

Crime: a product of our society

By DAVE JOHNSON
Sentinel Staff Writer

(Last of a three part series)

Crime, according to a recent Gallop Poll, is "viewed by the public as the top domestic problem facing the nation . . ."

In the first two articles in this series the Sentinel related this national problem to the situation at Foothill College. Secondly, the Sentinel presented population growth and the limited financial budget of Campus Police as factors in explaining local crime increases. A third important factor is the moral issue.

The Sentinel asked Dr. Calvin Flint, superintendent of the Foothill College District and Dr. Hubert Semans, president of Foothill College to comment on this factor. Both agreed that changes in the moral climate have helped to bring about an increase in crime.

"A laxity in our moral thinking," Dr. Flint stated, "has created an amoral attitude towards dishonesty. We are the most affluent society that has ever existed, and this affluency has changed our values."

This change has resulted in a shift in attitude from a clearly defined right or wrong to such rationales as, "I'm not stealing, society owes it to me," and "Nothing is going to happen to me if I get caught."

Dr. Semans places part of the blame for this shift on the permissiveness of parents and other authorities. "Inconsistencies in discipline have created a situation where young people are looking for leadership and values and instead are victimized by permissiveness."

Semans suggested that the theories of Dr. Spock are examples of this leniency. Spock's doctrine of not punishing children has been recently criticized by author Norman Vincent Peale for contributing to the growth of civil unrest in America.

Another facet of the moral issue is the lack of individual concern toward crime problems and the resulting lack of personal responsibility.

"People have lost personal interest in the commonweal," Semans believes. It used to be that each citizen participated in controlling crime. Semans gave the example of towns in early England where each member of the community stood a fire and police watch each month. Now, Semans pointed out, "We have experts to deal with these problems." As a result, people are concerned with "their own affairs" and not those of the community as a whole.

Localizing this attitude, Semans stated that "we should become less selfish at Foothill. We should not mind our own business where crime is concerned. We should take the time to become involved."

Dr. Flint agrees. He believes the crime situation at Foothill can be virtually eliminated through a combination of student concern and administrative action.

"Every student should be a participant in controlling crime," Flint stated, "and the administration should search the budget for money to provide more surveillance on campus."

Positive steps towards a realization of Flint's first point are indicated by a committee appointed on March 12, by the ASFC, to examine the Campus Police department. The committee hopes to discover ways to make the police department a more effective organization.

The administration has not yet taken any definite or positive action to stop crime at Foothill.

Violinist Ashkenasi to play at FC

Young Israeli violinist Shmuel Ashkenasi will appear in concert at the College Theatre on Saturday, March 16, at 8:15 p.m.

Although only 27 years old, this artist has attracted worldwide attention since 1962, when he won the Second Prize at the Second International Tchaikowsky Competition.

Ashkenasi began musical studies in Israel at the age of eight. In 1955 he went to the Curtis Institute in Philadelphia to study with the great violinist Efrem Zimbalist.

It was Zimbalist who entered Ashkenasi in the Tchaikowsky Competition. The young artist's second place award resulted in a tour of the Soviet Union, Israel, and Europe. During the current year he will tour extensively in Europe and the United States.

At the Foothill concert, Ashkenasi will play works by Schubert, Bartok, Bach, Ernest Bloch, and Niccolo Paganini.

The Ashkenasi concert is the next-to-last in the 1967-68 Fine Arts Series of the Foothill College District. Tickets are available from the De Anza and Foothill box offices for $3, $2.50, and $2.

The Freshman election, held last Tuesday, March 12, was inconclusive because none of the candidates received a majority of the votes. Only 78 votes were cast. Bill McAlister received 35 votes; Bart Connolly 34 votes; and there were 9 write-in votes. (For further remarks on the election see the editorial on page 2.)

Council allots $18,000 for public events

Last Tuesday, Mar. 12, the ASFC Student Council alloted $18,324.75 for the '68-'69 public events budget.

Objections, that this allotment should be held until all budget requests could be examined, were subordinated by contracts and deadlines which must be fulfilled in the near future.

The council was again approached with a proposal to earmark funds for executive salaries. President Rich Chapman suggested that a salary of $50 a month be paid to both the president and to the vice-president, and that $25 a month be given to each of the Executive Council members.

Several objections were raised to this precedent-setting proposal. Chapman noted that it might be unadvisable for ASFC officers to allot themselves a stipend. No decision has yet been reached.

