

A catalog and lectures are planned that pertain to "the making of art history," particularly the role of archives.

A major goal of this exhibit is to focus on archives as vital sources of information -- and on the importance of art people "saving their stuff." To get in an art history book, to be remembered, it helps to have information -- lots of it. NOW is the time to gather it and preserve it.