Foothill Student Council lacks three members

Still lacking three officers, Foothill's Student Council turns to meet the coming semester with a new line up.

Because of scholastic, personal and other reasons, Foothill college's Student Council has new officers ranging from president to commissioner of publications.

Joe Brundage, a 21 year old veteran, was appointed president after the resignation of John Allen. Brundage served as Vice-president for the fall semester. Joe is a freshman.

Serving as Vice-President is Linda Flores, who held rally chairman position last semester. An 18 year old freshman, Miss Flores is a graduate of Arlington High School in Massachusetts.

Gail Pottier will spend her first semester on the Executive Council as student body secretary. Miss Pottier graduated from Palo Alto High School where she was president of Adelpi, a social club. She is a freshman at Foothill.

Jim Johnson will serve his second semester as commissioner of activities this spring. An 18 year old freshman, Jim graduated from Fremont High School in Sunnyvale.

Commissioner of publications for the spring semester is Bob Siebenthal. Bob also serves as news editor on the foothill Sentinel. A graduate of Fremont High School, Bob spent a year at San Jose State and worked two years at Varian Associates before coming to Foothill. Bob is a sophomore.

Yet to be appointed to Student Council are commissioner of finance, athletics chairman and special events chairman.

Foothill instructors, 19 new on campus

Foothill College's faculty was enlarged by 19 this semester. Sixteen are teaching night classes, two day classes and one is teaching both night and day.

Those joining the algebra section are: Robert L. Starkey, AB, MA; Clarence O'Donnell, MA, BA; Wallace Porter; Robert Finley, MA, BA; and George Truscott, MA, BA.

Dr. George Willey, presently assistant professor and director of radio & TV at Stanford teaches radio production.

In the physics department, Robert Brown, MA, BS and James McCampbell, a research physicist at Lockheed, also joined the faculty.

Mr. Paul Doerring and M. B. Shattuck, MA, BA were added to the psychology department.

A new language for Foothill, Russian, will be taught by Eugene Eiche.

Others joining the faculty are Donald Forsythe, Accounting, Louis W. Hare, introduction to computer processes, Dauphine Paine, manufacturing methods, planning and Mrs. Margaret Bagnall, who also teaches day classes.

In electronics Ben O. Lange and Howard Murphy were added.

The two day teachers joining the faculty were Mrs. Hadassah Wise, psychology and John Hancock, elementary algebra.

New educational FM station goes on the air May 1

The Federal Communications Commission has granted a construction permit to Foothill Junior College District, which will allow the school to begin building a 10 watt educational FM station.

According to Bob Ballou, who engineered the original application, the equipment for the station will be ordered during the next few weeks. Ballou, who is station manager, hopes to have the station on the air by May 1.

The control-room and studios are located in the basement of the school, next to the student government offices.

The plan calls for acoustical treatment of one of the rooms in the studio.

This room will be used for the control-room, where the console and operating equipment will be located. The 'new campus' planning room will double as a large studio for discussion groups, plays, and choral groups. There will be a large sound proof glass window installed between the two rooms. This will enable the engineer at the console to see and direct the action in the studio.

The radio production class, instructed by Dr. George Willey, will operate the station every week night from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. The class has been working on a short radio drama, called, "The Ballad of Mike Fink." Allen Valerius, a student in the evening class, stars as Mike; Jim Fitzsimmons is the director, and Roland Mays is in charge of sound effects.

Another short production is being directed by Sandy Killian. The class has incorporated a tape recorder in practicing the plays. This allows them to hear their mistakes and correct them.

The FM station will be located at 88.5 megacycles on the FM dial. The area to be covered by the station will be the Foothill student district. With very good conditions, the station may be heard as far away as 20 miles.

Trustees to see '61 room layout

Foothill's board of trustees will determine on March 2 whether Joe Doakes, Foothill's class of '63, will have a western exposure in his afternoon English class.

The board of trustees will meet March 2 to approve the preliminary plans for the new Foothill College campus. Nestled in the Los Altos Hills of El Monte Ave., the college will represent a sum of $10,400,000 and will open classes in 1961.

Preliminary plans represent the second stage of a four stage operation. The layout of the individual rooms determines the content of the preliminary plans and, in short, is a detail from the master plan which shows the position of the buildings on the proposed 130 acre campus.

To date 80 acres of the 130 have been purchased, at a cost of $6,800, an acre. The last 50 acres will be bought as soon as some problems with a local land owner are solved.