Rally Commissioner, Matt Cusimano noted several inadequacies of Foothill's Campus Police. He said that much of their time is spent turning lights on and off, and he suggested that the janitors would be more appropriate for the job. A committee was appointed to examine the situation.

Trustees limit foreign students

The number of foreign students in the Foothill Junior College District (FJCD) will be reduced to one per cent of the total enrollment as a result of action taken by the Board of Trustees on March 4.

The action came on the recommendation from a Citizens Committee which assists with the foreign students.

The committee's specific recommendations included (1) a reduction of the District's foreign students to one per cent over a 2-3 year period, (2) encourage foreign students to enroll in the two-year technical and vocational programs, and (3) try to attract foreign students from educationally deprived areas of the world.

There are approximately 500 students enrolled in classes for English as a foreign language at the Foothill and De Anza Campuses, but only the 123 attending on student visas would be affected by the cut-back. Twenty-one of the 123 attended De Anza. Those who are in the United States on immigration visas and those under other circumstances, such as wives of local citizens, comprise the bulk of foreign students, but are unaffected by the change in policy. Foreign students currently make up 1.8 per cent of the FJCD total enrollment.

Viet film coming

Do you want a picture of North Viet-Nam? It is said that a picture is worth a thousand words, and the Constitutionalists Club will provide it with Felix Green's film 'Inside North Viet-Nam' to be shown March 17, at 8 p.m. in the Foothill Auditorium.

"This is an intent to show the other side of the war. It is very revealing about the people of North Viet-Nam and what the war means to them," said Jacqui Doyle, Constitutionalists member.

Music, drama and dance will collaborate on festival

Foothill's Fine Arts Festival will be held March 28-30 in the College Theatre.

The Festival is made up of three parts—music, drama and dance. "The main emphasis of the Festival will be on dance," said dance instructor Judith Gerson. She promises a diversified program entirely choreographed by her students.

Included in the program is "The Game" a dance adaptation of The Lord of the Flies, "P≠L" a dance done to electronic music, "L'amour Est Bleu," and a Swahili dance done to a chant.

The drama section of the program consists of two one act plays by Tennessee Williams. The first of these is Hello From Bertha. It takes place in a bedroom in "the Valley—" a notorious section along the river-flats of East St. Louis. The second is This Property is Condemned. It takes place on a railroad embankment at the outskirts of a small Missouri town on one of those "milky white mornings" peculiar to that part of the country.

The music section of the program will be both instrumental and vocal. There will be an instrumental quintet consisting of Rebecca Bazarich, Cynthia Torres, Terry Holden, Kelly West and Royleayne Slayde. The vocal group performing is the Madrigal Singers.

Tickets are currently on sale at the Foothill College Box Office at $1.50 for the public and $1 for students.

Orchestras to merge at FC

The Fourth Annual Northern California Junior College Orchestra Festival will be held at Foothill College Friday, Mar. 22.

The aim of the Festival is to provide Junior College music students in Northern California with an opportunity to study and perform under the direction of Stanley Chapple, a renowned conductor. The Festival is part of a statewide program designed to upgrade, encourage, and promote orchestra and music programs in California Junior Colleges.

One hundred twenty six students from 12 Northern California junior colleges are expected to attend. The students will hold rehearsals for an evening concert from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. The rehearsals will be open to the public.

John Mortarotti, chairman of the fine arts division at Foothill, encourages all interested students to attend and take advantage of the opportunity to observe an excellent conductor.

Stanley Chapple, founder and conductor of the Festival Opera Company in Seattle, Wash., will conduct the students. Chapple has been the guest conductor of major European and United States orchestras. Leonard Bernstein, to mention one of many musicians, studied under Chapple.

Cynthia Torres, Beverly Glover, and Donald Perez are a few of the 19 Foothill students who will participate in the Festival.

The Festival is open to all interested students. Those wishing to participate in next year's Festival should contact their music instructor at their college for further information.

New landscaping at Foothill; winds blow trees, skirts, & litter

Gale winds reaching upwards of 40 mph raced across the Foothill Campus last Tuesday. The powerful gusts blew down several trees, and strewn litter into every corner of the Campus.

The wind, which brought on heavy rains, was responsible for a power failure lasting about twenty minutes. Whitecaps were reported on the swimming pool, and the strong blasts raised havoc with co-ed skirts.

Except for the destruction of three pine trees and the loss of student notes, little serious damage was evident.

Don't stall

This week the Sentinel is concluding its series on crime at Foothill. In the past three weeks we have tried to make the students and administration aware that a more efficient security system is needed on Campus.

