One little Indian boy...

The Fifth Annual Bay Area American Indian Art Show and Sale was held Nov. 4th and 5th here on the Foothill Campus.

Over 5,500 people attended the event. About fifty arts and crafts booths were crammed into the Foothill College Gym, along with teepees and a score of dancers. Authentic Indian Dancing was performed by two groups, the Esplendor Azteca Dancers from Mexico, and the Drum and Feather Group of San Jose.

There were also demonstrations of basket-weaving, silver-smithing, beadwork, an rug-weaving.

Foothill in '58

By MARK JOHNSON

Bob Barlow and Bob Johnson were told last Monday night that they would be allowed to go ahead with their plans to construct a Foothill College F.M. radio station.

The Board of Trustees approved the proposal by unanimous decision.

The estimated cost of the station will be $4250.

The station is expected to be in operation and on the air by next semester.

"We gained many new ideas for Foothill's newspaper at the Journalism Association of Junior Colleges Conference at San Francisco State last Saturday," said Lee Fairchild, Editor-in-Chief of the Foothill News.

Early bird special

"It will be Thanksgiving dinner a day ahead," says Helen Wyatt, director of Food Services, describing the cafeteria's "Special" set for next Wednesday.

For only $2 you can receive the following meal: Roast turkey with dressing and cranberry sauce, mashed potatoes and gravy, candied yams or buttered peas, warm roll and butter, cranberry molded salad and pumpkin pie with topping.

All for only $2.

ASFC elections set Nov. 21-22

By CAROL PETERSON

New interest in the upcoming ASFC elections has been generated as many petitions were filed in the last few days before the Nov. 15 deadline. Neil MacKenzie, the incumbent president, is running unopposed as no one has challenged him for the position.

Chip Tarrice, the current Vice President of Activities is also running unopposed.

The following students have filed for these positions: V.P. of Administration has two candidates: Donell Papper, the current Sr. Senator and John Melville. The office of Sr. Senator was filed for by Zack Schmidt and Jamie Worsnop.

There are two openings for Jr. Senator; Christine Meek, David Adair and incumbent Christine Brown are the candidates for these seats.

Lizanne Verzie, Elections Director, is happy with new interest in the elections. "All offices have at least one candidate running and there are several where more than one person had filed for the position," she says. This is a much better response than the past several elections have had, according to ASFC officers.

The post of Campus Center Director also remains open. This is an appointed office, in which the student representative will work together with a faculty adviser. Responsibilities also include the Campus Bookstore and other duties assigned by ASFC Council. All those interested should contact Liz Verzie in C-31.

Student Body elections will be held on Nov. 21 and 22 between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. in the Campus Center. All registered students are eligible to vote.

Foothill hosts musicians

The Foothill Music Department will host the Foothill Invitational Jazz Festival Nov. 18, featuring 25 high school and College jazz bands and choirs from all over California.

There will be various clinics and workshops on campus where the bands and choirs will perform and be evaluated by judges.

These performances are open to the public at no charge and start at 8 a.m. and continue all day.

The festival will be concluded with an evening concert by the Foothill Fanfairs and the Foothill Jazz Ensemble. Guest soloists to be featured at the performance will be trombonist Ashley Alexander, the Director of Bands at Mt. San Antonio College, and Gary Foster, a free lance studio musician from the Los Angeles area.

The Foothill Fanfairs is one of five choirs at Foothill, and according to conductor Phil Mattson, the group is unique because of its depth of vocal offerings and its commitment to professional-level performances.

Ken Brown will be the featured soloist of the Foothill Jazz Ensemble which will wind up the concert, and Mattson says "This year's group is well balanced with seasoned players and outstanding soloists.

Tickets for the 8 p.m. concert are available for $3 generally and $1.50 for students and senior citizens.

Master Sinfonia plays Nov. 19

Pianist Deno Gianopoulos will be guest soloist for the Master Sinfonia chamber orchestra's opening concert of the season Sunday, Nov. 19, at 8 p.m. in the Foothill College Theatre.

The Master Sinfonia is the peninsula's only resident adult chamber orchestra. Based at Foothill College, the orchestra is entering its fourteenth year under the direction of founder John Mortarotti.