Progress on plans for the campus buildings, designed to accommodate 3,500 students, is on schedule thus far according to William B. Cutler, Research and Administration assistant at Foothill.

The individual department buildings will have a tone of an institution of higher learning, but with a personalized program, according to Foothill's president Dr. Calvin Flint. From the practical viewpoint they will be provement easily possible. This will allow for the improvement of such things as a lab. The expansions are not, however, meant to enable increased enrollment. The 3,500 represents the permanent registration allowance.

The 3rd stage of the plans will be the location of windows, furniture, clocks and other room and lab equipment. The 4th stage is the actual development of the blue prints for the final construction procedure.

Among other problems encountered, it will be necessary to arrange road improvement with the state and county departments. There are also complications regarding the water supply and from where it will come. These, however, are minor and will work out, according to Mr. Cutler.

On site developments for the new campus will cost an estimated $120,000 more than the $755,400 budget earlier by the citizens' committee when it set up the $10.4 million bond issue.

Running adjacent to one side of the campus will be the new Junipero Serra highway. The exact pinpointing of the highway location is yet to come under final precision.

The buildings themselves will be of the low rambling type with a serious type casualness about them. One feature which will be retained is the concrete mascot, an owl, which will reside at the college entrance.

Architect Ernest Kump of Palo Alto is handling the design.

Foothill lifts face

As the sun shown low in the West, the old highway school which now houses Foothill College began to show a different color.

The Foothill building will, if good weather holds, sport a new coat of paint by April 1. The M. A. Vidall Paint Co. is now laying brushes to the old walls for the price of $4,817.

Green and St. Pat to rein at FC dance

The Foothill Social committee, headed by the new chairman Sandy Killian, has planned a St. Patrick's Day dance on Saturday, March 14th.

This is the second dance of the new semester and is to be held from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. at the Cherry Chase Lanai Club in Sunnyvale. Attire will be sporty dress with the men expected to wear suits and the ladies, cocktail dresses. The price for the affair is $2.00 a couple. Refreshments are to be served by the social committee.

Since this is a semi-formal affair, the social committee has engaged the Foothill dance band to play. The committee feels that this in itself should draw a lot of students who like to dance to some of the best music in the area.

Foothill editors attend press meet

Wouldn't you like to get a sun tan and have the college pay for the trip to get it? That's what Dennis Britton Foothill's editor-in-chief and Barbi Titsworth, city editor, will be doing on March 6 and 7.

Dennis, Barbi and Ervin Harlacher, director of public information, will be making the trip to attend the Journalism Association of Junior Colleges conference at Redlands University.

Aims of JAJC are to facilitate transfer of journalism students to universities and four-year colleges, and to improve opportunities for placement of junior college journalism graduates through affiliation with the CNPA.

The Foothill group will fly down to Los Angeles and go from there to the Arrowhead Springs Hotel at San Bernardino.

FC welcomes bloomers, standards segregate

If you suspect many of the students in the Foothill College halls are ones who were not here last semester you are right. There were many people who found the pace perhaps a little faster than expected. Are Foothill's standards really this high?

The junior colleges are beginning to play a more and more important role in the California educational system. Are they just trade schools which have very little to do with four year colleges, are they kindergartens with ashtrays or are they important assets to education of the American people.

In order to attend a four year college such as San Jose State, one must meet certain requirements. Even when going to a state college there is quite an expense involved along with a strong time investment. Because of conditions like these and others an education of this type becomes available to a rather select few. The more educational opportunities made available to a large number of people the more people are going to be able to take advantage of it.

Standards are set by the people who participate in the operation of a college. If these people are of the right type a junior college is anything but a step down from a four-year college. If anything it is an improvement. It can represent a much more flexible method of offering the same material in a more practical manner. Until a person attends a college the size of San Jose State, it is hard for him to realize the advantage of a small lecture class, or of having the chance to be under an instructor who has the time to consider you as an individual and not a number in his grade book.

If you can walk through the door you have a good chance of becoming a student at Foothill, but once you have walked through the door as a student the scenery begins to change. The horizon becomes higher and the person becomes smaller. Ask those who are here for the second semester. As long as there are people who feel they have a lot to gain by coming to a college such as ours, those others who feel it is just another way to pass the day will soon be looking for other sources of entertainment. The people who run a college, junior or otherwise, eat, sleep and live education. They are not interested in any person who finds the chance to reach that summit known as knowledge, just another offering by an already generous society.