We hoped to shock into action those who can do something about the problem. We did to some extent. A student, Jim Longnecker, suggested police telephones in the parking lots. The ASFC Council has formed a committee to investigate possible means of increasing Campus Police efficiency. Students are obviously concerned; they are the primary targets of the thefts.

The administration, too, appears to be concerned. They are discussing the causes of the crimes. The discussions are good, but so far the only thing that seems to have come from the administration is a condemnation of student morals.

It is of little use to bemoan a crook's morals. However, measures can be taken to thwart criminal acts. Rather than passing the buck to student morals or other causes, the administration should develop a means to prevent crimes. We are waiting to see what will be done.

Oust (??) foreign students

Finally, Foothill College is going to gain a degree of autonomy. Not much to be sure, but it is a start. How is this to be accomplished? Why, the Board of Trustees is going to reduce the number of foreign students in the Foothill Junior College District on the recommendation of the Citizens Committee. Good move. The foreign students don't pay tuition fees, and are just a drain on District funds. Besides that, we don't want our College overrun by foreigners.

We don't heed the foreign students. They are in a definite minority (only about two per cent of the FJCD total enrollment at present), so we should keep them in their place. The best way to do this is to cut their number in half—hold them around one per cent. The Trustees are doing this for us.

And the hardships these students must surmount to gain an education are so small they don't even matter. The International League, a benevolent organization, provides assistance in abundance. They help the foreigners find a place to live, and sometimes even a place to work. That's enough. Just because they don't receive government aid is no reason to go off the philanthropic deep end.

Yes, Foothill College will gain autonomy from all that unnecessary cultural enrichment foreign students bring to us, and we can completely disregard Good Neighbor policies between their governments and ours.

Next the Trustees should amend Foothill's motto to read: EDUCATIONAL OPPORTUNITY FOR ALL (subject to change).

Yea.....

Guess who is a member of student government.

On Tuesday, March 12, the ASFC Elections Committee held a special election for the office of freshman class president. This election was invalid.

The Sentinel knows of at least five sophomores who voted in the "so-called" freshman election. In such an election, it is possible that our new freshman president would not be legal. Would he really have won by votes of the freshman class? On the other hand would the loser really have lost by a vote of his classmates? These questions must be asked and thought over.

The idea of invalid officers through illegal elections contributes to the Sentinel's feelings that student government at Foothill is many times Mickey Mouse. Elections in the future should use IBM class print-outs or possibly student body cards can be marked according to class.

Again, student government's mouse ears are growing. They must be stopped.

Common Man's Column

'Avanti, it's your baby, do or die'

By MARVIN SNOW

Foothill is finally joining the underground movement. A few of our more literate individuals on Campus feel that the Sentinel is falling down on the job. Too bad the California Newspaper Publishers Association doesn't feel that way. They felt the Sentinel was doing an excellent job when they gave the paper the General Excellence Award, Junior College Division.

Apparently these intellectual throwbacks feel a newspaper should provide more art than news, that our more artistic writers should be given the opportunity to have their work printed more often.

Some of the more idiotic comments I have heard from this clique make as much sense as their claim that the Fairly Free Thinker is an objective political magazine giving equal weight to both sides of a story. Talk about a credibility gap, the one thing the Thinker is incapable of doing is walking the middle of the road. It might sway and stagger a little to the right, but it's definitely stuck in a left-handed rut.

For those who don't know who is behind the Avanti idea, it's Don Manthey and a few of our more excitable English instructors. Apparently they have forgotten an another Avanti idea. Remember the car Studebaker put out about five or six years ago. It was a good idea, but priced out of the market. It priced Studebaker out, too.

To put it mildly, the Avanti won't work. There is only one person who knows what's going on, and she has never worked for a paper. The rest of our enlightened geniuses are in the dark. You can't put out a paper without an experienced staff. It is crazy even to attempt it. However, comments from some of the brighter individuals feel that the Sentinel will be more than happy to assist them.

I think the Sentinel's point of view should be: "Avanti, it's your baby, do or die, but don't get us involved. We have enough problems without assuming someone else's lashups."

It is easy to predict what will happen. That one person will end up doing all the work while the rest sit around, thinking. I have seen it happen before. The ones with the ideas are the laziest. They feel they have done their part, and can now sit back and rest on their laurels. Actually, all they get is a secretary spread, (even in the head).

My advice to the Avanti staff is forget the Avanti for a few semesters. Take a few courses in journalism to gain experience and knowledge. Then start the Avanti.

I look for one printing of Avanti, possibly two, then a quick and silent death, but a well deserved one.