Gianopoulos will perform Beethoven's "Piano Concerto No. 5 in E Flat Major (The Emperor)" with the Sinfonia.

The Sinfonia also will perform the "Symphony No. 29 in A Major" by Mozart, "Suites No. 1 and No. 2 for Small Orchestra" by Stravinsky, and "Sinfonietta for Strings, Op. 52" by Rousset.

Tickets will be $2 general admission and $1 for students and senior citizens through the Foothill campus Box Office (open weekdays 10 a.m.- 4 p.m.)

The Sinfonia concert will be repeated on Monday Nov. 30 at West Valley College in Saratoga.

Plays win 'fantastic' reaction

By JODY BAXTER

"Fantastic"
"I loved it"
"I really enjoyed the plays"

These were just some of the reactions to the latest student directed theater production "3 out of 4," presented over the last two weeks at Foothill College.

The four plays in the production included "Doing a Good One for the Red Man". The cast included Charles Passantino, Linda Morrissey and John Mercer Robin Booth directed. The play was well acted and very entertaining.

"Line," by Israel Horowitz, seemed to be a big hit with the audience. Actors Vince Larkin, James Concannon, Lisa Brown, Craig Warsteane and David Korbin presented a fine comedy performance.

"The Lesson," by Eugene Ionesco, has stage-newcomers Eric Johnson and Tracey Sammel portraying a senile old professor and his not-so-brilliant student engaged in a strange and frightening tutoring session. Sometimes offbeat and slow, "The Lesson" still kept the audience involved with the story. Mary Jane York also starred.

and Karen Dingler directed.

Neil Simon's "Plaza Suite," a superb comedy of a bride-to-be and her family at New Yorks Plaza Hotel. Steve Borheinger amused the audience with a great performance as Roy. Also performing were Laura Shakelford, Barbara Mezp and Craig Warsteane.

Scholarships awarded

Three Foothill College students received scholarship awards donated by the Lt. Col. John Howard Post of the American Legion last week. The awards are presented each year to eligible veterans attending classes at Foothill.

This year the first place award of $200 went to Ralph Anthony Olivier, a second-year Foothill student pursuing a career in pharmacology. Mr. Robert Paquette, Post Chairman, presented the awards in a ceremony at the American Legion Post in Los Altos.

News Briefs

Pianist leads clinics

Donald Haas, jazz composer and resident pianist for the Circle Star Theater, will lead a series of Tuesday afternoon clinics and be guest soloist for a jazz concert this month on the Foothill College campus. The free clinics, open to all area music students and performers, are scheduled for Nov. 14, 21, and 28 in Room A-41 at Foothill. On Nov. 14 at 2 p.m., Haas will cover "Beginning Concepts in Jazz Improvisation." On Nov. 21 at 1 p.m., he will cover "Chord Substitutions and Voicings for the Jazz Keyboard Player and Arranger" and on Nov. 28, also at 1 p.m., he will discuss "The Jazz Rhythm Section." Haas also will be piano soloist with the Foothill Jazz Ensemble in concert Nov. 28 at 8 p.m. in the College Theatre. The San Jose State University Jazz Ensemble also will perform. The clinics are sponsored by the Foothill College Music Department.

Sri Lanka viewed

The First west coast exhibition on Sri Lanka (formerly known as Ceylon) is currently being held at Los Altos public library. The exhibition, which will run until Nov. 30 is an effort of Foothill student Deeptha Leelathna, a journalist from Sri Lanka, "to generate an interest about Sri Lanka."

A unique feature of this mini exhibition is the display of those aspects of Sri Lankan culture rarely presented to the outside world. The giant paper lanterns (called Vesak Lanterns) which form part of the presentation are being shown for the first time in this country. A range of Sri Lankan herbs and spices and handicrafts are also on display.

County recruits students

Ruth Morales, Foothill career counselor urges all students to "get their pre-registration schedules together early" in order to avoid the rush.

Foothill College winter registration begins today, Nov. 16. Winter class schedules will be available, beginning today, in the Administration Building.

