LOS ALTOS HILLS—Ken R. Clark, manager of Foothill College radio station KFJC-FM, has resigned to accept the post of deputy chief of mission for Radio Ethiopia.

His resignation came just days before the college trustees decided to close down the station for next year as an economy measure, college officials said.

Clark and his family will go to Addis Ababa, where he has accepted a contract to serve as an adviser to Radio Ethiopia on invitation of the U.S. State Department and the Government of Ethiopia.

He has been with Foothill since 1964, coming here from Los Angeles where he worked as a television writer-producer for the ABC network and other studios.