'The Resistance' helps seek draft deferments

By TIM REGEHR
Sentinel Staff Writer

During the summer of 1967, 13 close friends formed a new political party with the simple name "The Resistance." The group had been living together since that spring in a communal residence in Palo Alto. Since living together, the members of the commune had decided that the best way to express their political views was by incorporating them into their everyday life patterns. Their philosophy of life and politics became one.

On Tuesday, March 5, Stuart McRae, one of the original members of the Resistance, spoke before a crowd of about fifty students and faculty members at Foothill, in F-1. His audience was receptive, and apparently had some knowledge of the subject, for there were few irrelevant questions asked during the question period which followed his speech. McRae gave the audience much information concerning the Resistance, its organization, and its plans for the future. During December of last year he served a jail term of 25 days for his political views.

It was stated that the purpose of the Resistance is to change the system that is running the country. After the Vietnamese war, the Resistance will continue. At present, their method of accomplishing this change is through the draft. Their view is that the tactics of an imperialistic United States must change, or a third world war will develop. The Resistance is trying to instigate this change.

Before forming the Resistance, most of the original members had some kind of draft deferment. They were in no danger of being drafted, but they realized that there were many others who were being drafted because they did not know how to play the draft deferment game. The situation was simple. Those who didn't have deferments didn't know how to get them, and didn't know any other way to avoid the draft. Those that had deferments didn't want to help those without. Therefore, the Resistance is mainly the "haves" helping the "have-nots."

Concerning the present social stigma attached to draft resisters, McRae predicted that it would be considered a "credential" in future peaceful years.

The Resistance has many anti-draft activities planned for this year, including demonstrations at the Oakland Induction Center and at the Federal Building in Oakland.

"The Rise and Fall of the Third Reich," William L. Shirer's famous book on Nazi Germany, will be presented in a filmed version in three parts. The series, which was taped from the ABC production, will be presented in F-12 during College Hour on Tuesday, March 19, Thursday, March 21, and Tuesday, March 26. The series is a presentation of the Speech Department. (Sentinel video-photo by Chuck Shawver)

Social customs violated

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This week's article, the third in a five-part series, deals with Vietnamese social customs and medical problems.)

By RANDY LOCKE

Ho-Quang-Nhan, a fourth year medical student, had migrated from Hanoi with his family in 1954.

His father, who is also a doctor, owns property in Hanoi but is no longer certain if he can claim it. Many of his family's relatives and friends still reside in the Hanoi area but, according to the student, neither his family nor their friends in North Viet-Nam are corresponding.

This latter fact takes on special significance when one realizes that the primary social outlook of the Vietnamese revolves around family and village. These claim first allegiance. Members of a family have an absolute obligation — to be violated only at the risk of dishonor — to care for their relatives and to protect them from want. Even after a girl marries, her love and respect for her parents traditionally overshadows her love and respect for her husband.

The traditional family unit includes living and dead members and members not yet born. On festival days and in family ceremonies the ancestors are revered, and at all times there is thought of the grandsons and great-grandsons yet to be born who will carry on the family name.

The students who were meeting informally at the University of Saigon the evening we met Ho-Quang-Nhan would, if they completed their studies, become professional people. It is interesting to note that Vietnamese have always felt that a deep division exists between manual and "intellectual" labor. Traditionally, Vietnamese who have achieved positions with the Government as a result of long and patient study, or who have become doctors, teachers, etc., avoid using their hands for tasks they feel to be beneath them.

Customs, however, have been considerably modified. An example is the attitude toward marital arrangements. Since the purpose of marriage is to continue the family line, the parents believe that the selection of a proper wife for their son is a personal responsibility, a duty they owe to their ancestors and to their son and his future children.

Usually with the help of a "go-between," they search for a girl who is skillful at housework and who will be a good mother to many children. Beauty is not as desirable as good character; in fact, beauty is sometimes considered a disadvantage because the Vietnamese believe that fate seldom is kind to beautiful women.

Yet, women are assuming a new and important position in the life of the nation and many young men and women are breaking away from tradition to choose their own marriage partners.

* * *

We learned from Ho-Quang-Nhan that South Viet-Nam has only 200 physicians for over 16 million people. Life expectancy is 35 years. The medical problem in South Viet-Nam is tremendous. It is estimated that more than 10,000 civilians in South Viet-Nam have suffered amputations as a result of the war, Ho said, and Viet-Nam is believed to have been the chief cause of worldwide increases in cholera and plague a couple of years ago.