Winter registration begins

Representatives of the Substance Abuse Prevention Program of the County Juvenile Probation Department will be on campus Tuesday, Nov. 21, to recruit students interested in becoming program interns-leading group discussions of drug and related abuse with first-time offenders and their families. According to representative Diana Lawlor, students would work in area high schools and would be involved once-a-week training sessions prior to leading groups. College credit can be earned for interning, although students must plan to work in the program at least six months. The Substance Abuse Prevention Program representatives will be available from 10 a.m. - 3 p.m. in the Campus Center.

AGS sponsors book drive

Foothill's Alpha Gamma Sigma Club is starting its quarterly Book Drive for the Soledad inmates today, Nov. 16.

Books that you no longer need, especially textbooks, are desperately needed by the Soledad inmates for their library. Books for the drive may be deposited in the receptacles located in C-31 and at the bottom of the staircase by the Owl's Nest. The drive will continue until the end of the quarter.

Nosin' around

BY DEWEY DELLINGER

The First Big Rain! Everybody get excited! This is the moment you have been waiting for, or dreading. Anybody ain't got their roof on or fixed is now possibly plum out of luck. Could be it's going to rain for a month or it might be a teaser for another drought. Oh no, we paid for that one, they wouldn't pull another drought on us just yet, we're still too prepared.

No, if all indications are correct, we are in for a nice, long, cold, wet winter, and it just arrived. Not too bad, kinda' nice for a change. Of course I wouldn't want it to rain everyday, just move up North for that. A few cold days, a few warm days, nippy at night, with maybe a few days of snow on the Foothills, that sounds like a nice winter to me.

Unfortunately my roof isn't fixed. I always wait just.. a little too long. Well, here goes another winter of waiting for the leaks to swell shut, wet socks to dry out, and forgetting about the dirzzle walking between classes.

It's not really raining; then how come I'm all wet? Hanging out in doorways waiting for a break in the sky. Slipping on the cement. Running up the stairs. Leaving the lights on in the car, and finding out too late. Dropping important papers in a puddle that you spent all night typing. Waiting for a bus. Riding a bike to school. Hitching. These are the reasons I love winter.

All for one and one for all, everybody suffers together. I'm sure it won't last, it'll probably clear up by the weekend. Yes, it's that time of year again. Time to wonder whether it's safe to trust the old weatherperson. Do you bundle up and sweat to death in the afternoon, or do you freeze to death and hang around nice warm lightbulbs? The odds seem pretty good that any able-bodied person who can stick their head out a door and look up into the sky will be right about the weather more often than not. Do they teach classes in weather here? Do we have a campus forecaster?

We can't complain about the weather too much around here, we've got it made. We don't sweat that often, and neither do we freeze. It's no wonder that everybody and his brother wants to live here, this is it! So, let's just sit back by the fire, hot cider in hand, and enjoy the hell out of this winter of ours.

Letters

Open Letter:

Because of the number of bicycle thefts on campus, the newly formed Foothill Cycling Club is advocating that bike lockers be installed. Students could store their bicycles in the lockers to thwart thieves and curtail between-class bicycle traffic.

The lockers house two bikes each, and cost $300 per unit. We are considering ways to meet the initial cost and find an ideal location. Those interested should attend the next meeting, to be held Tuesdays in S-21 from 1 - 2 p.m.

ASFC ELECTION DEBATES

On the Spot

By CAROL PETERSON and MARK JOHNSON

Question: Did you vote?
What are your reactions to the results?

John Farnworth/Bus.

"No, I didn't vote because I don't trust politicians; so I didn't vote for anyone. Politicians don't come through. I wouldn't want to vote for someone and find out later that they were crooked and pulled strings to get into office."

Debbie Bruce/French:

"Yes; I am happy with the results of Propostions 5, 6 and 7 and Govonor Brown's re-election. I like what Brown has done, he's more liberal. I can see the point of Prop. 5, but it's a matter of courtesy rather than law."

Francis Frizzel/Chemistry:

"Yes; It was about as I expected, there were no surprises on 5, 6 and 7. I'm glad that the results came as close as they did on Proposition 5. I was neither for Brown or Younger. The Peace and Freedom party never wins!"

