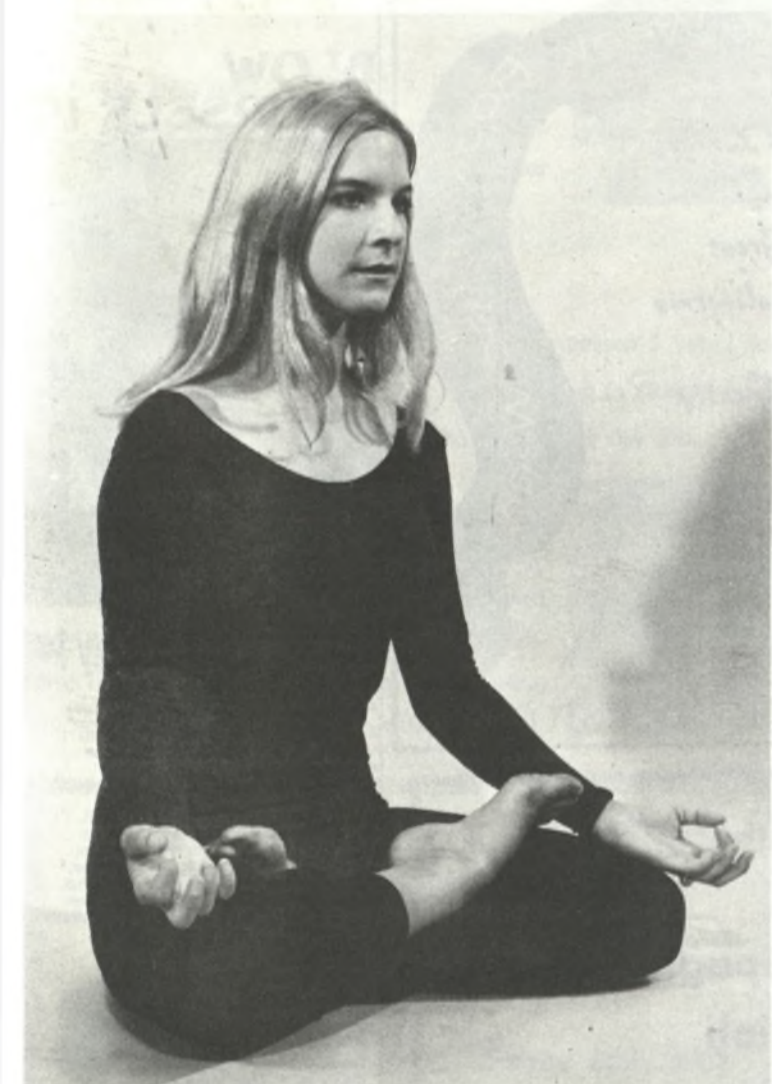

The council approved the motion for the Los Montaneros Club to look into the feasibility of buying a trailer and necessary equipment for the burro.

After hearing the report from the club next week, the council will consider letting the club take full responsibility for getting the mascot to football games and other activities in exchange for use of the animal on club pack trips.

OTHER ACTION taken by the council included the passage of a bill allowing each student council member and one guest free admission to all De Anza-sponsored activities. Council members argued that this might provide incentive for other colleges.

An investigation of "courtesy cards" will be launched this week.

"As I look around," summed up Dan Minutello, ASDAC president, "I think this is going to be one of the best years the De Anza student council has ever had. I sincerely hope so."

Claudia Tonge is shown above in the basic Lotus position of Hatha Yoga which is being presented by Community Services as part of their evening short course series. Miss Tonge does the demonstrating of the positions to the students. The class is being taught by Patrick Bresnan on Wednesday nights at 8, beginning Oct. 15 and running to Dec. 3. The class is open to anyone and the only equipment needed is a blanket or mat to sit on and some sort of loose clothing. Yoga is not a separate philosophy or cult but the means of relaxing mind and body as a single unit, according to Bresnan.