If a person is more impressed by halls of vines than he is by the instructor that stands in front of his English class, then he might as well head for the lumber camps, for he will find more romance there than he will at Foothill, or any other college. Make room for that man who puts in 8 hours a day and never had the chance to exercise his ability to reason before, or maybe that veteran who saw the world and now wants to learn what it was all about or maybe just the high school graduate who recognizes an opportunity when he sees it. No room for the romantic collegiate catastrophe with buckle down under-wear and ivy league cap.

Students meet Gov. Brown at publishers' convention

A student press conference held with Gov. Edmund "Pat" Brown, climaxed the California Newspaper Publisher's Association Conference at the Sheraton Palace Hotel in San Francisco between semesters.

Two faculty members and six students were among those who attended the press conference. They asked the Gov. his opinions concerning narcotic peddlers, alcoholic beverages and state education.

It is the Governor's opinion that penalties for narcotic peddlers should be determined by the courts; further, that alcoholic beverages should be brought under more stringent control. Lastly he stated that the state should be in a position to handle all federal funds for education.

Ferd Mendenhall, publisher of the Van Nuys News and liaison officer for CNPA between college's newspaper publishers, was host the opening night for a student party at the hotel. This gave student members from Foothill College and other colleges a chance to get acquainted and discuss journalistic problems.

Attending the convention were: Rich Johnson, Mr. Ervin Harischee, Ray Babb, Len Walker, Dennis Britton, Bob Sie-

Editor's Comments

It is interesting to note that Foothill's honor students averaged 25 years of age, five were women, 10 were men, 12 were freshmen and five were connected to the armed services. Statistics don't lie so I hear.

Hoist the flag, roll out the barrel, wash your feet or do something. For those lucky few Feb. 28th is Bachelor's day. Hansell-Zook, inc. of Philadelphia is the thoughtful sponsor. In passing, both Mr. Hansell and Mr. Zook are married.

To those whom it might concern, Cyclops of San Jose looks like its on its way out. Featuring jazz, European coffee and Danish pastry the Cyclops was aimed at the college crowd. The only draw-back was they did not serve alcohol. Could be the college crowd would rather drink than listen to jazz or drink coffee.

Slumber on Applebaum, the class will soon to follow. An English instructor who respects the power of NO-DOZ from experience at faculty budget meetings has a standing offer to supply any student who feels the urge in class. Student instructor relations are based on mutual understanding. Long live such understanding.

The car suffered minor injuries, the hit and runner ran, and Dr. Sherman found the safest place to park a car was not the student lot. Oh well, shows you should park and ponder.

Forgotten tenses from lack of sensus equals poor scholastic standards according to J.C. Hootfill. (see foreign story below.)

Aside from the fact that some people connected with the book store don't like the students choice of mascot, I don't understand why new decals, school mugs and so forth haven't shown up. Since the mascot and the colors have been chosen it would be nice to get some of the standard college propaganda material. Any comments?

Models Scheduled For Art Classes

Models will be a new addition to the basic design and drawing classes this semester at Foothill.

Kenneth Orrett's art classes will have the use of models for the study of character portraits and figure drawing.

These models will be students paid by the college for an hours work. Anyone interested please see Kenneth Orrett.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"I UNDERSTAND TH' DEAN HAD HIM SUSPENDED FOR THE REST OF TH' TERM."

Lightning strikes students, two-thirds survive grades

by Lee Fairchild

Lightning struck Foothill College on the first day of the new semester as last semester's students came back to school to get their grades. A few minutes after 8 a.m. slight moans could be heard.

After a while the moans had increased in volume until they could be heard throughout Santa Clara County. As in a lot of newspapers, the headlines in the Palo Alto Times read "140 students fail or given probation."

Still later students were sitting around drinking coffee and waiting for their petitions to the Academic Council to be answered. When the answers were out only one person had been able to re-enter Foothill.

No one had expected such complete disaster when the grades were out except, perhaps, the faculty. We can see now that the faculty wasn't just trying to scare us when they warned us at cinch notice time.

Miss Joan Seavey, counselor, said she feels that the large percentage of students dropping out was to be expected, as most of the students were freshmen and had no sophomore help to become adjusted to the college.

Students that received the good grades are feeling pretty good, for 15 people on the honor roll and the 66 2/3 per cent that wasn't on probation showed that at least some of the students could conform to the standards of Foothill College.