Mercury-News coping with 'changing times'

By JACQUIE TOTH

Larry Jinks, editor of the San Jose Mercury News, spoke to 300 journalism students at Foothill Nov. 4 for the Journalism Association of Community Colleges' Nor-Cal Conference.

Comparing newspaper reporting of today with the "much simpler time" of 30 years ago, when he began his journalism career, Jinks said, "Now it's a lot more difficult to report accurately on what is going on, but it's a lot more interesting."

"We do not accept some of the things we accepted as Gospel before," he said, citing the "Watergate experience" and the movie "All the President's Men" as having a considerable effect on our thinking.

"We're trying to tell more difficult stories today" he said, adding "We're not content just report" but "to tell the truth behind" the story. Jinks said that today's newspaper readers are more critical and are "less prone to accept newspapers as part of their daily lives." "People don't feel an intense need to read the paper every day" anymore, he said, blaming T.V. and "changing lifestyles."

Jinks said the Mercury News is coping with this situation by trying to "report on what is interesting and important to our readers" and events that "tie in with the everyday living concerns of people." Changes in the Mercury News that reflect these views include greater space devoted to fashion, food and weekend events.

Jinks said that many editors are "looking carefully at their paper and their audience" trying to decide what changes should be made to attract more readers. "Any newspaper should use any legitimate, honest technique" to get more readers, he said.

"This is a time when newspapers are changing" he said, pointing out that the "New York times has changed more in the last three or four years than it has in the last 25 years."

Although he contends that there is often a vast difference between what readers are interested in and what they should be interested in, Jinks said he thinks the Mercury News has an "obligation to devote a high portion of its resources" to what readers should know about.

Jinks, who moved from Florida a year and a half ago, finds Californians to be a difficult audience to keep up with. "California is a place where a lot of changes begin. . . we are trying to not be too far behind the changes happening in this area."

He also said, "The people of California are not as prone to accept the conventional wisdom of Washington and New York."

In closing, Jinks gave advice to newspaper readers: "Read critically, but not with the sense that people are trying to mislead you. . . not one source is going to give it all to you . . . have several sources of information . . . it's impossible for anybody to report everything."

Ask a question about money. We'll give you a full report.

If you have a financial question you'd like answered, Bank of America is the place to come.

In fact, we can probably give you a full report on the subject.

That's because our Consumer Information Reports cover a wide variety of banking subjects. Including, "A Guide to Checks and Checking," "How to Establish Credit," "Ways to Finance an Education," "Rights and Responsibilities: Age 18," and more. They're free at our branches.