Nation plans for Peace Day; Don students caught asleep

By MARY DONAHUE
La Voz News Editor

Wednesday, Oct. 15, is International Peace Day. It is also a day for colleges and the communities to join together in protest of the Viet Nam war.

President Nixon has already decided that "Under no circumstances whatever will I be affected by it."

The Viet Nam Moratorium Committee and its thousands of supporters hope it will be a turning point in the United States' philosophies on Viet Nam and other future involvements.

Foothill College will cancel two hours of classes for a convocation and has appropriated money for a speaker. Supporters of the cause will wear white arm-bands during the day.

Senator George McGovern will speak at Stanford. San Francisco State is planning to turn the day over to discussions of Viet Nam.

The movement has also spread to the communities. Housewives and businessmen across the nation have joined students to hand out leaflets and to attend evening rallies.

These are some of many plans throughout the country, as reported by Associated Press. Yet, as of mid-week, De Anza students had formulated none of their own.

We thought you might want to know something of it when your friends on other campuses and the press tell you about what happened on Oct. 15, 1969.

Three clergymen featured in debut of Lecture Series

"The Relevance of Organized Religion" will be the topic of speeches presented by three clergymen when the De Anza Lecture Series makes its debut Oct. 14. A discussion session on the speeches will be held Oct. 21.

The three speakers are from the Palo Alto area and represent different sects. The Rev. Joe Hardegree, a Protestant, comes from Stanford University. He spent four years at the University of Denver and is now a member of the United Campus Ministry.

THE REV. JOHN Duryea, a Roman Catholic priest, is the Stanford University chaplain and priest of St. Anne's Church on the Stanford campus. Father Duryea was the chaplain at San Jose State College for 11 years.

The Rev. F. Dan Lion, minister of the Unitarian Church in Palo Alto, has been actively involved with the Palo Alto Human Relations and Low Rent Housing Boards.

The lectures are sponsored by the De Anza Public Events Board and organized by the board's lecture committee. De Anza instructors James Edwards and Helen Yuill and Reed Sparks, ASDAC representative-at-large, make up the committee.

EDWARDS SAID past speakers have not been overwhelmingly received because they did not speak on subjects of vital interest to the students. The new series, he hopes, will cover the controversial issues of today rather than yesterday's old news. He added that there are still openings in the schedule, and ideas for speakers should be given to him or Mrs. Yuill.

Edwards and Mrs. Yuill agreed that the success of the lectures depends on students, since the program will consist mainly of discussion between the speakers and students.

Edwards said he hoped the week between the lectures and the discussions would be used by students to talk about the lectures and think of questions to ask during the discussions.