Alba Osorio, the youngest student at Foothill said that she feels that the college is a little rough but she likes the grading system. (Alba didn't go on probation).

Dennis Britton, editor of the Sentinel, said he felt that "the only students that are griping about grades are the ones that are on probation or kicked out." This feeling might be accurate because there's a lot of griping going on.

"Foothill's high standards make it possible for a better college," said Miss Helen Windham, P.E. instructor.

In a short poll with students and faculty members 72 per cent of the people felt that the Foothill academic policy was just about right for the college.

The main complaint of the students wasn't about being put on probation but about the cut situation this semester.

The college has said that there will not be any cuts this semester. And if the student has no valid excuse he may be dropped from the class he cut.

"Foothill isn't trying to be rough with the students," said Arla DeHart, dean of students. "Instructors are willing to give the students help, that's what the office hours are for."

Dean DeHart says that cuts as they are now mean that while the instructors have the right to drop students for unauthorized absences, they are required to accept field trips from the college as excused absences.

It's getting to be a trite cliché now but Foothill College has a great future.

Footsies filled by French food

How does a Frenchman get his dinner at a Restaurant? Foothill's foreign language club found out in San Francisco.

Foothill College language club ventured to San Francisco last Friday night in order to visit the French Restaurant, Riplers and to see the show "Gigi." The students, led by Dr. Manuel Guerra, used the French language for ordering food, talking to waiters and participating in the folk singing for which the restaurant is noted.

The show Gigi was chosen after the scheduled French film was eliminated because of complications. Dr. Guerra, the club sponsor, is a language instructor at Foothill.

Technical program to be gov't financed

Dr. Nathan H. Boortz, director of technical education and Walter Wiebenson, two of Foothill officials attended a statewide meeting on an electronic data processing pilot program, in Los Angeles last Wednesday and Thursday.

Dr. Boortz and Wiebenson will direct the data processing program at Foothill College.

The National Defense Education act has approved a pilot program in data processing at Foothill College. The college will receive a federal grant of $3,000 for costs involved in setting up the program. Foothill will pay an estimated $2,124 for salaries and equipment.

Beckon the 'chillun', Ma, Foothill has family plan

by Dennis Britton

The administration set the standards, the students set the pace and the Siebenthal family gave the initials F.C. a dual meaning — Foothill College and family college.

The Siebenthal's of Sunnyvale turned their local junior college into a family college when Jesse, Corrine, Marian and Bob enrolled at Foothill.

Mr. Jesse Siebenthal, a retired naval officer, came to Foothill as a full time day student to increase his knowledge of an already familiar subject, electronics. Born in Texas, Jesse spent 30 years in Navy communication before he decided to retire. Other fields of interest he will explore this semester are history, health and speech. Jesse felt a little uneasy about coming to Foothill with no particular goal in mind aside from continuing his education. No doubt this reason is more than adequate.

Mrs. Corrine Siebenthal was born in Colorado and came to the F.C. campus for practical reasons. Being the woman in the household she is only taking one course this semester, with hopes of an increase in load when time permits. She feels office procedures will help her in her position as part time secretary for the Fair Oaks Park Baptist Church in Sunnyvale.

If you have ever wondered what a beauty operator's philosophy is, you were not alone in your search. Marian Siebenthal is a full time student at the Sunnyvale School of Beauty but when it came to philosophy she turned to a Foothill night class.

Marian is 18 a native of Virginia and a graduate of Fremont High school in Sunnyvale. Just trying Foothill out now Marian hopes to branch out in the future.

Bob Siebenthal is the veteran at Foothill. A 1955 graduate of Fremont also, Bob spent a year at San Jose state, retired from education for a while and then enrolled at Foothill last semester. Bob feels he has an iron clad excuse for being late with a family of four, all as busy as they are and a bathroom which is seldom vacant in the wee small hours. Bob is 22, an accounting major a member of the honor roll, and news editor on the F.S.

The question now is who helps who with home work.

Mental aid given to needy students

The first of a series of conferences on mental health began Monday here at Foothill. These conferences will be held weekly beginning March 2, and will continue until the end of the semester.

The conferences are planned to discuss all kinds of mental health problems which may arise on campus or in the classrooms. They also are to plan how to avert these situations before they arise and to prevent similar problems from recurring. Many school situations may be worked out by the conference staff so that the student may have a better adjusted school life.