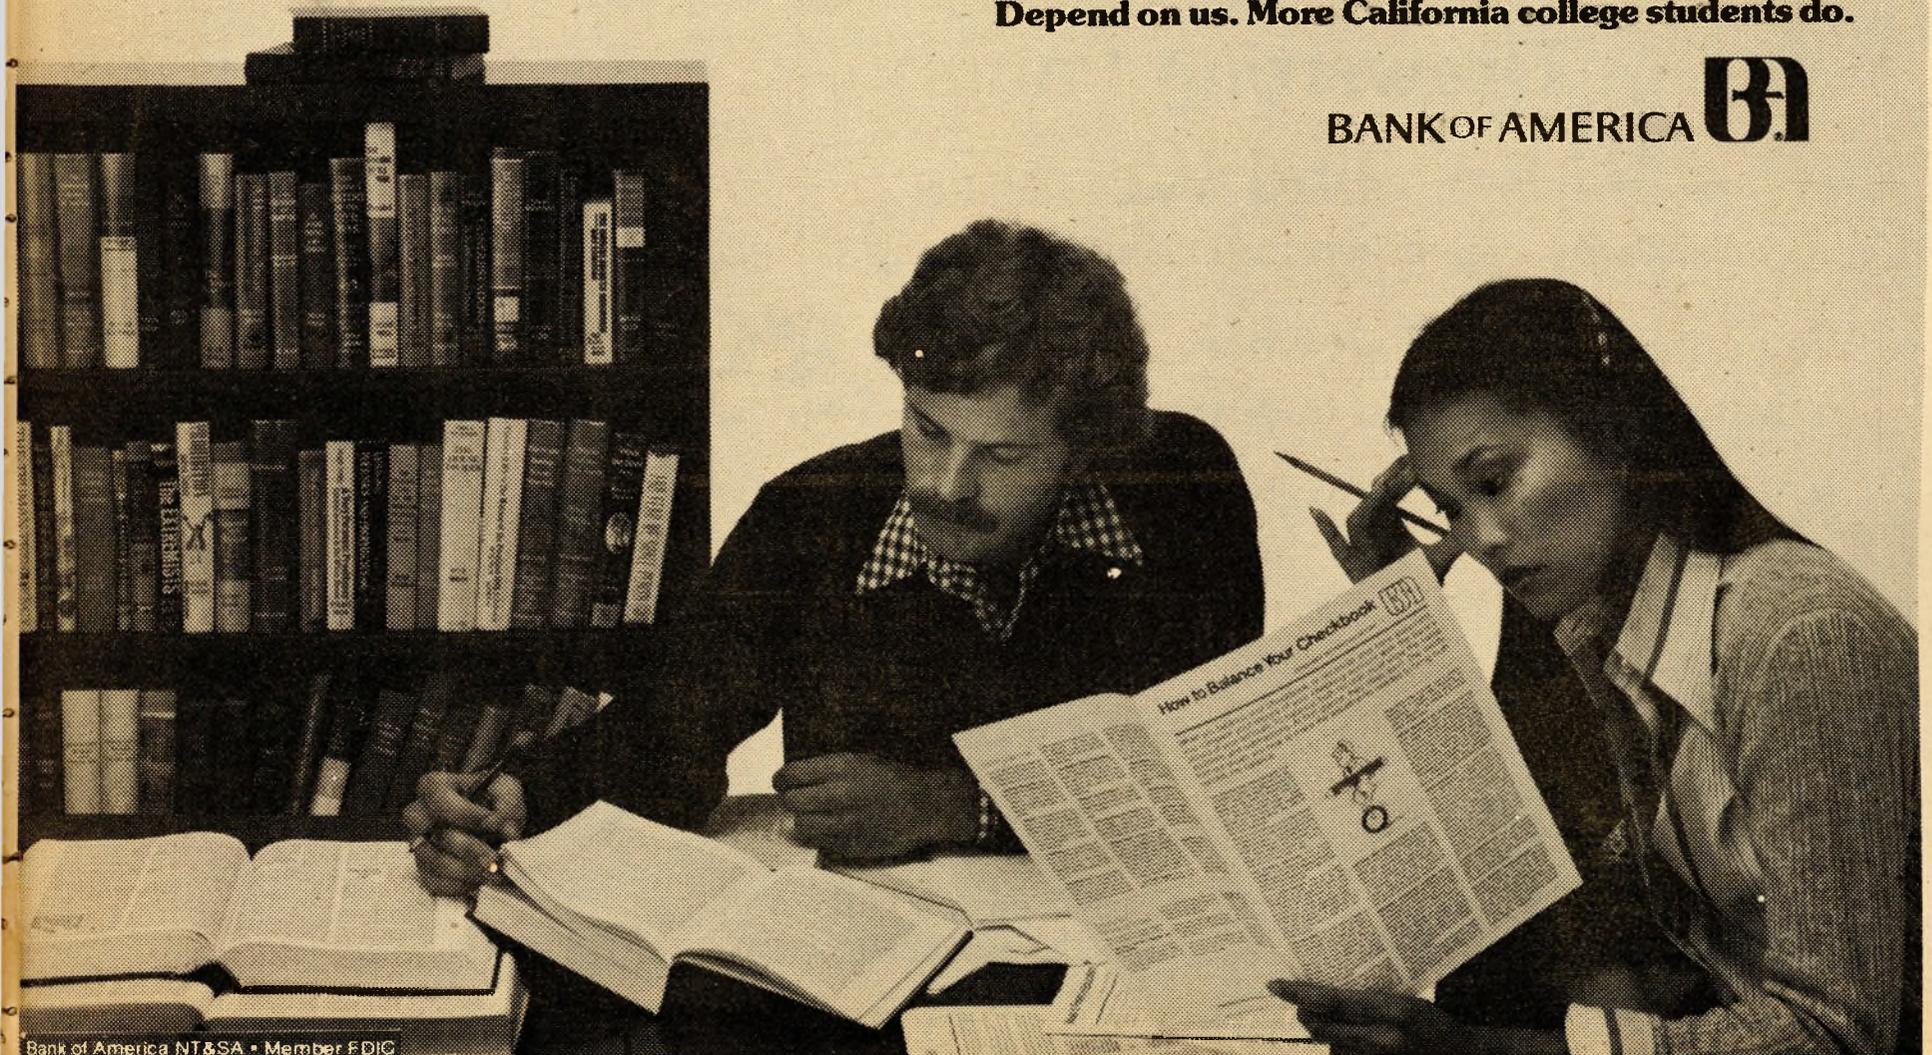

Of course, we offer a wide variety of other banking services you might find useful. Like College Plan® Checking. And if you qualify, Student BankAmericard® Visa® and Instant Cash overdraft protection.

You see, we figure the more you know about banking, the more likely you are to bank with the bank that can do you the most good.

Quite a few Californians think that's us. And we're hoping you'll come to the same conclusion.

Depend on us. More California college students do.

versial issues like UFOs and psychic phenomena, will be broadcast Mondays through Thursdays at 9 p.m.

A special "Job Line" with announcements of available jobs in the area will be broadcast Mondays at 3 p.m. on KFJC.

Artists exhibit self-images

By VICKY NUTTALL

"Self as Subject" is the new art exhibit ushering in a new month at Foothill's Hubert H. Semans Library. Scheduled to be on display through Nov. 30, it features work by Susan Osborn, Cay Lang, and Gordon Holler, three California artists who have incorporated their own images into the pieces shown.

Susan Osborn, utilizing color xerox prints and various objects such as feathers and leaves, has created vivid, abstract collage pieces dominated by cage and bar images.

Cay Lang has assembled a unique conceptual piece entitled "On the Grid" or "Art Meets Culture" in which for five days she cavorted about society wearing a grid design on her face created with commercial skin dyes to simulate the effects of the sun.

The experience has been documented and presented through daily photographs, taped reactions from the general public, and a record of her dreams during the five day period.