Time running short to transfer to SJS

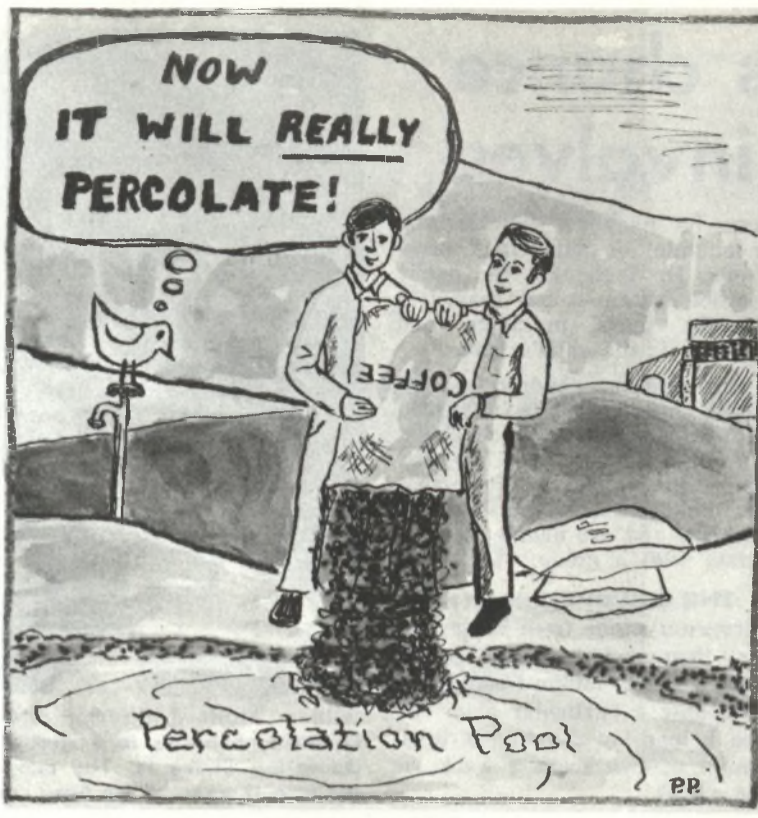

Students who plan to transfer from De Anza to a four-year college may find that an early application will improve their chances of enrollment, according to Dean of Students Dr. Thomas Clements.

Dr. Clements said the time allotted for turning in applications is extremely short. He noted that San Jose State began accepting applications for the spring semester of 1970 on Oct. 1 and closed admissions the same day. He added that 1100 students were turned away because their applications were postmarked Oct. 2.

Applications for the fall '70 semester will be accepted beginning Jan. 1. De Anza counselor Carol Howard expects a large turnout on that day.

Dr. Clements said the state colleges are giving priority to junior college transfer students rather than new freshmen because of the large demand.

He said 68 per cent of all transfer students from De Anza enroll in San Jose State, which

Election shows sparse turnout

Due to the lack of interest shown by students and the lack of initiative shown by two De Anza academic divisions, a third election, following the second one which elected six representatives, will be held next week, according to ASDAC President Dan Minutello.

Even though it was the lack of interest shown by the Biological and Health Sciences Division and the Engineering and Technical Division that necessitated the third election, Minutello said he was still disappointed by the sparse 224 voters who turned out on election day.

He expressed satisfaction with the results of the election, however, by stating, "I'm gratified by the results and only hope the people who won will put in many hours of hard work and effort."

THOSE ELECTED TO the representative offices constituted a cross-section of political and social interests, according to Minutello.

Robert Sapp, former president of De Anza Students for Action, was elected representative at large.

Adam Escoto captured the Ethnic Studies Division representative laurels, while Richard Connors was chosen by the voters to be the new Fine Arts Division representative.

DAC pond idea all wet

A water conservation district proposal to build a percolation pond on the De Anza campus was one of the more novel ideas discussed by the Foothill Junior College District Board of Trustees last Monday.

The pond, which would occupy one and one-half acres, would have the advantage of saving the district about $4,000 on the cost of irrigating the College's athletic fields.

HOWEVER, THE LAND is worth approximately $40,000 per acre, and with the increased enrollment at De Anza, land will soon become scarce. An acre and a half would provide space for three buildings the size of the L-40 building with appropriate landscaping.

The Water Conservation District wants the pond on the campus because De Anza has good soil characteristics for percolation of the water to an underground reservoir. In addition, De Anza is located in a good position to be a link in a chain of such ponds which is nearly completed.

However, percolation ponds are not noted for their beauty. The pond would also require a four-foot fence around it to keep children out. To keep such an unsightly object from ruining the appearance of the campus, a hedge would have to be planted around the fence.

WHEN ALL THIS construction was completed, the pond would have to be cleaned twice a year, which requires draining.

The pond would be of little use to the College, even though it would provide irrigation for the fields.

What the matter boils down to is the convenience of the Water Conservation District placed against the convenience of the Foothill Junior College District. Since FJCD has little to gain and much to lose by allowing a percolation pond to be installed, La Voz urges the trustees to reject the proposal.