The Santa Clara Mental Health Clinic is, one half, sponsored by Santa Clara County funds, the other half is paid by the State of California. This is an entirely new approach to the problem of mental health in the Santa Clara valley.

Students may talk to their counselors, who are a part of the mental health staff.

Dr. Mervyn Shoor, program chief, is the chairman of the conference. Those participating from Foothill are; Arla DeHart, Dr. O. B. Nereson, Dr. Murray Shipnuck, John Freemuth, Mrs. Ruth Bryant and Miss Jean Seavey.

Drama club quits, students say no go

According to Mike Wagner, President of the Drama club, the club will be discontinued because of the lack of student interest. As a result the play, Ten Little Indians by Agatha Christie will not be produced as previously scheduled unless there is sufficient interest shown in the production.

Some members of the club reportedly feel that the reason there is a lack of interest in the club is because of poor organization and dissension among the members. It has also been rumored that a major factor in the lack of interest has been a total lack of facilities.

15 students make dean's honor list

Fifteen Foothill College students made the Deans Honor Roll last semester, according to Arla DeHart, dean of students.

To qualify for the honor roll, a student must complete at least 12 units of college work with a B average or better.

The 15 students who made the honor Roll were:

New students mix at registration stomp

More than 120 people attended Foothill's first dance of the new semester, "Registration Mixer." The dance was held from 8 p.m. to midnight on Feb. 11th at the Cherry Chase Lanai Club. Music was provided by some of the top recording stars of the country, in the form of their best records.

The primary purpose of the dance was to give the new students a chance to meet the few remaining old students and other new students. "This was evidently accomplished," said Jim Johnson, commissioner of activities, "as a good percentage of the new students were in attendance. He added, "considering the last minute planning that went into the 'Registration Mixer' it was a miracle that the dance was as big a success as it was."

On the Tuesday before the dance, the student council decided it would be a good idea to have a mixer for the new students.

Foothill's skiers take to the snow

Foothill skiers took over the slopes at Soda Springs last weekend. The snow bunnies, boomers and expert skied through six inches of powder snow under overcast skies.

The ski patrol was kept busy carrying Doug Castle down from the top of the hill after he sprained his ankle, and the tow operators were also busy helping Linda Flores and Gloria Cesena on the T bar.

Skiing was brought to an abrupt stop the first day when it started to snow. With sore arms and legs, skiers retreated to the lodge for card games, food and soft beds.

After dinner many came to life and with a little encouragement instructors Don Fraser and Miss Helen Windham started a dance in the recreation room. Others with less energy played miniature pool and table bowling. At 11 p.m. the skiers deserted the room and made their way upstairs.

Monday morning skiers greeted clear skies and beautiful snow. They hurried out to the slopes to get all the skiing they could, but at 2 p.m. the loud-speaker called them in and it was time to leave.

Counselors Miss Joan Seavey and Arla DeHart busily loaded the students and baggage on the bus, and with a sigh of relief counted 37 brown faces and it was home James (or Tom, who was the bus driver.)

CAFETERIA CUPS TAKEN

Jim Jones, director of the Student Union said that if more than two dozen more cups are taken from the cafeteria, the price of coffee will be raised to 10 cents instead of 5.

St. Francis to be site of Christmas formal

Those of you who were disappointed with the accommodations and date of our Christmas Formal this year will be pleased to know that next year's dance has already been planned.

Mrs. Ruth Bryant, faculty advisor, said that in order to get the best of the large ball-rooms for the choice week-ends around Christmas time one must speak early.

Practicing what she preaches, she went to San Francisco two weeks ago and talked with managers of the Palace, Mark Hopkins, St. Francis, Sir Francis Drake and Fairmont hotels.

Arrangements have been made with the St. Francis hotel to rent their Italian Room on Saturday, Dec. 12, 1959 from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m.

NEW EDITORS CHOSEN

The Foothill Sentinel has selected the new editors for this semester.

Library obtains record players

Miss Betty Martin, head librarian, has announced the purchase of 4 record players for private listening. These record players are equipped with earphones, so that students may do assigned listening in the library. The sets were installed last week.

For the time being, only students who have courses with assigned listening for home work, such as music, shorthand, typing and foreign language, may use these. But if the demand is not too great, they will be available to anyone who wants to use them.

Many libraries have these players already, and they are said to be of a great help to students.