Comments range from "You fell on a barbeque?" to "It's an art piece? Oh, is it really? You are pulling my leg? You could be because I'm ignorant, I wouldn't know", and are punctuated frequently with stares, double takes, and outright avoidance.

Gordon Holler, a member of the Foothill Fine Arts faculty specializing in printmaking, rounds out the exhibit with excerpts from several series of screenprints. His dark, haunting, abstract images include both self-portrait and nude studies.

The public is invited to attend a reception on Tuesday, Nov. 7, 8-9 p.m. in Room 8 in the Library. Regular exhibit hours are 8 a.m. - 10 p.m. Mondays-Thursday, 8 a.m. - 4:30 p.m. Fridays, and 10 a.m. - 2 p.m. Saturdays.

SFCC record setting goal ties Owls

By MICHAEL LEMKE

San Francisco City College's Eric Hipp kicked a record setting field goal with no time left on the clock to give SFCC a 24-24 tie with Foothill on Nov. 11.

Both teams entered the contest deadlocked in fourth place in the GGC with a 4-2 record. Foothill now has a 5-3-1 record for the year.

Friday Nov. 17, Foothill concludes it's season against College of San Mateo on the Owl football field beginning at 7:30 p.m. Foothill hopes to add to it's 5 game unbeaten string.

Foothill's Kriss Bosmans had kicked a 23 yard field goal with 16 seconds remaining to Foothill in command at 24-21, a short lived lead.

"I had once kicked a 56 yard field goal. The wind was at my back and I was thinking to myself just make sure you get the ball in the air," said the elated Hipp.

Hipp had earlier kicked field goals of 42 and 22 yards for SFCC, who had controlled the game up until the final moments when a strange turn of events turned things around.