ICC discusses workshop

This year's jump of admission charge to football games from one to two dollars was the major topic of discussion at this week's Inter-Club Council meeting.

Barry Allbright of the Vets Club proposed that the admission charge be dropped to $1.25 or $1.50. ICC voted to take this matter to the House of Representatives.

ICC CHAIRMAN John Logan noted that married students may take their student activities card to Sherry Boyce, student accounts clerk, and have it stamped "spouse" for $1. This will allow the husband or wife free admission to each game.

Concession bids by a club are needed for the Oct. 17 and 31 games. The dance to be held Oct. 31 is also still in need of a sponsor. Petitions, which may be picked up by clubs in the Student Activities Office, are considered by ICC one week before games or two weeks before dances.

Barry Allbright was elected vice-chairman at the meeting, and Jennifer Day was appointed secretary.

THE ICC WORKSHOP, which will run from Nov. 17 to Nov. 21, was also discussed. The purpose of the workshop is to raise money for a charitable cause, the exact recipient of the funds to be chosen at a later date. The clubs were asked to submit ideas at the next ICC meeting.

The workshop will include fund-raising activities by each club. The clubs must submit their plans for their fund-raising activity no later than Nov. 3.

Fiesta Week, De Anza's homecoming week, will precede the ICC workshop by one week. The House of Representatives will appoint a director for Fiesta Week. Clubs will be allowed to utilize this week to raise money for their own purposes.

The West Freeze, a rock group which has had several records on the market, will be entertaining at the Vets Club dance Friday at 9 p.m. Allbright urged everyone to spread the word to their clubs about the dance.

Responsibility, interest: These traits help get votes

Question: What made you decide to vote for the candidates you voted for? (asked at the polls of last week's ASDAC election.)

Linda Olson: I had already met him and I respected him. I believe what he'll do will help students.

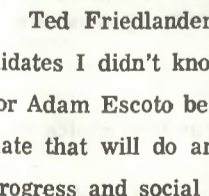

La Marylies Harris: I know one of the people I voted for and he appears to be responsible. I feel he has the spirit and enthusiasm to do the job well.

Grace Harshman: I heard a little campaign speech from him and I was impressed with what he said. I feel he is qualified for the job.

Bob Rudden: The one person I voted for I happen to know is interested in students and is a very qualified person for the job.

Ted Friedlander: For the first two candidates I didn't know either of them. I voted for Adam Escoto because he is the only candidate that will do anything as far as creating progress and social change on campus.