AS I SEE IT

BY BOB SIEBENTHALL

Fremont's and Sunnyvale's High School football teams were honored at the semester break by the Sunnyvale Lions Club. Foothill's own Coach Bill Abbey was the guest speaker at the annual banquet. Ironically he spoke on the importance of GOOD GRADES to the athletes in later years. He said, "Just try eating the football in a few years after you graduate!"

Charles Crampton, one of the recent additions to the coaching staff, will be leaving his Camden High School basketball squad in a blaze of glory. His team has had an amazing amount of success as it is currently riding on a 35 game winning streak covering two seasons.

In answer to Trustees Mary Levine's and Robert Peckham's request, Dr. Calvin Flint presented a report on the cost of the proposed football program for Foothill during the 1959-60 school year. The cost will be approximately $108,415. This figure includes bleachers, lighting, press box, rest room facilities, and operation expenses for varsity competition. Dr. Flint emphasized that this and any other figures released are all estimates.

Miss Helen Windham, director of the intramural program, urges all those with intentions of forming teams for intramural participation should start doing so now. She has entry blanks available for each team when it is assembled. Sports added to the program include men's football and men's and women's basketball.

Curling rink offers free games to ASFC

Foothill College students have been offered the opportunity to participate in the game of curling, free of charge, which has just been introduced to the West Coast by Dick Sherwin, a Canadian from Edmonton, Alberta. Curling is a fast game played on ice.

In this game two four-man teams compete against each other for ten innings or the time limit of two hours. The object of the game is to slide stones weighing 45 pounds toward the center of a bull's eye at the opposite end of the rink. In order to score one team must have their stone or stones closer to the center of the bull's eye than those of the other team. The captain of the team will stand on the bull's eye and direct each player on his team to where he wants the stone placed.

To keep the stone from falling short of the mark, members of the team with brooms sweep the frost in front of the stone curl, off the ice as the stone slows down.

Other uses of the broom include using it as a balance in throwing the stone and for use of the captain to direct the shot itself.

Except while delivering his own stones, the captain remains in the target area. There is where he plans strategy and directs his teammates shots, from there he can judge better than if he were away from the target.

As far as when curling had its origin, there is little known, although the Scottish people insist that the game got its start in Scotland. From Scotland the game was then brought over to Canada and introduced in Montreal in 1807. Canada introduced the game to the United States, in both the Eastern and Mid-Western areas, in fact Chicago has eight curling rinks alone. Its popularity grew to where there are over 500,000 Canadians and Americans curling today.

The Curling Rink is located at Alma Avenue and San Antonio road in Mountain View.

Marilyn Rauenhorst tops women bowlers

By Sheri Baldwin

Despite the rainy atmosphere outside, Foothill women competed for top bowling scores in the National Intercolligate Telegraphic Bowling Tournament at Cherry Bowl, Feb. 18th, which started the first tournament of three to be held.

These tournaments are open to women of all colleges and universities in the nation. The winning teams are printed in the Sports Booklet sponsored by the National Section on Girls and Womens Sports.

Bowlers in the preliminary two games were:

Marilyn Rauenhorst, who took top single game and series with a high 330 pins; Jill Shaffer and Jean Jope tied for a second place with a 294 pins for the series; Nancy Ostrom scored 281 pins for third place; Linda Franz, came in fourth with 263, while Diane Michelson, with 236, beat Caroleann Kosek by 12 pins for fifth place.

Caroleann, who's average falls in the 165's didn't do too well with her 225 pins for the day—but I guess all of us have had moments. . . .

Runners up were: Sally Goodell, 214 pins; Norma McMaster, 213; Sandy George, 211; Sue Woodward, 222; Gail Sipple, 196;

Joan Phillips, 191; and Gloria Paden with 170.

One of the tense moments during the second game, was when Marilyn, in the sixth frame, hit a strike and followed suit in the seventh, eighth, and ninth—her 10th was a spare. Her total five strikes for the game enabled her to win the highest single score of 179 in the tournament.

It looks like Marilyn, who claims she has only bowled a year, will continue to be among the finalists to further compete against the other co-eds of the nation.

If she continues her fine start, she could become recognized as either one of the top 10 individuals in the single game series, or one of the top in the two game series in the nation.

All in all the girls did fairly well, considering the unfamiliar alleys. However, the second tournament games to be held on March 18th will be held on more familiar alleys, the Sunnyvale Bowl. This second game should be a much better showing of Foothill's co-ed accuracy.

I expect to see Foothill send some winning scores to the tabulators in Ohio—and dazzle all other co-ed bowlers. . . . and us too. . . .