Trailing 21-13 with 7 minutes and 34 seconds left in the game, SFCC lined up to punt from it's own 16 yard line. Storming in from the right side, defensive end Mark Ortega blocked the punt and fell on the loose ball in the end zone for a quick six points, making the score 21-19 SFCC.

Owl quarterback Dan Jaqua pitched to tailback Jeff Melenudo for the two point conversion, tying the ball game.

Before the blocked punt, Foothill had punted all four times they had the ball in the second half. Gaining two plays after the Owls kicked-off to SFCC, Foothill recovered running back Walter Mack's fumble on the SFCC 31 yard line.

The Owl offense quickly came to life and converted two third downs for first downs. The Owls now had first and goal on the SFCC 7 yard line. Three downs later the Owl's had a fourth and goal from the six.

Bosmans, who earlier in the hear had kicked a 30 yard field goal with 30 seconds remaining to give Foothill a 13-12 victory over Laney, entered the game and kicked a 23 yard field goal from a tough angle to put Foothill in the lead 24-21.

Tight end Craig Diggle was the offensive stand-out for the Owls in the game, catching 5 passes for 191 yards which gives him 15 receptions and 284 yards for the year.

Dan Jaqua completed 8 of 17 passes for 225 yards, giving him 621 yards for the year on 31-67 pass completions with 5 interceptions and five touchdowns.

Melenudo is the leading Owl rusher with 448 yards on 91 carries for a 4.92 yard average per carry. Reserve fullback Felix Natiis leads the squad with a 7.69 yards per carry, picking up 254 yards on 33 carries.

Foothill defense leads the conference in defense having given up 217.6 yards a contest going into the SFCC game.

After a short kick-off to prevent SFCC from returning it for a touchdown, according to Owl's coach Jim Fairchild, SFCC completed a 20 yard pass to Foothill's 40 yard line to set the stage for Hipp's winning field goal.

Student groups sponsor dances

By MARK JOHNSON

If you feel like dancing your way into finals week, head down to Foothill College Saturday, Dec. 2, or Friday, Dec. 8 for all the action your feet can handle.

MECHA of Foothill will be sponsoring "One Disco Under a Groove", a disco and dance contest, Saturday, Dec. 2, from 9:00 p.m. to 1:00 a.m. in the Campus Center.

Tickets for One Disco Under a Groove may be obtained from any MECHA member or at the front desk in the Multi-Cultural Center for $1.75 general and $1.25 with ASFC card.

Robert Sias (or El Roberto), MECHA's public relations person and D.J. for One Disco Under a Groove, said "I want this to be the disco of all disco, with more people there than at any other previous Foothill disco."

MECHA asks that anyone interested in the dance contest come a little bit early to register. There will be a prize awarded to the winners of the contest.

Proceeds from the disco will go toward seed money for future MECHA dances, the proceeds of which will eventually go toward the big Cinco de Mayo celebration next May.

On Friday, Dec. 8, the Multi-Cultural Center, in association with ASFC, will be sponsoring the Second Annual Multi-Cultural Winter Ball.

The dance will be from 8:00 p.m. to 1:00 a.m. in the Campus Center. There will be live music by the Denny Berthiaume Trio, a jazz and disco band. There will also be a large buffet included in the ticket price. All proceeds from this dance will be put into the Student Scholarship Fund.

The Psychology class of Foothill College, under the guidance of Dr. O.B.Nereson will visit Agnew State Hospital Nov. 21, from 2 to 4 p.m.

Ticket prices for the Winter Ball are as follows:

$5.00 per person (general)
$4.00 per person
(with ASFC card)

$8.00 per couple (general)
$6.00 per couple
(with ASFC card)

"This year, to show that we're not discriminating against singles, we're letting persons of the same sex buy two tickets together for the couples price," said Laura Pick, ASFC Secretary. "We're also hoping for a bigger crowd this year. Last year it rained, and only about 150 out of the 300 people who bought tickets showed up. This year, we're hoping for a crowd of about 600 or 700 people."

For Winter Ball ticket information call 948-8590 or look for Winter Ball ticket tables that should be in front of C-31 soon.