Don Perata chosen acting dean; Shipnuck returns to instructing

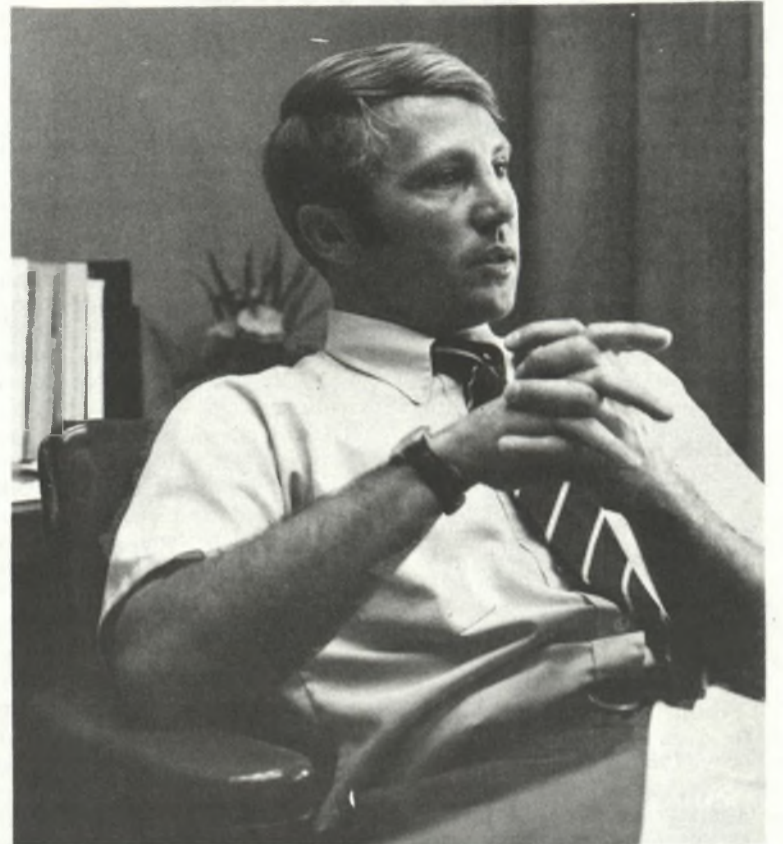

Don Perata, a former counselor, has been named acting associate dean of students at De Anza.

The position was recently vacated by Dr. Murray Shipnuck, who has returned to instructing classes.

Among Perata's official responsibilities are financial aids, the admission of foreign students, scheduling classes for Guidance 50 and coordinating counseling committees. Perata must also see to it that residency requirements of the district are met and will also arrange releases for students who wish to attend another junior college.

A graduate of San Jose State College, Perata taught at Cupertino High School and counseled at Foothill College before coming to De Anza two years ago as a counselor.

Selected by a committee of students, faculty and administrators, Perata will hold the position until next spring when the job will be open to applications.

Don Perata, acting associate dean of students, was selected for the post by a committee of students, faculty and administrators. Perata will man the spot until next spring when applications will be taken to fill the spot permanently.

Don gridders face Cabrillo

The De Anza gridders journey to Santa Cruz Friday to face Cabrillo College in the last of their non-conference games. After their 27-0 win last Friday night against Monterey Peninsula College the Dons stand 2-1 in their pre-season record.

Cabrillo's season standing is 0-2 after losing to Solano 14-21 and Reedley 13-15. Cabrillo's 2 point loss to Reedley is quite impressive considering that Reedley is rated number two in small colleges throughout the state.

ONE FACTOR influential in De Anza's win over Monterey was Coach Bob Pifferini moving defensive end Rich Cummings into the fullback position.

The American River game saw the Dons within 10 yards of the goal line three times and each time unable to push the ball across for points.

Pifferini's effort to strengthen De Anza's goal line plunges proved to be crucial to the Dons' victory as the 195-pound Cummings scored the first two touchdowns for De Anza.

IT WAS EARLY in the first quarter that Cummings scored DAC's first six points. The talented toe of Rick Fulcher made the score 7-0 as he completed the extra point.

The second quarter saw the defensive finesse of the Dons as the Lobos held the ball for the most of the quarter. Bob Busick repeatedly stopped the Lobos behind the line of scrimmage and twice in goal line situations Busick stopped the Lobos from scoring.

Dike Johnson and Carter Corey were not to be out done by Busick, however, as they both knocked down second quarter passes which would have otherwise been easy points for Monterey.

IT WAS EARLY in the third quarter that Rich Cummings scored De Anza's second touchdown and with a successful extra point the Dons led the game 14-0.

De Anza scored again in the third quarter; this time it was number 40 Gary Washington carrying the ball across the line. Rick Fulcher brought the score to 21-0 with another successful conversion.

Dike Johnson was in the limelight for the next few minutes as he broke up two Lobo passes, received two substantial passes for the Dons and then to finish up received a 45 yard pass early in the 4th quarter for the fourth Don touchdown. With the extra point being unsuccessful this brought the game to its final score of 27-0.

Don goalie Todd Healey is shown blocking a shot in the 7-2 defeat suffered at the hands of Long Beach City College last week in the Nor-Cal Open. Long Beach went on to win the consolation round.