When I asked what aid was being given in this area, he replied that America has many Public Health Service teams in Viet-Nam and that these teams have been augmented by others from the Philippines, Australia, New Zealand, the Netherlands, Italy, and South Korea and by groups sent by United States voluntary agencies such as MEDICO, a service of CARE.

Ho appeared extremely familiar with Viet Nam's medical problem, and he seemed to know exactly what his role in the medical effort should be. He was somewhat distressed, however, that upon graduation from medical school he, like all qualified young people below 33 years, would face a military obligation that extended at least until the end of the war.

First GGC loss since '64; Olmos, Slack, lead Owl grapplers netters face CSM today to sixth place in State Tourney

With their season well underway, the Foothill netters are discovering the importance of depth in a game that can't be a one-man show. Last Friday, the Owls dropped their first league game since 1964, losing to Merritt College 4-3.

The Owls take on the College of San Mateo today at 2:30 in San Mateo.

Mark Elliott was the only singles winner for Foothill against Merritt, while the doubles team of Elliot-Sutton, and Parker-Newell both walked off with up-sets. Coach Chivington remarked that it was a "bad day," but noted that the team's big problem was the lack of experience in the lower spots.

The Owls are at home next week, meeting Oregon State on Tuesday, followed by a league game on Friday against Diablo Valley. Both contests will begin at 2:30 p.m.

Tickets for the Foothill All-Pro Tennis Tournament are on sale at the College Box Office. The cost is $3 for adults and $2.50 for students.

Bernie Olmos and Dick Slack placed second in their respective divisions to lead Foothill to a sixth place finish in the State wrestling tourney at Chabot last Saturday.

Olmos, wrestling at 115 pounds, was pinned by Ralph Gonzales of College of the Sequoias in the title match. The defeat ended a streak of over 100 victories for Olmos, who had not lost since his freshman year in high school.

Slack was beaten by Vic Kenworthy of Cerritos in the 145-pound championship match.

Heavyweight Rick Rosenquist was the only other Owl to place, taking a fifth. Dick Furuya, Larry Noon, and Cleve Holt failed to place in the competition.

San Bernadino College won the championship. Foothill and fourth place Chabot were the only Northern California teams that placed in the top six.

During the dual match season, Coach Jim Noon's predominantly freshman team compiled a 20-3-1 record, with a 10-2 mark in Golden Gate Conference action. The Owls finished second behind Chabot in the league.

High points of the season were a dual match win over Chabot and winning the Northern California Championship. The Owls' 23-19 victory over Chabot was the first-ever loss for the Gladiators on their home mat.

Tracksters to oppose CCSF

The Foothill tracksters hope to get on the winning side of the ledger tomorrow when they host the City College of San Francisco. The meet will get underway at 10 a.m.

Last Saturday afternoon, Foothill opened its GGC season with a loss to Contra Costa. The final score showed Contra Costa 84 and Foothill 52.

Foothill picked up four first places, with distance man Steve McLenegan capturing two of these. McLenegan had a winning time of 4:25.8 in the mile and 9:54 in the two mile.

Next Thursday, the tracksters host Diablo Valley at 3 p.m.

FC nine loses

Tomorrow afternoon the Foothill baseball squad will travel to Concord for a game against Diablo Valley. The game will begin at 1 p.m.

Yesterday Coach Al Talboy's squad faced Merritt College at Foothill and next Tuesday the baseballers host the College of San Mateo. CSM is regarded as one of the top teams in the league.

On Saturday, March 9, Foothill was beaten by Contra Costa, 4-3. This evened the Owls' league record at 1-1.

Ted Wallace led the Owl batters with two safeties. Both squads totaled seven hits.

Foothill swimmers dump CSM

Having destroyed conference opponent San Mateo, the Foothill swim team will take a well-deserved rest before its next competition on Mar. 23, against Palo Alto High.

Glen Finch and Ralph Hutton recorded double victories Tuesday to lead the Owls to an 80-24 swamping of College of San Mateo. Finch won the 100 and 200 yr. freestyles with respective times of 47.7 seconds and 1:54.0.

Hutton swam the 200 yd. individual medley in 2:06.6 and the 200 yd. butterfly in 2:01.7.

Last week in Southern California, the Owls bombed JC Powers College of the Sequoias and Pasadena City College by respective scores of 81-16 and 85-27. Foothill also scored a 68-45 win over UC Irvine.

Against Sequoias, Gary Dahle broke his own school record in the three meter diving with a score of 362.0. Dahle set the old record of 334.0 last year.