De Anza placed sixth overall. The De Anza Aquatic Foundation, which had trouble suiting up enough players, went on to win the tourney. (La Voz photo by Lynn Houghton)

Tankers take sixth in Nor-Cal

The Dons will face arch-rival Foothill today at 3:30 in the Owls' pool, after finishing sixth in the tough Nor-Cal Open Water Polo Tournament at Foothill last weekend.

The De Anza Aquatic Foundation (no relation), who had trouble finding enough players to start their first game, went on to win the tournament.

DE ANZA, AFTER losing to the Cal "B" team 8-7, beat El Camino College 6-2. On the final day, the Dons were beaten by Long Beach City College 7-2.

Cal "B" team led the entire game, but De Anza was in contention all the way.

After a close first quarter, in which Cal led 1-0, Mike Wargo and Jeff Del-Esque each scored once to make the halftime score 3-2. Cal opened the gap in the third quarter with a 6-4 score. Dave Kirby and Steve Spencer each scored a goal for the Dons.

DE ANZA OUTSCORED the Bears in the last quarter and almost threw the game into overtime. Unfortunately, time wasn't in favor of the Dons. Bill Simpkins scored twice and Kirby added another one.

After a scoreless first quarter, Long Beach led 3-1 at the half. Spencer scored the lone goal.

After a halftime Lambert "pep talk," the Dons shut out Long Beach in the third quarter. Kirby scored once with a difficult shot to make the score 3-2 going into the last quarter. Unfortunately, Spencer fouled out and LB went on to score four goals and end up with a 7-2 score.

De Anza coach, was happiest with the Long Beach game. "We played our best ball of the year in the third and fourth quarters. Bruce Watson did a great job and will be a starter against Foothill. That boy definitely came to play." Watson is a freshman who graduated last year from Sunnyvale.

Although Lambert didn't mention it, the Dons' chances were hurt with the loss of two players. John Gerbers, the team's leading scorer, missed the tournament because of mononucleosis. Mike Wargo had to miss the final game against Long Beach because of a cracked rib. Wargo is one of the better defensive players on the team.

Tomorrow the Dons make the long trek up to the "farm" where they will face Stanford in their home pool. Being a four year school, the Indians attract strong players. If the Dons continue to improve, though, it will be a close and interesting game.

Harriers start title defense; open season against Solano

Coach Jim Linthicum's Don cross country team faces its initial test in defense of the Camino Norte Conference crown today in dual meet action with the Solano Falcons in Vallejo.

Immediately after the finish of the Solano tiff, the De Anza harriers will head for Sacramento, where they will compete in tomorrow's Sacramento State Invitational with various other JC and frosh teams.

Last Saturday the Dons made a very commendable showing at the Golden Gate Invitational in San Francisco, placing third in the overall team standings. A pair of Golden Gate Conference powerhouses, Chabot and San Francisco, edged out the Dons by 20 and 40 seconds, respectively, in the team standings, which were based on the compilation of top times rather than top places.

JOHN HANES WAS the first Don across the tape, in eighth place behind the top finisher, Chabot's Jeff Bautista. The next four Cupertino runners, Frank Matoes, Manny Mahon, Glen Gaesser and Marty Bernstein, all finished no worse than 36 seconds behind Hanes.

Linthicum commented afterward, "I was real pleased with our overall team performance up in San Francisco and look forward to the Solano meet, although we don't know too much about them." The Falcons did not compete in the Golden Gate affair and this will be the defending titlists' first look at their team.

Today's dual meet at Solano will count in the CNC team standings, which are determined solely on duals.

Individual conference representatives for the Nor-Cal JC Championships will be based on performances Nov. 7 in the Camino Norte Championships, to be held at West Valley, a course which Linthicum describes as "uninteresting."

When asked to elaborate on why the WVC course is "uninteresting", Linthicum said, "Many courses run up hills, through woods and so on, but West Valley just has a straight, four-mile set-up, which can be pretty boring for many runners."
